Now the hard part. Organizing your activities to make the best possible use of the limited time you have available. Make sure you allow time for you, it may sound frivolous to include a half hour just for you in a busy schedule, but it may save your sanity. Start your plan by figuring out what is essential to your daily living. Meals, laundry, mending and general housekeeping usually fall into this category. Planning meals is probably your job. Try planning a week ahead and you can see more easily what groceries you will need and what preparation you can do in advance. Once you do that it is easier to decide who will do what. Husbands and children will fall into place if they know what you expect from them.

As for laundry and housekeeping, you don't have a corner on the market so teach other family members what it's all about. This is the fastest way to teach people to pick up after themselves. Try not to find fault in the way jobs are done. So what if the kids don't make beds as nicely as you do. Praise them a bit and they will be encouraged to try harder. Remember it is up to you to teach them to do things properly and then takes time. Work with praise and affection to develop mutual trust and respect.

So supermoms, the challenge is yours. You may be rewarded with the satisfaction of your job and your family!

Recreation Report

by Colleen Walker
Program Supervisor

News is out on the 1978 North Eastern Alberta Winter Games! This year the games are planned for February 24, 25, 26, 1979, the host community being Vermilion.

What exactly are the North Eastern Alberta Winter Games? The games are a function of the North Eastern Alberta Recreation Association. This association is comprised of professional recreation people, and lay people all who are interested in working together to promote and develop recreation in North Eastern Alberta. The games sponsored by the Association have been running for seven consecutive years and have been held in Lac La Biche, Lloydminster, Wainwright, Grand Center, St. Paul, and Fort McMurray.

The North Eastern Alberta has thirteen different areas; Fort McMurray, Lac La Biche, County of Lamont, Bonnyville, Cold Lake, St. Paul, Vermilion, Lloydminster, County of Minburn, County of Beaver, Wainwright, Two Hills, and Fort Chipewyan. A zone coordinator is chosen for every area, (thirteen zone coordinators) and one games coordinator is hired to organize and supervise the administration of the games. Again this year, I'll be acting as zone coordinator for our area. Please feel free to contact Colleen at 663-3730 to discuss the games.

What can you get involved with? Along with the established sports of badminton, basketball, broomball, cross-country skiing, ladies ice hockey, table tennis, and volleyball, two new sporting events, bowling and snowshoeing have been added to the list. In addition to these sporting events cultural activities including various dance and band groups, and art displays will take place.

I'm looking forward to this year's games. Last year when we went to Ft McMurray, we sent Kinsella's men's basketball team, Viking's men's broomball team, Ryley's men's volleyball team, and badminton players from Viking. I'm sure I can safely say that everyone had a good time.

Come on County of Beaver, let's join together and bring home twice as many medallions this year!!

News has come in from the Canadian Amateur Wrestling Association concerning their coaching certification program. This course is for all persons interested in acquiring a basic knowledge of amateur wrestling.

The level I clinic will take place December 15 and 16 at the University of Calgary. Level 11 will take place January 16 and 20 at the University of Alberta or Jan. [illegible] and Feb. 5 at the University of Calgary. Fee for all clinics is $10.

If interested, please contact our office at [illegible] for further information and registration procedure.

Care and Share presents "Prelude to Christmas"

by Grace Phillips

The sparkle of golds and silver tinsel, the flames of red, white, and green candles complemented the glittering silver Christmas tree in the Tofield Community Centre on Dec. 5 when the second annual "Prelude to Christmas" banquet was presented by Care and Share

Approximately 225 people were present to participate in this Christmas banquet served by the Vision Society, to hear the "One Accord" musical group, and to listen to the Rev Alfred Baldeo of St. James United Church, Edmonton

Miss Frieda Regehr welcomed the guests, led in the singing of "Joy to the World" and asked the blessing. After the banquet had been enjoyed and the Tofield Gospel Young People's group were quietly clearing away the dishes, a musical group, the One Accord, consisting of Ione Peterson, Gary [illegible] and John Knopp, performed. Their offering of Christmas carols, old and new, their sleigh bell accompanied "Winter Wonderland" and Mr. Ray's original "Poor Little Jesus" were enthusiastically received by the audience

Miss Regehr introduced Mr Baldeo who said he was a native Trinidadian whose grandfather had come from India Working as a translator for Christian missionaries, the grandfather had been converted to Christianity. Mr Baldeo introduced his wife, a native of Barrhead, Alberta, who spoke briefly

As the topic of his address, Mr. Baldeo posed the questions; What is life? What are you living for? In pursuit of an answer to his question, Mr Baldeo considered the accumulation of wealth, acquiring an education and the seeking of pleasure and/or [illegible]

He felt that modern society has gone overboard in constantly looking for pleasure [illegible].

Our priorities are wrong when the guest for pleasure becomes the main goal of life.

Riches, too, are not the answer. In affluent Alberta where incomes are high, the suicide rate and the divorce rate are unusually high He spoke of the dangers of regarding wealth as the goal of life "You can't take it with you" he said. "Hearses don't pull U—hauls"

Education, important as it is, is not the sole answer to life's problems. Education can be misused and "a merely well-informed man is the most boring person on earth " It is how a person's education is put to use in character development that is important.

Mr Baldeo concluded that the answer to the question with which he began his talk is "He that has the Son has life; [illegible] life."

[illegible] ce to celebrate Christmas by accepting Christ for, "Christmas without Christ is an exercise in futility "

Holden Theatre opens with Christmas evening

by Mrs. G. H. Taylor

Saturday evening was a gala evening for Holden and District when the old Holden Theatre, which has been newly renovated, held its opening night with a Community Concert, sponsored by Holden and District Chamber of Commerce

Ben Lutz was the genial master of ceremonies for the occasion

The theatre was filled to capacity with an overflow crowd packed into the foyer with residents from around the County of Beaver attending

The following is the program of local talent, opening with "O Canada" accompanied by the band

Viking Stage Band - including the Holden Band, played the following selections. Jesus Christ Super Star, Can't Help Falling in Love; Sweet Caroline; and Rock around the Clock, and other Christmas selections

Holden Grade Four Class presented a play entitled "When Christ was born"

Holden and District Community Choir sang See the Winter Snow, Go Tell it on the Mountain, and Silent Night

Holden Brownie Troop presented This little Brownie Light of Mine

[illegible] sang She'll Be Commin', Gospel Train, Goodbye Summer, and Yum Ba Yah

Holden United Church Religion Class presented The Little Drummer Boy, C-H-R-I-S-T-M-A-S and Silver Chain of Christmas

Girl Guide Troop of Holden presented a skit entitled "Desperate Billy "

Tetsu Tsukamoto, who is the very talented Japanese exchange student at Holden High School, did Arabanque I and Santa Claus is coming to Town

The last item on the program was the Holden H.S. English 10 Class with a play entitled "Perambulating Pie".

The program closed with God Save the Queen.

Legislated morality

Alberta's citizens seem to be facing the Puritans of early New England, who are intent on legislating new moralities in our communities.

We've gone through some of the ridiculous requirements of the human rights legislation, the landlord and tenants legislation, the fair trade and advertising regulations, and now suddenly people across the province are bumping into new laws and regulations governing lotteries, gambling, carnivals and so on.

If memory serves correctly, the ministers, and probably the departmental officials, were concerned over the opportunity for mafia or organized crime groups to move in and make big profits in Alberta's booming economy. And Albertans generally didn't want to see this happen, either. Obviously, if big profits are skimmed off by the racketeers, there would be less for Albertans to share.

But all across the province small local groups and charities have financed their local operations, over decades, by raffle tickets, by bingos, by lotteries big and small, by tickets on the "Queen" of the carnival, or the frolic, or whatever the celebration.

Arenas, Scout and Guide groups, Air Cadets, bands, fancy skating groups, museums, playgrounds, swim pools, even special education classes have been financed in part by such operations.

But suddenly, community groups are finding it incredibly hard to gain permission to conduct their operations legally. Permission is being denied for the flimsiest of excuses, or no excuse. Some groups, even, are told they're not making a sufficiently large profit. . . that they're giving away too large a proportion of the total receipts. Others are told they can't charge expenses against the total receipts . . . . these must be contributed by the club.

We'll admit there can be unreasonable administration charges, there can be diversion of funds, there can be misrepresentation. There's hardly an aspect of life not open to some abuse. But in the case of thousands of these small lotteries by 4-H groups, by Lions, Kinsmen, and similar clubs, by church groups or historical societies, there isn't any room for fraud, nor even the desire. They are run by devoted members whose major interest lies in prospering some local activity, rather than in pocketing a paltry number of dollars, an activity, which, incidentally would be observed and reported by all their associates.

Protests are streaming in from everywhere, and a new group is being organized in Calgary to foster and focus the discontent of groups across the province, so that the protest will be heard in a more organized fashion by the lawmakers.

In framing their new regulations, the government has gone overboard, and seemingly lost touch with objectivity, and with the people. This is one more instance, we would bet, where there will be softening amendments.

Anyone care to start a pool (if it's legal, of course) on the outcome of the next provincial election?

Carol festival is a hit

by Marlene Sinclair

The annual Tofield Christmas Carol Festival was held in the Community Hall on Sunday evening.

The theme this year was "Celebration" and a celebration it was with ten choirs, a ventriloquist and the Tofield School Band led by Wolfgang Oeste, and accompanied by Larry Pederson and Shaun Sinclair.

Rev. John Unrau welcomed everyone and Rev. David Moddle led the audience in some carol singing.

The Tofield Mennonite Ladies Choir, led by Marlene Unrau, started the program with a reading and songs, followed by the Tofield Mennonite Sunday School singing two lively songs directed by Beth Kope.

Rev. Reg Bennett, along with two others, read the Christmas story.

The Salem Mennonite Choir then sang two songs directed by James Boettger, followed by the Tofield School Band.

The United Church Choir led by Rev. David Moddle sang two songs followed by the Lutheran Church Adults and Children's Choir and a vocal duet by Shiela Wilkerson and [illegible].

An offering was taken, and prayer was led by Rev. Carl Hansen. The monies from this offering will go to the Mennonite Central Committee to be distributed around the world.

The program then continued with the Tofield Gospel Church Choir, directed by Martin Hamm singing two carols. Following this, the Tofield Baptist Church were represented by a ladies' trio.

Then a special treat for the children, when a ventriloquist, Gibb Ellefson and his dummy Chester, gave a dialogue called "The Christmas List". He had the whole audience thoroughly enjoying themselves.

The Catholic Church Choir was led by Dorothy Sewchuk and they followed "Mr Gibbs" with two carols.

The newly formed Good News Community Church of Ryley then took part by singing some carols followed by Heather Rudzcki, Nancy Neufeld and Jim Warner in a skit called "Angels Eye View".

The Mass choir, led by James Boettger, was the crowning finale. In this final song they lit candles and sang "Silent Night" and "To Us a Child of Hope is Born". The benediction was given by Rev. Len Sogge.

Others helping in this festival were Aino Jensen on sound and Arnold Swift, Oscar Epp and Larry Faushaug as ushers.

McMullen is head

by Bea Fredericks

At the annual meeting of the Bruce Agricultural Society held in the Recreation Centre on December 5, Stewart McMullen was re-elected as president.

Peter Miciak retains the office of vice-president and Mary Hammermaster replaces Bea Fredericks as secretary-treasurer.

Elected for three-year terms were Board Members Hank Field, Bud Hammermaster and Dennis Gahr.

They, along with Edna Stefanik, Roy Erickson, Anne Motkoski, Judy Kalita, Paul Malowany and Irvin Berkholtz make up the 1979 Board.

The senior men's curling playdowns will be held here in early January and the farmers' bonspiel will go from December 11 to 17 with 22 rinks entered.

A donation of $100 will be made to the Women's Institute to assist with the annual children's Christmas party.

Caretakers for the ice are Bruce Kawaliak and Jim Tkaczyk and janitorial duties will be shared by Judy Kalita, Myrna Curtis and Paul Chrystian.

"FULLER DESCRIPTION"

213, Cottonwood Ave.
Sherwood Park,
T8A 1Y2.
Nov. 30, 1978.

Mr. Ed Clinton, Editor,
The Tofield Mercury,
Main Street
Tofield, Alberta

Dear Mr. Clinton,

My attention was drawn to the article on the Holden Sea Cadets in the September 28th issue of the Tofield Mercury and it has been suggested that your readers might also be interested in a fuller description of the work done in developing a Navy League Camp at Hastings Lake over the past few years.

In the course of my helping establish the Navy League Corps in Sherwood Park, Col. E.W. Cormack was invited to have the Corps named after him. In turn a number of Corps Officers and Branch Members were invited to form 'N' Troop within the Legion of Frontiersmen in Alberta and help develop a Cadet Camp site at the Field H.Q. of the Legion of Frontiersmen at Fort Scott on Hastings Lake. This 190 acre bush property fronting on the lake has been owned by the Frontiersmen since the 1920's and the Cenotaph on Hwy. 14 is a memorial to members of the L.F. who served in W.W.I. and W.W.II.

After initial experimentation with Navy League camps located within the old L.F. buildings and Cormack Hall, the decision was made to allot a 5 acre portion of the property for the creation of a self contained Navy League Cadet Camp completely on its own. With Department of National Defence equipment an access road was driven in and this year, helped by Contractors, two Bunkhouses and a Wash Car from an old 'oil patch' camp site were purchased with funds from the Royal Canadian Naval Association and skidded into position before the snows arrived. A mobile trailer donated by the Edmonton Rotary Club is also at the Camp and the site for 'N' Troop cabin, funded by a handsome donation, awaits the extension of electrical power to the camp area and the relocation of the Diner-Cookhouse Unit. A boat shed and jetty will hopefully complete the basics of the camp in the summer of 1979. Two sailing boats donated by the Naval Officers Association are used for Cadet training.

While the camp has been created primarily for the Navy League Cadets and Wrenettes plus the junior Sea Cadets, Army and Air Force Cadets have been invited to also use the camp site. The Northern Alberta Division have overall responsibility for the funding, construction and operation of the Camp Site together with a Regatta sailing course on the lake.

In 1979 we should see the Camp coming into full operation. An open house day is planned when interested parents from the Tofield and Holden areas can be afforded an opportunity to visit the Camp.

Yours very truly,
Edward M. Silver, P. Eng.

RCMP answer complaints

Despite the approaching festive season, it was another busy week for members of the Tofield RCMP Detachment, who responded to a total of forty-three complaints.

Investigations are being undertaken into reports of drivers stunting around Holden School last week. Two windows in the school were broken by flying stones.

Two males from Tofield are being charged with wilful damage after windows and a gas pump at Ryley Motors was damaged on Friday.

Two juvenile males from Ryley will be charged after they reportedly tried to break into a number of cars in Ryley. Both were apprehended after RCMP officers were able to track them in the fresh snow to their residences.

The owner of a dog will be charged under a Tofield bylaw after the dog was reported to have bitten two young boys, causing minor injuries. The dog is presently being held.

A pistol stolen from the Tofield area four years ago has been turned into the RCMP at Westlock. It was handed in during the firearm amnesty program and Westlock RCMP traced its owner.

RCMP investigated a highway accident on Friday when a propane truck overturned two miles west of Paulson Store. There were no injuries in the mishap and none of the propane escaped.

Raymond Earl Gustavson was placed on a twelve-month probation period following six charges of break, enter and theft in the Tofield and [illegible] areas.

Antonia Salvatore Arena had his driver's license suspended for two months and was fined $75 after he was reported to have gone through a stop sign and allegedly [illegible].

Arthur Anderson was fined a total of $50 on two charges of common assault while Anita Michelle Erickson was fined $50 for a minor being in a bar.

Shopping urged for fire alarms

According to enquiries received by the Department of Consumer and Corporate Affairs, consumers are [illegible] an increasing interest in fire-warning equipment.

This equipment is currently being sold on a door-to-door basis in Alberta. If the salesman uses any type of scare tactic beware, this may not be the best purchase. The best way to shop is to compare prices and quality, so don't be in a hurry. Similar devices are also sold through local retailers, so have a look.

There are two types of [illegible] smoke detectors and heat detectors. Heat detectors require heat to activate them with the obvious danger that fire could be in an advanced stage by the time the alarm sounds. Smoke detectors are actived by a smouldering type of fire or smoke. Smoke travels quickly, so such an early warning alarm could give occupants time to react.

Smoke detectors as well as heat detectors may be used individually (as a single station device) or as part of a system. The system could consist of a combination of devices designed to detect flame, heat [illegible].

If you intend to use a single device, it should definitely be installed outside the bedroom area of your home. Remember that the effectiveness of a device will be sharply reduced by poor location.

Also, be sure that the smoke detector you buy has a label of the Underwriters Laboratory of Canada. This signifies that the device has met the standards set down by U.L.C.

Remember, if you are thinking about fire detection equipment for your home, be sure to shop around.

Holden and district news

Mrs. G. H. Taylor

On Dec. 6th, Holden Lodge Order of the Royal Purple entertained senior citizens of Holden at a Christmas social afternoon, with about 29 senior citizens of Holden and district attending in spite of blustery weather. Several games of bingo were played with small prizes given to the winner of each game. Those present offered congratulations to George H. Tayler who was celebrating his 88th birthday that day.

After the games, lunch was served by the ladies. Otto Hurum, vice-president of the Holden senior citizens club, on behalf of all attending, thanked the laadies for the pleasant afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Taylor, with Aaron, Saylor and her friend, Donna Jacubec of Viking were Wednesday evening visitors last week with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. G.H. Taylor to offer their congratulations to Robert's father who was celebrating his birthday. The Brian Taylors of St. Albert also phoned with birthday greetings.

John Zyla of Mundare, father of Mrs. John Halabut, passed away on Dec. 1st at the age of 77 years. He is survived by his wife, Annie; two sons, Paul of Edmonton and Ernest of Mundare; one daughter, Mrs. John (Susan) Halabut of Holden; ten grandchildren; one [illegible], Rhonda, one brother, Harry of Mundare; and one sister, Mrs. Ann Manowski of Edmonton. He was predeceased by his [illegible], and six brothers. Prayer service was held Dec. 4th and Requiem Mass was held on Dec. 5th, 1978 at Saints Peter and Paul Ukrainian Catholic Church, Mundare, with the Basilian Fathers, OSBM, being the celebrants and interment was in the church cemetery.

Mrs. Olive Good was over to Leduc for a couple of days last week, visiting with Lars Ritland who is still a resident in the nursing home there.

A number of Holden residents went to Bruce on Friday evening, taking in the turkey bingo held in the Community Hall.

The Pioneer Group met for their monthly meeting on Dec. 7th at the home of Mrs. Mary Hooper. Mrs. G.H. Taylor was in charge of devotions. The minutes of the November meeting held at the home of Mrs. Taylor were read and approved. Mrs. Pearl Allan was a visitor at the meeting. The ladies were advised that a former long-time member of the Pioneer and Friendship groups, Mrs. Sinne McLennan, who had been a resident at the Killam Auxiliary Hospital for the past few years, had passed away on December 5th. A Christmas card and greetings were received from a former member, Mrs. Rose Reader, now a resident of Edmonton. The meeting closed with a hymn and the Jewish Benediction. It was decided that a meeting would not be held in January. The February meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. [illegible] Campbell on Feb. 1st.

The Friendship Group will meet on December 21st at the home of Mrs. Campbell. A lunch was then served by Mrs. Hooper's daughter, Mrs. Ruby Benson, and a social hour was enjoyed.

Mr. and Mrs. Brian Taylor and family of St. Albert were Saturday afternoon guests with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. G.H. Taylor.

Mrs. Olive Good was over to Leduc on the weekend taking part in the choir which [illegible] putting on a concert at [illegible] Nursing Home there.

CHRISTMAS REALITY

Christmas is not only a holiday, a calendar date, an historical event that took place 1978 years ago, but is meant to be a personal experience of every living person. Each year Christmas interrupts our regular activities and invades our homes, schools, shops, stores, churches, even our whole nation. Everywhere, fancy decorations, bright lights, countless gifts, toys, cards, sweets and food, by their very presence, crowd themselves upon us. In our days, when frills and trivialities are being highlighted, we are in danger of pushing the very object and reality of Christmas into obscurity. Christmases are costing more, and meaning less.

While the exterior things of Christmas do have something to be said in their favor, the sparkle of tinsel, the fragrance of the pine tree and the taste of sweets and food, are but at best momentary thrills. Even the joys received from gifts and giving exhilerate us only temporarily. These are but the external wrappings of the real gift. They are merely the shell and not the kernel. They constitute the frame but not the picture. They are only the visible envelope of the real message. A shallow approach easily succumbs to Santa and the exterior paraphernalia and misses the central meaning, the essential reality of Christmas itself. Even the churches must accept some of the blame for trivializing and compromising, for focusing more attention on the wrappings than the gift of God Himself.

Christmas is a factual and historical reality. Everytime we write 1978 on our cards, letters and documents, we acknowledge the birth of Jesus Christ. His birth, life, death and resurrection are more completely documented, have more recorded proof than those of Caesar, Shakespeare, Plato or even Churchill. While it is a mystery how "The Word became flesh", just how God was reduced to the "Capsule size of man", how the Almighty was poured into the body of a little babe, yet His teachings and life proved it to be a true reality. The message of the angels was no myth, no dream, but a divine truth. "I bring you good tidings of great joy, which shall be to all people, for unto you is born this day in the city of David, a Saviour, which is Christ the Lord." Christmas, for Christ, was to experience humanity; for man to experience Christmas, he must experience divinity, even Christ.

Christmas without Christ in it, is like a beautifully wrapped box, complete with ribbon and bow, but without the Gift in it. Such a Christmas is empty of its true meaning. Without Christ our Yuletide celebrations are mere empty "masses". Without the Christ-child, there is no Saviour; without Him, there is no Salvation.

Christ is what Christmas is all about. It is His coming to earth, His becoming man. It is His birthday. The real Christmas happiness and joy is because of Him and the salvation he has brought. "You shall call his name Jesus for he shall save his people from their sins." Math 1:21.

The real joy of Christmas can come only to that person who has experienced the purpose of this great event, who has by the grace of God, received forgiveness, who has been saved from his sins through Jesus, "for there is no other name given - by which we must be saved."

May this Christmas be real and meaningful for you!

Saddle Sores have meetings

by Marlene Sinclair and Kathy Hisey

The Ryley 4-H Saddle Sores met on Nov 14 at the home of Grace Albrecht began with a total of 16 members present.

Grace gave a demonstration on harnessing and members are looking forward to a sleigh ride which will take place in the near future. Mrs. Albrecht also demonstrated on how horses should be driven. Goals were discussed and a lunch was later served.

The next meeting was held on Nov 28 at the Hisey home with 14 members attending.

The Christmas party was discussed and it was decided that it would be held on Dec. 10 at the Sinclair farm. There was also a demonstration on grooming and each member had an opportunity to groom a horse, which helped out the Hisey kids in their grooming. Lunch was later enjoyed by all.

The next meeting on Dec 10 was the Christmas party and it was a huge success with 20 members and 10 others present.

Everyone enjoyed a ride by hay rack to the pond for skating where a huge fire was lit and bales were set around for seats.

Later, we returned to Sinclairs for a weiner roast in their fireplace and a piece of cake made by Darlene Helgeland and Kerrie Riel. One cake was in the form of an angle, the other a Santa Claus.

Everyone brought a gift and put it under the tree, the gift was then given a number and that number was put into a hat which everyone drew from, thus getting the gift with that number on. The gifts were horse orientated, some got lead shanks, others brushes and hoof picks while some enjoyed receiving horse puzzles, books or posters.

After the gifts were opened, everyone joined in and played games until the party ended.

Recreation Report

by Colleen Walker

Girls and Hockey

I was pleased to see a picture of a young gal in a hockey uniform a couple of weeks ago in one of our recent local papers. So often children are so sex-orientated in their ideas of jobs, duties, sports, etc. It is not hard to see why children gain these ideas in today's society. Even in recreation we have activities for girls and boys such as hockey for boys, figure skating for girls, cooking for girls, games for boys, etc. An interesting article in the form of a written discussion appeared in Chatelaine's recent December magazine.

Bits and pieces follow:

Look at the Ontario Supreme Court decision in the case of the little girl from Huntsville who wanted to play hockey. The provincial Human Rights Commission had said that minor hockey associations could not discriminate, but the court overruled them and said that the hockey league could do what it wanted because a hockey club is private, not public. I do think that no kid should be excluded from a sports team on grounds other than competence, and that no adult should be excluded from a professional association if he or she meets professional requirements.

An amateur athletic team is not a professional association. And hockey is not just a sport. It's a rite of passage. It teaches boys to be men. Letting girls in would destroy that. If hockey coaches are not allowed to keep girls off their teams, there's a fighting chance that [illegible] will grow up with fewer [illegible] ideas about rites of passage. I'm not suggesting that boys don't like to play sports with girls. They just don't want the law telling them they have to do it. Besides, hockey is a serious matter for some kids. They're hoping to have professional careers.

And why shouldn't women, if they are good enough, be able to earn those high salaries playing hockey? What about East Germany? They take athletic training for girls just as seriously as for boys in that country.

To me this demonstrates our current ideas on girls and hockey. This is changing though and girls are sometimes allowed on teams or even forming their own team.

Although it may take years to change people's ideas, perhaps some day girls and hockey may be given the same reverence that is directed to men's hockey.

Winter Brochure

This week our lineup of winter programs have gone to the printers. Your brochure will be distributed via mail the first of January. It contains a list of programs, where they will be held, when, how much they cost and hopefully, everything that you wanted to know about that particular program.

Be watching for your brochure soon. Don't spend another long cold winter wondering what you could be doing when such a variety of educational and recreational programs come your way every January!

Fall Programs

Most of our fall programs will be drawing to a close in the next few weeks. If you have any comments, criticisms, suggestions of the program you attended, I would be interested in hearing them. Just call Colleen at 663-3730. I would appreciate hearing your opinion.

Fitness Appraisal Workshop

A fitness appraisal and counselling workshop will be held in Wetaskiwin, January 27, 1979. Everyone interested in providing leadership to a citizen's group, school classes and individuals in the practical aspect of fitness testing is encouraged to attend.

Get to know it. You could save a life.

Carbon monoxide strikes quickly. Because you can't see, feel or smell it. But it can kill you or members of your family. Learning about carbon monoxide poisoning is the best way of fighting it.

Know the Symptoms

If you or members of your household develop these symptoms, get into the fresh air and notify your gas company immediately. Watch for:
- a headachy feeling
- tightness across the forehead and in the temples
- loss of muscular control
- watering and smarting of the eyes
- weariness, weakness, dizziness, vomiting

Know About Prevention

Carbon monoxide gas may be formed through faulty combustion in your gas appliances. You can prevent its formation by following these steps:
- use only approved gas appliances
- have qualified experts install gas appliances
- give gas appliances an abundant air supply
- keep gas appliances in good condition
- report excessive rusting and carbon on your water heater to the gas company
- report escaping fumes to the gas company
- keep the furnace fan compartment door closed and secure at all times
- clean furnace filters before the heating season begins and then as required
- report irregular flame patterns to the gas company

For more information on carbon monoxide poisoning and other household dangers, visit your nearest gas company office and pick up a copy of our free pamphlets "Take Time For Home Heating Safety" and "Home Safe Home."

Participate in Canada's Employment Tax Credit Program.

The Employment Tax Credit Program was introduced by the Government of Canada to stimulate employment in the private sector.

In essence, we're encouraging you to expand your work force by providing a tax break for your business.

The potential annual tax credit for each new employee is over $3,000. And there is no limit to the number of new employees you can hire.

Now, by using the experience we've gained so far, we've changed the program to make it even more attractive.

Up to 33⅓% more tax credit.
The maximum term for the tax credit has been increased from nine to 12 months for each new employee. That means up to 33⅓% more tax credit.

Greater eligibility.
We have expanded the number and types of businesses eligible to benefit. Now almost every business that's been operating in Canada for a year or more can join in.

Wider choice of area employers.
Now, almost anyone who is unemployed and registered at a Canada Employment Centre for a minimum of two weeks is eligible.

A minimum of red tape.
We've simplified the procedure, so you can do the whole thing, from beginning to end, with just two single-page forms.

For full details on the program, contact any Canada Employment Centre/Canada Manpower Centre.

As the holiday season approaches many people will be receiving cut flowers as gifts. How to care for these flowers to preserve their beauty for as long as possible brings many questions.

Cut flowers can retain their fresh appearance for nearly a week when properly handled. Some longer lasting varieties may last for up to two weeks.

To achieve success in keeping all flowers, one of the first steps is to cut the stems with a sharp knife or shears. More important than whether the cut is straight across the stem or slanting is the fact that it is made just above a side branch to encourage more blooms on the plant.

Strip the foliage from the lower four to six inches of the stem so that no foliage will be submersed in the water. This not only gives more room in the vase, but it reduces the amount of bacteria and fungi that will be carried into the plant by the water.

The next step is to remove another one or two inches from the stem of each flower. This will ensure the rapid absorption of water. Then put the stems into a pail containing about four inches of warm water (43 degree C). Two points to remember here is to have the pail very clean and the water warm.

Containers, especially those which have previously been used for plants, should be thoroughly scrubbed inside to remove all traces of plant residue that may harbor bacteria or fungi. Multiplication and growth of these organisms can clog the water-conducting channels in the stems, causing the flowers to wilt rapidly.

Using warm water is recommended as it travels up the stems faster and more easily.

Commercial flower preservatives added to the water can also prolong the life of the plant. These can be obtained from florists or garden centers. The final step in conditioning cut flowers is to place the container in a cool, shaded area for at least two hours so that the flowers and stems will absorb water rapidly, and, thereby, regain their freshness and crispness. During this final step it can be hastened by wrapping the exposed stems and the flowers in a piece of plastic or paper to reduce water loss through respiration.

Super curlers are very close

Close games and an exciting pennant race are providing lots of interest in the Highway 14 Division of the Super Curling League.

Three teams are deadlocked for first place and only six points separate the top and bottom teams.

Next Wednesday night (Dec 20th), Thompson faces Whyte, Millar goes up against Dobry, Sears faces Goubault, and Shyba plays Bugge.

Close games marked last week's action.

Shyba edged Dobry 8-7, Goubault stopped Thompson 8-6, Sears got by Whyte 8-6 and Bugge doubled Millar 8-4.

Shyba, Sears and Goubault stopped Thompson 8-6, Sears got by Whyte 8-6 and Bugge thrashed Millar 9-1.

Shyba, Sears and Goubault have identical 3-1 records to lead the pack. Tied for fourth place are Thompson, Dobry and Bugge with 2-2 marks. Whyte is 1-3 and Millar is winless in four starts.

Again, no results were received from the Highway 13 Division.

The Homemaker

Although the Christmas spirit may lead you to splurge in various ways, balanced menus are still a must! Family and friends will thank you for it.

Canada's Food Guide provides you with a basic plan. It recommends a specific number of servings of food which should be chosen every day from each of the four food groups: two to three servings of milk and milk products; three to five servings of bread and cereals; four to five servings of fruit and vegetables, and two servings of meat and alternates.

Include foods from each group in your Christmas menu. For example, turkey from the meat and alternates group, stuffing counts as one serving of bread; potatoes and vegetables supply two portions from the fruits and vegetables group. Christmas pudding or mince pie contribute another half-serving of fruit, cheese and crackers at the end of the meal supply a half-serving from the milk and milk products group.

When planning menus, avoid foods that are either too fatty or too sweet. They often supply far too many calories for what they're worth. So go easy on the gravy. Remove excess fat in broth and sauces. Chill them and lift off the solid fat. Whenever possible, use yogurt rather than cream or sour cream on fruits or vegetables.

Agriculture Canada's food consultants advise you to look for frozen or canned fruit that is packed without sugar or in a light syrup. In terms of frozen dairy products, sherbet and ice milk contain less fat than ice cream. Snacks like candies, chocolates and chips supply empty calories whereas crisp vegetables, fruit, nuts and raisins offer much more in terms of food value. Think [illegible]

This delightful couple seated at a special table during lunch, received congratulations from their friends in the Lodge, including the staff, also members of their immediate family.

Sorry to report that Mrs Kortzman is in the hospital. But we welcome home Maggie Pederson. Mrs Patterson continues to be confined to hospital.

Thursday evening, Pastor Sogge conducted a most interesting service, assisted by members of the Lutheran Church including a duet by the pastor and Mrs Sogge, also a reading by Mrs Finseth. This was very much enjoyed by the guests. Thanks again.

Mr Lowe wishes to report that there will be a Christmas party in the Anglican Church on Sunday 17th of Dec, also a Christmas Eve service on Dec 24th.

Farmers' market draws many outside exhibitors

by Grace Phillips

The largest number of outside exhibits ever at the Tofield Farmers' Market displayed their wares in the Tofield Community Centre on Friday.

The twenty-eight rented tables were heaped with interesting displays of ceramics, candlecraft, lapidary work, knitted, crocheted, and sewn articles, macrame, string art, baked good, candy, garden produce, honey, dairy products and horticultural exhibits.

The exhibitors came from Redwater, Wetaskiwin, Ft Saskatchewan, Soba Beach, Edmonton, New Sarepta, Camrose, Lamont and Millet.

Local organizations and businesses also took the opportunity to exhibit and market their products. Represented were the Hastings Lake Gardens, Jim Menk, Tofield Arts and Crafts group, Tofield Scouts, Anglican Church Women, the Mennonite Young Women's Assoc, the Lindbrook Community League, and several individuals.

The exhibitors who pay only rent for the tables (not an entry fee) were unanimous in their praise of the spacious facilities at the Tofield Farmers' Market. Many exhibitors are so anxious to return, some time that they have already booked space for the January 12 market.

Coffee and cookies were made available by the Tofield Arts and Crafts group who presently receive the proceeds from the market.

The free advertising from Radio Station CFCW in Camrose and CJCA in Edmonton for this project undoubtedly increased the number of potential customers.

The door prizes were won by Mrs Marie Worton, Mrs Chris Siemens and Arthur Hackett.

Originally it was organized as the contribution of the Garden Club to the Hall Board funds. At its instigation, the Market was held twice a year but the response indicated that monthly markets were desirable.

The number of display tables in use has grown from five in July to twenty-eight in December.

Mrs. Thomas Jones and Mrs. Yvonne Brown are presently responsible for organizing the Farmers' Market.

...NED WEEKLY AT TOFIELD, ALBERTA SINGLE COPY 15¢

Readers are reminded of 'important' facts

Readers of The Mercury are reminded of two important facts.

First of all, as keeping with past practices, there will not be an edition of The Mercury published next week.

The next edition of The Mercury will be printed on January 4th, with The Mercury's advertising manager, Dan Barr, making his usual rounds on the preceding Tuesday.

Of importance to rural readers is the fact that, beginning with the first edition of 1979, their subscription will no longer be supplied by the County of Beaver.

Rural readers are advised that, if they wish to continue to receive The Mercury, they should subscribe right away. If a subscription is received prior to December 31st, a special rate will apply. After that date, the regular subscription rates will apply.

Beaver County Council decided some months ago to discontinue supplying its ratepayers with copies of local weekly newspapers, because of rising costs and other factors.

In addition to supplying ratepayers with copies of the paper, the contract between the county and the newspapers included all county advertising at no extra charge.

Basically, the future will see ratepayers purchase their County of Beaver supply of its own advertising needs.

Tofield climbs to 2nd

Teams in the Beaverhill Hockey League will play a slightly reduced schedule for the next few weeks because of the impending holiday season.

Two games were postponed during the first one-half of the schedule and will be added to the next portion of the schedule which is expected to be released in the next few days.

Tonight's (Thursday) games will see Holden host Mundare while Ryley hosts Andrew in Tofield.

On Saturday night, Tofield plays in Smoky Lake.

There will be no games on Tuesday (Boxing Day) night, and a Thursday contest will see Ryley play in Lamont.

On December 30th, Tofield will host Lamont while a game on January 2nd will see Tofield play in Holden. On January 6th, Ryley plays in Tofield while Holden goes to Wainwright.

While Christmas and New Year's is a holiday season for most people, it will be an extremely busy one for RCMP members, who will be involved in Check Stops and other means, in an effort to keep highways safe.

RCMP have commended the concern of Tofield Auto Body Ltd. as that firm taken out advertising space prior to each holiday, urging motorists to "drive with care".

The Tofield firm's ad (printed in this issue) advises the public "remember - but we can't fix you!"

...ory Of The Nativity

...E, CHAPTER 2, 1-20

1 And it came to pass in those days, that there went out a decree from Caesar Augustus, that all the world should be taxed.
2 (And this taxing was first made when Cyrenius was governor of Syria.)
3 And all went to be taxed, every one into his own city.
4 And Joseph also went up from Galilee, out of the city of Nazareth, into Judea, unto the city of David, which is called Bethlehem; (because he was of the house and lineage of David:)
5 To be taxed with Mary his espoused wife, being great with child.
6 And so it was, that while they were there, the days were accomplished that she should be delivered.
7 And she brought forth her firstborn son, and wrapped him in swaddling clothes, and laid him in a manger; because there was no room for them in the inn.
8 And there were in the same country shepherds abiding in the field, keeping watch over their flocks by night.
9 And, lo, the angel of the Lord came upon them, and the glory of the Lord shone around them, and they were sore afraid.
10 And the angel said unto them, Fear not; for, behold, I bring you tidings of great joy, which shall be to all people.
11 For unto you is born this day, in the city of David, a Saviour, which is Christ the Lord.
12 And this shall be a sign unto you; Ye shall find the babe wrapped in swaddling clothes, lying in a manger.
13 And suddenly there was with the angel a multitude of the heavenly host praising God, and saying,
14 Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace, good will toward men.
15 And it came to pass, as the angels were gone away from them into heaven, the shepherds said one to another, Let us now go even unto Bethlehem, and see this thing which is come to pass, which the Lord hath made known unto us.
16 And they came with haste, and found Mary and Joseph, and the babe lying in a manger.
17 And when they had seen it, they made known abroad the saying which was told them concerning this child.
18 And all they that heard it wondered at those things which were told them by the shepherds.
19 But Mary kept all these things, and pondered them in her heart.
20 And the shepherds returned, glorifying and praising God for all things that they had heard and seen, as it was told unto them.

RCMP seek public's aid

RCMP are asking the assistance of the public in trying to find out the owner of a car that did considerable damage in Ryley last week, and left the scene without stopping.

According to reports received by the Tofield Detachment, the vehicle, a 1969 Mercury Cougar blue in colour, suffered extensive damage to the front end, after passing the same area three times, doing damage to property on all three occasions.

The incident occurred on Saturday when the vehicle drove on the property of Mrs. Alfred Harbak, knocking down a large birch tree in front of her residence. The vehicle drove off, returned and again passed over Mrs. Harbak's property. On a third return to the area, the vehicle knocked down two traffic signs.

Anyone knowing whose vehicle might have been involved in the incident is asked to contact the Tofield, or any other Detachment of the RCMP.

THEFTS

RCMP are investigating a break and enter at Watson Tofield (1973) Ltd which took place on Sunday.

Rudy Sherwand of Holden reported the loss of a nine horsepower motor from his grain auger and a smaller motor with pump. Value of the loss was estimated to be about $800.

Tom Wilkerson of Tofield reported the loss of a battery and five lights from his backhoe, which had been left near his residence. Value of the missing objects was said to be one hundred dollars.

Jim Doland of Tofield reported the loss of $35 in silver containing some money and personal papers.

OTHERS

Alvin Podoborozny of Ryley was involved in a motor vehicle accident when his vehicle struck a cow, which had to be destroyed. RCMP are still looking for the cow's owner. The accident occurred on Saturday.

The past week was a bit quieter for RCMP when complaints filed in the Tofield office totalled only thirty-three.

Beef Cows Can Lose Weight Over the Winter Without Affecting Their Calves

Healthy beef cows, five years and older, can lose 100 to 200 pounds (35 per cent of their fall body weight) during the winter without affecting the weaning weight of their calves.

This is the conclusion reached by P.G. Hiley and J. Hodges of the University of British Columbia's department of animal science after three years of investigations involving eight commercial cow-calf ranches (1,200 cows) in the southern half of B.C. However, the data they collected indicate that it could be advantageous to preferentially feed young cows during the winter.

The cows in all but one of the eight herds studied consistently lost weight each winter and regained it the following summer. The research results showed no valid reason for reducing winter weight losses even in one herd where the average weight loss was 250 pounds per cow. The weaning weight of the calves from this herd averaged 450 pounds at 220 days of age. On the one ranch where the cows gained weight over the winter, the weaning weight of the calves at 220 days of age was only 430 pounds.

The research findings showed that, in general, calves were only six pounds heavier than the herd average at weaning time for each additional 100 pounds of weight gained during the winter by their dams. The research also showed that cows that lost 20 per cent of their body weight during the winter, compared with an average loss of 10 per cent, gained most of it back during the following summer.

Another important point that came out of the B.C. study was that the weight of a cow is very much determined by the herd she belongs to. Such things as general genetic makeup, management, feeding, quality of feed location and climate all play a part in her weight.

Although cows of the exotic breeds have the potential for being bigger and heavier than the conventional breeds, the location and management of the herd was found to either enhance or inhibit that potential. For example, the crossbred cows of exotic breeds in one herd were no heavier than the straightbreds of the British breeds in the same herd, and the average cow weight (1,020 pounds) in one purebred Hereford herd was similar to that of the crossbred herds studied.

Even though the larger beef cows did wean slightly heavier calves, as mentioned above, the researchers felt that it was not worth either feeding or breeding heavier cows to increase weaning weights. Their reasoning is that good cows feed their calves well, and that cows that are well fed during the summer produce heavier calves without becoming heavy themselves.

The study also showed that two, three and four year-old cows weaned 9, 5 and 4 per cent lighter calves respectively than the herd average, and that five to 10 year-old cows weaned calves that were remarkably similar in weight (average 505 pounds). The latter fact shows that cows would not be culled on the basis of age alone.

In one herd it was found that the two year-old heifers weaned average-sized calves, while the three and four year-olds in the same herd weaned smaller calves. Since it was also found that the three and four year-olds had gained more weight than the heifers over the summer, the researchers concluded that it could be advantageous to preferentially feed young cows during the winters following their first and second calves to prevent them from losing weight.

Ryley Brownies enroll

by Marlene Sinclair

The Ryley Brownies had an enrollment service for eight new members called "Tweenes" last Thursday.

The enrollment service officially welcomes the new members into the pack. They were led by Brownies up to the "Magic Pool" where they were met by Tawny Owl, Sharon McGaughey, from there they were escorted over "rocks" to Brown Owl, Diana Larsen where they were asked to repeat the Brownie Promise and Law. Brown Owl then pinned their pins on and gave them their scarfs and their six emblems.

After this ceremony, the Brownies welcomed the Tweenes into the Pack with a Grand Howl, the traditional Brownie congratulations. After this, the presentation of service pins to all the Brownies that earned them took place.

Then picture were taken and lunch was served.

The mothers visited with the leaders and the Brownies enjoyed the freedom of the large Community Hall. This was their first time in the hall. They have signed a contract with the Lions Club to rent the m.i.n hall for $10.00 per week, with the agreement to clean up after themselves. This contract is good until December 31st when a new agreement will have to be signed.

The Lions Club have opened their doors to the Brownies, and the Legion, along with the Men's and Women's Fastball Clubs, have agreed to donate money to help defray the hall costs.

Ryley and district news items

(Extended for last week)

The Ryley School junior volleyball tournament was held here on Saturday with both trophies being won by the Viking team. Never-the-less both Ryley teams did well. The Christmas tea and concert is being held on Dec 21st at 1.30 p.m. Everyone is welcome to attend. The gymnasium has been in the process of being painted and has just been completed. then the basketball practices will soon begin.

The Good News Community Church took part in the Carol Festival in Tofield last Sunday evening. This Sunday, there will be a Family Carol Sing, special choir numbers and a special speaker. The service will be held in the Community Hall at 7.30 p.m.

Catholic Church Mass will be at 12.30 p.m. this Sunday. The Catholic Women's League held their Christmas meeting on Dec 4th and were pleased to have Father Szabo attend. They exchanged gifts and enjoyed each other's company. The next meeting will be held on Jan. 10th at Clara Kosacka at 8 p.m.

The Bethel Lutheran Church final Wednesday Advent service will be a Candlelight Service to be held on Dec 20th at 8 p.m. The Sunday School Christmas program will be held on Dec 22nd at 8 p.m. in the church. On Dec 24th, there will be a special Christmas Eve service held at regular worship time 11.30 a.m. in Ryley and 10 a.m. in Holden.

Everyone is invited to attend the Seventh Day Adventist Church special Vesper Service that is being planned by the S.D.A. School pupils for Saturday. After the service everyone will be going caroling to different homes in Ryley at 4.15 p.m. Next Sabbath on Saturday, the guest speaker will be Dr. Ralph Haynes from Lacombe.

Doug Wood is in the Tofield Hospital with pneumonia. He was hospitalized last Thursday and should be released this week.

Last week it was reported that Barry Stumbo's operation was unsuccessful and that the thumb had to be taken off. Well, that is only partially true. The operation was partly successful. His thumb only had to be amputated at the joint, meaning that part of the thumb actually grew back on. Amazing, considering the amount of time that passed from the accident until the doctors were able to operate.

Ray Howland had an unfortunate accident. He fell in the Village Office and cracked his pelvis. This happened last Saturday. He was taken to Daysland to be x-rayed, and went again on Monday for further examination. He was told he would have to stay off it for some time. He is now staying with his brother, Rueben and wife.

Donald Law has been in the Tofield Hospital for some time. On Monday, he went to stay in the Viking Lodge until spring arrives.

John Wells of St. Johns, Newfoundland, nephew of Mrs. Florence Booth, is in the Tofield Hospital with high blood pressure. He was down in California visiting relatives when he took sick. He decided to head home but only got this far before he needed to be hospitalized.

Mrs. Rasbeam is now home from the hospital, but Thor Mathum is still hospitalized in Tofield and so is Anton Podrasky.

The Ryley Homecoming Committee would like people to mention the Ryley Homecoming in July 1979 in their Christmas messages to former Ryleyites.

The regular meeting of Holden Lodge Order of the Royal Purple was held Tuesday evening with H.R.L. Ethel Fleming presiding. The meeting was opened in formal manner with Initiation held after the roll call, when a new member was initiated into Holden Lodge. Reports of the following committees were given; Lady Anne Milimaka for the Chamber of Commerce; Lady Helen Bilyk for the Senior Citizens' Christmas social afternoon, Ladies Hurum, Brekstad and Schergar on visits to Viking, Irma and Kinsella Lodges; and Lady Helen Bilyk for the Sunshine Committee. The committee to convene the January Chamber of Commerce, Jan. 4th was appointed. It was decided to hold a Lodge Birthday party on Jan. 25th, and a committee was appointed to plan it. Under Good of the Order, the usual memorial service was held in memory of departed members Lodge was closed in formal manner and a lunch was served by hostesses Lady Jean Helfrich and Lady Nellie Kaluzny.

Arthur Olson of Camrose was a Wednesday visitor, last week, with Mrs Beth Campbell. His brother, Harry, left a few weeks ago and is spending the winter months on his usual vacation in Mexico enjoying warm weather and sunshine.

Mr. and Mrs Ralph Mason of Sherwood Park, former Holden residents were Saturday visitors in Holden calling on friends.

On Friday eighteen ladies, friends, neighbors and relatives gathered at the home of Mrs. Sophie Chaplin to offer their congratulations on her 78th birthday. A lovely decorated birthday cake, made by Mrs Nellie Kaluzny, centered the lunch table complete with 78 candles. Her niece, Mrs Josie Friend was hostess. A pleasant afternoon was spent reminiscing and singing carols of the old country. Lunch was enjoyed by all to end a most pleasant afternoon.

Mrs. Douglas Barlund, Brian of Eckville and Mrs. John Hansen and Sean of Edmonton spent a few days with their mother, Mrs Ethel Fleming. On Saturday, other members of the family joined them for a pre-Christmas dinner, held jointly by Ethel Fleming and the Garth Flomaugs, at the latter's home.

Mrs. Ethel Fleming accompanied by her son James and his family went to Cranbrook B.C. to attend the christening of Patrick Harvey on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Allan Zwierschke are spending the Christmas holiday with his sister Norma, her husband and daughter in Vancouver, B.C.

Rev. Jim Ruston of Olds, formerly of Holden when in charge of the Holden United Church charge, was a recent visitor in Scotland when his father passed away. Jim brought his mother back to Olds.

Work had gone ahead on the few mild days of last week on the new home of Lyle Grosland's with the siding being put on and heat installed.

Here comes Santa Claus and friend laden with season's wishes to our many fine customers. A happy holiday to all. Thanks.

MERRY CHRISTMAS

If there is one commercial that has initiated me more than any other this Christmas, it is the one talking about giving a child everything he wants for Christmas. What a horrible thought! to have everything we want. I think it's important that everyone gets something they want for Christmas. There is more to Christmas than getting presents.

SECRET OF CHRISTMAS

It's not the glow you feel when snow appears,
It's not the Christmas cards you've sent for years.
It's not the joyful sound when sleighbells ring,
Or the merry songs the Children sing,
That little gift you send on Christmas Day,
Will not bring back friends you've turned away.
So may I suggest the secret of Christmas,
Is not the things at Christmas you do,
But the Christmas things you do all the year through.
— Louise C Muldrum

Christmas is a time for family and friends. I look forward to being with my family in Moose Jaw Michael, my fifteen month nephew, will add a lot to the celebration. It will be good to experience Christmas again, through the eyes of a Child. I hope your Christmas celebration fulfills your every dream.

NEW YEAR'S PRAYER

— Lolita Pinney

A whole new year is mine today
May I be wiser, Lord, I pray!
I'd strengthen friendships, old and true,
And learn to cherish new ones, too;
To keep on learning and to grow
A little better as I go.
To cast aside each grudge and grief,
And hold fast to a firm belief
That life is joyous, gracious, good,
When lived in terms of brotherhood!
To welcome fun, and play a while,
To lighten work with happy smile!
To thank the Lord and every day
Remember Him, and kneel to pray
In gratitude for strength and health
And blessings which are all my wealth!
This year's a gift from God to me
To spend, or use, or set me free
A whole new year is mine today

by Colleen Walker
Program Supervisor

Already it has come time again to wish our communities greetings of the season. The year has come and gone so fast, I can hardly believe it. Of course, I'm glad to see Christmas time come because it means less travelling and program visitations as you people are busy organizing your own recreational activities - you don't need me.

We'll be jumping into the New Year with a couple of programs designed to get you out and working off some of these Christmas goodies. Our winter programs are planned to commence late January and we will be bringing you an assortment of crafts, badminton, keep fit, to senior citizen's activities.

A brochure will be out January 5th with details. Be watching for it.

RYLEY CURLING CLINIC

Ryley's curling clinic is scheduled for January 5, 6, and 7th at the Ryley curling rink. Times are as follows: January 5 and 6 7:30 - 9:00 p.m., January 7, 2:00 - 3:30 p.m. Fee: $[illegible]

The clinic will strive to teach fundamentals of delivery, sweeping and equipment.

Students must pre-register so we can divide into groups according to skill levels. Pre-register by calling Colleen at [illegible] or drop by the County office building.

DOWN HIL SKI LESSONS

Anyone interested in taking down-hill ski lessons at Rabbit Hill, January 8, 9, 10, and 11th. If we can get a group of 10 interested people, lessons will be offered at $[illegible] instead of the usual $[illegible]. This fee includes 8 hours of ski lessons, all equipment and lift tickets. Car pools will be arranged and if we get over 20 persons, we will arrange a bus.

If you are interested, please call in prior to December 29th. Register with Colleen at 662-3738, or Phyllis at 662-3361

STOCK

We will be taking inventory of stock from December 15th, until January 15th. Therefore, no sales will be made during that time.

REGIONAL RECREATION OFFICE

The regional recreation office will be closed during the Christmas season in accordance with the County of Beaver, December 25, and 26, and January 1st.

At this time of the year, our office would like to extend greetings for a Merry Christmas and wish you all the best in 1979

We look forward to serving you in the New Year.

Where Love Is

Where there is love the heart is light,
Where there is love the day is bright,
Where there is love there is a song
To help when things are going wrong.
Where there is love there is a smile
To make all things seem more worthwhile,
Where there is love there's quiet peace,
A tranquil place where turmoils cease . . .
Love changes darkness into light
And makes the heart take "wingless flight" —
Oh, blest are they who walk in love . . .
They also walk with God above,
And when man walks with God again
There shall be Peace On Earth for men.

Confronting your faith

With Pastor J.M. Schmidt, of the Tofield Gospel Church.

CHRIST'S INCARNATION

Every Christmas, a popular newscaster relates the story of a man who did not believe in the incarnation. So while his family went to the Christmas program at church, he stayed at home because he couldn't believe "that stuff".

While sitting alone in his living room - reading - he heard strange thumps against the house. Going out to investigate, he found hundreds of birds attracted to the light from his picture window, trying to get out of the cold into his cozy living room.

To get the birds in to a warm place, he turned on all the lights by the barn. He opened the door and tried to shoo the birds into the warm building. But try as he would, every time he came near the birds they dispersed in fear. Exhausted, he finally gave up.

All of a sudden it came to him — the only way he could get the birds into the warm barn and keep them from freezing to death, would be for him to become a bird. Only then they would follow him. Then came another flash - he saw that this was exactly what God had done in the incarnation "The Word became a human being and lived amongst us." Right there he knelt down in the snow and opened his heart to Christ.

No doubt the greatest single event in human history was when "Christ became flesh and dwelt amongst us" John 1:14 Thousands of volumes have been written about this profound subject, yet no one can explain this divine mystery. When asked whether he could understand the mystery of incarnation, Daniel Webster responded, "No, and if I could, I should not want Him, for if I could comprehend Him, he would be no greater than myself. But such is my sin that I feel I need a superhuman Saviour."

Sort-one else has said: "If you try to understand the Trinity and the Incarnation, you lose your mind, but if you don't believe in them, you lose your soul." The Incarnation is a fundamental doctrine of the Christian Faith and essential for salvation. That is why we are not asked to understand it, but simply to believe.

Christ was no divine, it is hard to believe he was also human, at the same time he was no human, it is hard to believe He was also divine. He was true man and true God.

As Jesus himself states, His coming to earth, becoming human was for the purpose "To seek and to save that which is lost." We read in I John 4:6 "In this was manifest and love of God toward us, because that God sent his only begotten Son into the world, that we might live through Him." He came out of His heavenly mansion to help the lost birds into a safe place.

Christ is real. His incarnate birth was real. His love to you is real. His offer of forgiveness and salvation is real. The joy, the Peace and the blessed assurance of His eternal life is real. Christ's words are real - "I am the Way, the Truth and the Life; no man cometh unto the Father but by me." Jesus became the Son of Man, that you could become a Son of God. He was born in the flesh, that you could be born-again by the Spirit. He became poor, that you could become rich. He died, that you and I might have life.

Christmas is the story of deity becoming human. God became man, the Word became flesh. We experience Christmas when our heart becomes the cradle that holds the Christ child, when we are born again by the equally mysterious work of the Holy Spirit. Let us rejoice and glorify and praise God for Jesus Christ, this Christmas.

Chrismons adorn tree

The Christmas tree at the Lutheran Church in Tofield will again this year be decorated with "CHRISMONS".

Chrismon is a combination of parts of two words . . . Christ(t) and mon(ogram), meaning a monogram of Christ.

The early christians used these symbols.

Copies of these monograms were discovered on jewelry, doors and buildings and even on the walls of the catacombs in Rome. They were used to identify themselves to one another, like codes at the times of the persecutions. They used them to designate meeting places of the church and sometimes to show unbelievers what they used.

Chrismons are made in combinations of white and gold. White refers to our Lord's purity and perfection, and gold to His majesty and glory.

These unique decorations were designed with the purpose of directing our attention to Jesus, whose birthday we celebrate.

May your hearth and home be blessed this Christmas. Thanks to our loyal friends and patrons for putting your confidence in our hands.

Santa visits Bruce

by Ilse Fredericks

The jolly old man from the North paid his annual visit to Bruce on Friday evening.

The Women's Institute was in charge of planning the "Santa Night" and was assisted financially by the Agricultural Society.

The evening began with a pot luck supper which featured such a wide variety of delicious food that even the most finicky eater was promptly in the mood for feasting. The candle-centred tables, the Christmas decorations and the tree with its sparkling lights convinced everyone that the festive season had once again arrived.

Anne Mothoki was m.c. in her usual capable fashion and Bud Hammermaster was at the piano to accompany the carol singers. A small group of vocalists was brave enough to offer some carols on their own but other than that English appeared to be the official language.

Joyce Lutz entertained with a piano solo, a group of girls sang "The Twelve Days of Christmas" and 4-H girls, Trudy Erickson, Cathy Pratt and Betty Laing gave some rather unconditional Christmas recipes.

The 4-H group also spelled Christmas in an interesting manner.

Finally, Santa arrived to distribute bags of goodies and take the children's orders back to his elves. Santa proved very popular this year for even the big girls were anxious to sit on his knee.

The youngest child to be photographed with Santa was two-week old Juanita Stefanik. Edna and Bill are fortunate that Santa didn't mistake her for a doll and present her to one of the children.

At the conclusion of the evening, Michelle and Jackie Stefanik thanked the members of the Women's Institute for their great effort and the Agricultural Society for support.

GREETINGS

This Christmas, let the bright rays of love, peace and understanding enter our hearts and shine there always.

News from Ministik

Mrs. Jim Reddick

MEANT FOR LAST WEEK

The games afternoon at the Lakes Crafts Centre on Saturday was a huge success. The Christmas table was a big attraction as was the plant table. Bertha Ledingham and Agnes Robertson were in charge of the little Christmas suggestions. Olivine Sears selling the plants.

The door prize of a lovely tray of home made cookies, made and donated by Lillian Berreckloh, was won by Mary Ann Lafontaine.

The baby blanket being raffled was won by Glenn Hansen of Ardrossan. The quilt made and donated by Lillian Berreckloh for the raffle, was won by Dolly Reddick.

Several games of bingo were played. Those were followed by a carol sing. Each one then enjoyed a pot luck supper which included turkey and all the trimmings, right down to pie.

On Tuesday afternoon, Margaret Paterson, Olivine Sears, Ellen Dyer and Dolly Reddick surprised Trust Vandermeer on the occasion of her birthday.

Margaret brought a cake and all brought cards and gifts.

Lorne Elaine Farmer returned at the weekend from a two-week vacation spent in Spy Hill, Sask., visiting relatives and friends.

Edna and Glenn Ferguson and Grant and Gloria Pearce returned on Friday from a two-week vacation in Hawaii and area. They had a most enjoyable time and came back with a real Hawaiian tan. Dennis Leach, formerly of Ministik was also on the same flight.

Members of the Wittig family recently attended the funeral of Kelly's father in Melfort, Sask. They spent a few days visiting relatives and friends before returning home.

Norma Hughes of Wetaskiwin returned home last week, after spending several days with her mother, Mrs. Alex Kleinschroth.

Children of the district are busy getting ready for their annual Christmas concert at the hall, sponsored each year by the Ladies Club.

The Ladies Club had their annual club Christmas party at the hall on Wednesday afternoon.

After a brief business session there was an exchange of gifts with Gladys Swabey acting as "Mrs Santa". The ladies enjoyed the new Christmas tree recently purchased, which was gaily decorated.

Supper was served by hostesses, Diane Fenske, Betty Williams and Barbara Herricks at a candle-lit table with lovely Christmas centerpieces.

Christmas Wishes Frank, Christine & Tain Kenny wish all their family and friends in Tofield and surrounding area a very Happy Christmas and a Happy New Year.

Super curling has race on Hiway 14

The race in the Highway 14 Division continues to be torrid while the Highway 13 stumbles along in a sea of confusion.

Super Curling League play continued last week in only one division although it would appear the second division will be reorganized.

The script for the Highway 14 Division couldn't have had a better writer. One team is alone at the top but is closely followed by four teams tied for second place and they in turn, are followed by two teams tied for the next spot.

On the other hand, the Highway 13 Division has been reduced to only five teams and getting games played has been proving difficult in the past few weeks.

According to League Commissioner Andy Heiberg, travel has been a problem for the 13 Division, and the site of games may be shifted to Daysland following a Christmas break. If this change occurs, it seems possible that the division will increase to eight teams for the second half of [illegible]

Gibb has the lead in the 13 Division, followed by Leesch and Miller, with Anderson in fourth place while Bury occupies the basement.

Apparently no games were played last week, and the immediate schedule is not available. The league might discontinue this section until it is completely reorganized.

Goubault has jumped into sole possession of first place in the 14 Division when he whipped winless Millar 9-4.

Shyba got involved in his fourth extra-end game, losing 7-6 to Whyte. In other contests, Dobry walloped Sears 9-4 and Bugge thumped Thompson 10-6.

Current standings in both divisions may be found in Sport Scoreboard.

Games in the 14 Divison next Wednesday (Dec 27) will see Thompson face Dobry, Whyte goes against Millar, Sears plays Bugge, and Shyba will oppose Goubault.

Progressive Farming

What variety of rapeseed should you plant next year?

Farmers should be aware that the domestic and export markets are in the middle of a changeover to double-zero rapeseed (low erucic acid and low glucosinolate content). In fact, next year domestic crushers will only crush rapeseed that meets the double zero standard. Export markets have also followed in this direction, however, market demand for single-zero varieties such as Span, Torch and Midas should be good for the next couple of years states Phil Thomas, Alberta Agricultures' supervisor of oilseed crops.

The double-zero rape varieties available to Alberta farmers are Candle (a Polish variety), Tower, Regent and Altex (Argentine varieties).

Thousands of bushels have been rejected by crushing plants this year because of contamination of the double-zero rape varieties. Contamination means a direct loss to farmers in that rapeseed can only be sold on the export market, which has a lower delivery quota than the domestic market.

"One way of helping to ensure double-zero rapeseed purity" Mr Thomas says, "is to plant certified seed." Certified seed ensures genetic purity of low erucic acid and low glucosinolate content. However, even crops that are grown from certified seed can become contaminated if they are sown on land that has volunteer rape plants which are high in erucic acid and glucosinolate content. Hence, to avoid contamination, double-zero rapeseed should be sown only on land that is as free as possible of other rape varieties. Mr Thomas points out that it takes only a few Torch or Midas plants to contaminate a crop of Candle or Tower rapeseed grown from certified seed. He reports that certified seed of the double-zero rape varieties will be in short supply next spring and suggest that anybody who wants it should contact his nearest seed supply dealer or his nearest seed grower now to find out where he can get it.

Farmers who are not able to get certified seed and decide to use their own seed or to buy commercial seed should make every effort to ensure that the seed has good germination and that it is low in erucic acid and glucosinolate content and free of weed seeds. It is the responsibility of the vendor that his seed for sale meets the grade standards under the Canada Seeds Act. In commercial seed, the situation is "Buyer Beware". It is the right of the buyer to ask for weed seed content, germination and quality. For further information contact

Two important by-laws are approved in Tofield

Two important by-laws were passed by Tofield Town Council when that body sat for its last meeting of the year.

Three readings were given to a by-law which repealed a former by-law and eliminated discounts for payment of taxes.

A second by-law which regulated and licensed dogs within the town limits was given three readings and approved.

Recreation discussed by Holden's council

Named to serve on the Holden Local Recreation Board for the 1979 term were Marvin Tomashavsky, Margaret Hallet, Arthur Michalich, [illegible] Andrusky, [illegible] and [illegible] Fornal while Christine Mackay was named as council's temporary representative on the Board.

Three readings were given to a by-law which allows the Board to implement and pursue a recreation program for the village, and authority was given to the Board to request matching dollars from the Regional recreation program for the upgrading of the theatre.

A letter from the Holden Local Recreation Board asked councillors to approve two Board motions, which councillors did.

One motion called for senior citizens to be allocated funds under the five-year Master Plan, while the second motion suggested that funding under the plan be refused in a request from St Gregory's Parish.

Councillors agreed to forward a letter to Alberta Municipal Affairs Planning Branch, informing that body that a sub-division proposed by Madison Developments did not conform with the village's general plan.

Councillor Danilak was authorized to proceed to organize a disaster services meeting on Jan 22nd.

[illegible] agreed that the selling price of village owned lots [illegible] be twice the assessed value for assessed lots and seventy five dollars per front foot for lots that aren't assessed.

Accounts amounting to $93,349.56 were approved for payment, and minutes of meetings held on Nov 15 and Dec 12 were approved.

Young boy is injured

A young Tofield boy is in serious condition in an Edmonton hospital following a motor vehicle accident a few days before Christmas.

Six year old Mark Gilmore suffered serious head injuries after he had been struck by a one half ton truck operated by Brent Reil of Tofield.

The injured boy was rushed to Tofield Municipal Hospital and then was tranferred to Edmonton.

The accident occurred on the evening of December 20th.

Andrew Tschetter of Holden escaped with minor injuries when his truck was in collision with a train on the final day of 1978.

The accident occurred in the Village of Holden when the back end of Mr Tschetter's truck was struck by an oncoming train.

Mrs Schacker of Tofield suffered facial injuries when the truck she was driving went out of control and entered the ditch at an intersection in the Lindbrook area on Dec 20th.

A two-vehicle collision occurred two days later with a second lady suffering facial injuries.

Mrs Carns of the Tofield area was injured when her vehicle was in collision with a vehicle operated by William Jensen. Mr Jensen was not hurt in the mishap which occurred in the Lindbrook region.

Charges of wilful damage may be laid in conjunction with damage to a fire hydrant in Holden which was struck by a moving vehicle.

Mazankowski:

Urges improvement in shipping grain

"The farmers of western Canada and the entire agricultural sector itself deserve a full-time Minister of Transport and a full-time Minister in charge of the Wheat Board."

In the House of Commons, Don Mazankowski, M.P. (Vegreville) the Progressive Conservative Transportation Chairman once again called [redacted] Canada's inadequate grain handling and transportation system. Here are some highlights of Mr Mazankowski's speech:

The inadequacy and underutilization of our grain handling and transportation system is responsible for:

— loss of sales in the international export market

— loss of Canada's reputation as a reliable supplier of grain in the export [redacted]

— the build-up of frustration and disgust amongst producers

— [redacted] dollars to farmers and to the economy

— Unless positive action is taken soon, Canada will lose its traditional position as a leader in grain sales, throughout the world.

— This government promised in the 1974 election campaign that they were going to overhaul the grain handling system from the granary to the ship in the harbour but the capacity has not been increased one iota. The farmers have been unable to exceed the record export of 21.4 million tonnes of grain achieved in the 1972-73 crop year. This year we still have a system that is limited to 21 million tonnes and because our export sales are limited by that amount, potential contracts totalling 25 million tonnes for 1977-78 have been deferred or lost to other suppliers.

— We are losing Russia and China as traditional markets and, particularly, we face stiff competition from the United States in maintaining our market with China.

— Our present stocks of wheat, including this year's production and last year's carryover are in excess of 30 million tonnes. That represents almost half of the total [redacted]

— We must utilize to the maximum the existing facilities that we have and we must build sufficient capacity to meet the market projections of the 1980's. Here are some of Mr Mazankowski's [redacted]

— Develop a plan of action to move 31½ million tonnes of grain to export position by [redacted]

— Increase the capacity of the ports of Vancouver and Prince Rupert by 70 percent in order that 50 percent of Canada's grain exports can move through the West Coast.

— Expand and increase the utilization of the ports at Thunder Bay and Churchill.

— Develop better marketing strategies to improve the utilization of existing transportation and handling facilities.

— Reduce the car cycle time. For instance, if the turnaround could be reduced by a further 10 percent this would be the equivalent of 2,500 additional cars into the system.

— Increase productivity and extend hours of operation at terminals.

— Increase the utilization of inland Canadian Government elevators.

— Provide for the cleaning of grain on the Prairies.

— Implement the major recommendations of the Hall Report.

"The farmers of western Canada and the Canadian economy can no longer tolerate the chaotic paralysis which presently exists."

Special policing

It seems remarkable that news from just about every front these days should so often find problems with the activities of power toboggan operators. In the course of just the last few days there have been complaints from city police, from Daysland, from Tofield, and from other areas, as well as those of private citizens.

Wanton disregard of the rights and the property of others seems to be the main problem, as well as driving or operating without adequate regard to the safety of others.

For the most part, it seems, authorities point to the by-laws, and threaten retaliatory action, but beyond this it seems they feel powerless to take much action. Because of the manoeuverability of the vehicles, they are almost impossible to catch in police cars, and it's easy for them to swerve off course and into the open fields, through private property, or wherever else is necessary to avoid confrontation with the law.

But surely if the machines are proving so much of a problem, it's time to study other means. On the highways, we don't send bicycles to catch automobiles, we send souped up special pursuit cars. On the oceans, we have high powered coast guard cutters.

Why shouldn't we, then, provide special toboggans for police forces so they too, could move off the highways occasionally? Why couldn't they schedule patrols on toboggans, just as they schedule patrols in automobiles from time to time? It wouldn't have to be a continuous, round the clock patrol, any more than highway patrols operate that way. The mere knowledge that patrols would be out some of the time should help in part to reduce speeds and reduce personal irritations just as they do on highways

Canadian comment

OTTAWA (BF) — It's going to be one devil of an important year for Canada.

In 1978 we saw our dollar take its severest beating ever against other world currencies, and we saw the federal deficit climb to record highs. The two things were connected in no small way.

We saw the end of the wage-and-price control program come, without the inflation rate being dramatically cut. Unemployment stayed uniformly high throughout the year.

There was a measurable decline in the standard of living of Canadians, as the buying power of take-home pay diminished, and yet as the year ended, there were signs that we might just be able to turn things around.

This is deadline year for the federal election most of us expected in the fall of 1978. Once that's done with, you can expect the resulting determination of political atmosphere to have a positive impact on the economy.

Late this year we can expect the oft-postponed referendum on separatism to take place in Quebec, provided Rene Levesque judges the climate for such a vote to be beneficial. And that, too, will stabilize the economy, if the vote goes the way a majority of Canadians want it to go.

This year should also see a peaking of unemployment, which should begin declining by the end of the year as the economy picks up.

If the governments do as they have promised, we might even see a reduction in the cost of government at all levels, as some restraint policies take hold. Look for trouble from civil service unions, because of these restraint policies.

I'm afraid we can expect even higher prices for energy of all sorts. You'll find the pumps at your friendly gas station either pricing gasoline by the half gallon, or by the litre, because in most provinces even the cheapest grades will cost more than $1 a gallon by the middle of the year.

We'll be a little more used to it, though, and the fact that houses are at 20 degrees Celsius won't be regarded as the same tragedy that it was a year ago.

I think we can also look for a new Canadian standard in political expectations, to pull us out of the self-centered slumps and get us moving as a nation again. Frankly, I'm optimistic as all get-out about 1979, and I can hardly wait for a federal election.

78 good for farmers

Ottawa

Dear Sir,

I believe we can say 1978 was a good year for western farmers. Farm income increased substantially in most parts of the prairies compared to 1977 thanks to higher livestock prices and larger grain payments.

The weekly newspapers continue to help in the development and maintenance of a prosperous agriculture industry in the West. You offer information that the farmer needs to keep in touch with his fellow farmers and with continuing technological improvements. You also share in the benefits resulting from a strong agriculture industry. It is very encouraging to see the steady rise in weekly circulations that has taken place over the last few years.

I would like to thank you for your past co-operation and invite you to send any suggestions or comments you may have to Agriculture Canada, Information Services, Sir John Carling Building, Ottawa, Ontario, K1A 0C7

Yours sincerely,

Eugene F. Whelan,
Minister of Agriculture

Change rules on hog grading

Agriculture Minister Eugene Whelan on Dec. 20 announced changes that will affect the grading of heavy hog carcasses, effective Jan. 1, 1979. They apply to carcasses weighing between 180 and 199 pounds.

Under the new regulations, the index for hog carcasses in the 180 to 199 pound range will be lowered slightly, while preference will be given to carcasses in the 160 to 179 pound range through raising the index.

"The larger hog carcasses produce larger cuts and longer, wider strips of bacon. I have been concerned about marketing problems if too great a proportion of Canadian hogs fall in the heavy weight range," Mr. Whelan said.

"When the present agreement was drawn up, the Pork Council, and the Meat Packers Council agreed that if too many heavy hogs were shipped the index schedule would be revised." Since the agreement came into effect in January, 1978, hogs in the 180 to 199 pound range increased more than 15 per cent.

A higher index will be given to hog carcasses in the 170 to 179 pound range. The highest index possible, 114, will be only available to hogs in this range. Hog carcasses in the 160 to 169 pound range can now index up to 113.

Other changes will reduce the top index for hogs in the 180 to 189 pound range by one index point to 113, in the 190 to 199 pound range by two index points to 112.

The changes should help farmers tailor hog production more closely to the needs of the industry and consumers, Mr. Whelan said.

New Year Message from Lieut. Gov. Steinhauer

Once again another year has rolled by and is coming to a close. During 1978 there have been happy times, sad times, and there may have been some frustrating times, but we must look to the future with courage and hope.

We cannot know what the future holds, but we can face it with the knowledge that the people of Alberta will continue to work toward making our province a place where all people will live in harmony and have equal opportunities. Considering all the riches with which Alberta is endowed our task should not be too difficult, and I say this because Alberta is blessed with the type of people who can carry out any task that is put before them.

My wife joins me in wishing each and every one a happy and prosperous New Year.

Ralph G. Steinhauer,
Lieutenant Governor of Alberta

Confronting your faith

Recently more than 900 people died at their own hand for their faith in Jim Jones. They died needlessly for an unexamined faith.

This reminds us of the necessity to confront our faith. An unexamined faith may be a dangerous faith. An adequate faith must have a solid foundation that will sustain when the pressure is on. The Object of our faith must be dependable enough that if called upon to do so, we may sacrifice our resources, our talents, our time, and even our lives for Him, knowing that the sacrifice is worth while because He is able to carry us through even beyond the shadowy perimeters of this life.

About A.D. 67 St. Peter wrote a letter to people who were repeatedly forced to confront their faith. Severely persecuted, they had to re-examine their faith to see if it was really worth dying for.

Peter wrote to encourage these suffering believers. He reminded them of the solid [redacted] upon which the Christian faith is built. "We have been born anew to a living hope through the resurrection of Jesus Christ from the dead." I Peter 1:3

The Christian faith stands upon the historical reality of Jesus of Nazareth, a real person who was God disguised in real human flesh, who lived among men, taught them the truth of God's way, died in a public execution by Roman soldiers under the procuratorship of Pontius Pilate, and who arose from the grave on the third day after his death, and who returned to his former estate in the heavenly realm from where he rules his church yet today through the Holy Spirit.

Many modern people can accept the reality of the historical Jesus who lived and died, but cannot accept the equally historical fact of his resurrection. Yet it is faith in the resurrected Christ that gives Christianity its full power and reason to be. Christian faith is not based upon the example and memory of a dead leader, but upon [redacted] historically [redacted] still contemporary living Lord.

Some critics say that either [redacted] Apostles were suffering [redacted] hallucinations or were deliberately lying when they proclaimed that they saw the risen Jesus.

But these historical wit- [redacted] not be so simply dismissed.

St. Paul catalogues a list of six separate appearances of [redacted] than five hundred eye witnesses. I Cor 15:3-8. That so many people suffered from the same hallucination simultaneously is incredible.

Further, it is equally absurd to imagine so many people agreeing unanimously to support and propagate such an incredible lie at such cost to themselves. Obviously Peter and his associates believed in the resurrection or they would never have devoted the remainder of their lives to wondering through many foreign and hostile lands, enduring every sort of persecution and hardship and eventually suffering martyrdom, all to propagate this incredible gospel of a man who conquered death, a fraud which they themselves concocted.

No, our faith is based, not on the delusions of wishful thinking nor the hypnotic tactics of a dead demagogue, but on a clear historical visitation of a living Lord. Praise God!

Use poly cups to build soil

Anyone concerned about pollution will [illegible] report recently printed by the International Plant Protection Center at Oregon State University

According to information received by Alberta Agriculture, foamed polystyrene cups, packaging and insulation can be recycled int a beneficial soil conditioner. An international [illegible] material says foamed polystyrene products can be passed through a grinder, chopped in a food blender or flaked with a cheese grater. The resulting tiny chips are said to aid plant growth, help prevent plant disease, increase soil drainage and aeration and to improve the thermal balance of the soil

Although no indication is given on how many cups of coffee would have to be drunk to treat an acre of soil, the concept opens up some interesting conjectures. Could foamed plastic chips, impregnated with an insecticide, be incorporated into the soil to control soil insects? Could the chips be impregnated with a slow-release herbicide to control germinating weeds or could a layer of herbicide-impregnated chips be used as a mulch under ornamental [illegible]

About 1800 of these appliances have been sold in retail stoes across Canada since May, 1978. The CSA monogram appears on all of these units but the units are not identical or do not conform to the units originally examined by CSA under file number LR41715-1.

WORLD EFFORT TO CUT POST—HARVEST LOSSES

Post-harvest losses of food constitute one of mankind's most pressing problems. In developing countries these losses account for 25 to 30 per cent of food production.

At the United Nation's Food and Agriculture [illegible] conference in Rome late last year, a $20-million fund was established to seek answers to this global problem Projects supported from the fund will include improvement of food storage, conservation and processing, the use of pesticides, the introduction of better marketing systems and the use of drying equipment.

Hastings Lake

by Lois Fenna

The Christmas concert at Hastings Lake Hall on Dec 22nd was once again a very jovial affair. Frank Dunham's artistic backdrop (as well as his corpulent Santa Claus) was a much-admired addition to Joan Dunham's production, but of course without the members who sang and played for us, there would have been no concert at all.

That lies in the heart concealed
Always remembered by loving wife Sophie children, grandchildren & great-grandchildren 17p-4531

TYMCHAK, Richard In loving memory of a dear husband and father Richard, who passed away Dec 28 1977
This month comes with deep regret,
It brings a day we cannot forget.
In our hearts you will always stay
Loved and remembered day by day
Memories are treasures no one can steal
Death is a heartache no one can heal
Life must go on, we know it's true,
But it's not the same since we lost you
You left so suddenly without a good bye
But memories of you will never die
Ever remembered and very sadly missed by Susan Wade & Jill 17p-2015

TYMCHAK In loving memory of our dear son, Richard brother & uncle, who passed away on Dec 28, 1977
It's been one year since you ve been gone
Loving memories of you live on & on
The pain we felt when God took you away
Stays with us till this very day
He must have needed you terribly
To take you from us so suddenly
God s taken others this we know
But you were ours we miss you so
Time is supposed to ease the pain
But in silence our tears fall like rain
The days are slow and nights are long Life is so lonely since you ve been gone
Yet somehow we manage to find a way
To make through each every day
God has you now in his care up above
But someday we will be together
To continue our love
Sadly missed by Mom & Dad, Bernice Marilynn Larry & children 17c-4540

Last rites are held for Alex Kleinschroth

Alex Kleinschroth was born July 22rd, 1895 in Saugeen Township, Bruce County, Ontario. He went to school in Port Elgin, Ont., and later as a young man, worked with his father in a lumber mill. At this time in his life, he built a tug boat which he used to move log booms on Lake Huron.

In 1910, he, along with other pioneers, came west to Custer, where he homesteaded in the Naco area south of Consort. At this period of time, he, like so many other pioneers, used his ingenuity to develop a homestead and farm from the raw land.

He married Sarah Smith in 1923. In 1934, the family moved to the Tofield area, where he continued to farm, but with more emphasis on carpentry. In 1941, he and his family moved to Minstik, where he resided until his passing on Nov 26th.

His carpentry skills will be evidenced for many years, by the many homes and farm buildings he constructed in the Tofield, Edmonton and surrounding areas. His talents were varied. He was a man capable with his hands in many ways, such as blacksmith, tinsmith, farmer, sawyer and bootsman, as well as carpenter. These skills came in useful for many friends and neighbors. He was always willing to give help when needed. He will be remembered by many.

On his 87th birthday, he launched a boat in Hastings Lake, which he had just completed building. This boat was similar to the one he had built in his teens in Ontario. His life was varied and full, as he was active in his trade up to his 80's, and he was able to drive his car until the summer of this year.

Mr. Kleinschroth is survived by his wife, Sarah of Minstik, his two sons, George of Minstik and John of Edmonton; daughters, Norma Hughes of Wetaskiwin, and Donalda Norman of Calgary; sisters, Maude Stewart and Lynda Bach of Edmonton and Ella Weddet of Camrose; 18 grandchildren; 8 great-grandchildren; and many nieces and nephews.

Funeral services were held on Dec 1st in the Tofield United Church with Rev. David Moddle officiating. Interment followed in the Tofield Cemetery.

Pallbearers were grandsons, Harvey, Alex, David, John and Leonard Kleinschroth, Dean Norman and Douglas Hughes.

CARD OF THANKS

We would like to express our sincere thanks to all our relatives, friends and neighbors for their many messages of sympathy, cards, floral tributes and donations to the various organizations.

Special thanks to Dr. Freebury, the nurses and staff of the Tofield Hospital for the wonderful care given to our beloved husband, father, grandfather and great-grandfather Alex Kleinschroth.

Also to Rev David Moddle for his comforting words, to Mrs Melita Wall (soloist) Mrs. Anderson organist, the Ketchamont Ladies Club and helpers who served a delicious lunch after the services.

A special thanks to the seven grandsons, Harvey, Alex and David, sons of George and Jean Kleinschroth, John and Leonard sons of John and Sylvia Kleinschroth, Dean, son of Donalda and Max Norman and Douglas son of Norma and David Hughes.

Seek higher power rates

Calgary Power Ltd. has applied to the Alberta Public Utilities Board for electric power rate increases for each of the two years 1979 and 1980. The increases requested average 6.6 per cent per year over the two years, lower than expected increases in average wages or the Consumer Price Index.

The application requests an increase of 7.5 per cent effective February 1, 1979, and 5.8 per cent effective February 1, 1980. If these rates are approved, the average residential customer's bill before provincial discount would go up by $2.04 per month during 1979 and $1.54 per month in 1980.

"The rate adjustments applied for are needed to meet the impact of inflation on our operating and construction costs," says Marshall M. Williams, president of Calgary Power. "The good news for our customers, however, is that cost increases and therefore rate increases appear to be returning to more modest levels after a period of severe inflation."

Calgary Power is the largest electric utility in Alberta, which is Canada's fastest-growing province. The demands on the Calgary Power system have therefore increased enormously during the 1970's, Mr. Williams said.

Fast drivers save time?

The test is not brand new — in fact it happened back in 1974 in West Germany, but the results are interesting and worth repeating even if some readers have seen them before.

Two major manufacturers publish the auto industry took two identical cars, fitted them with special instrumentation, and sent each on an identical 1,600 km trip. One driver was told to make the best time he could, while the other was told to avoid risks and move as fast as traffic flow permitted.

Results showed the first, or fast driver, passed 2,004 cars and was passed by only 13 vehicles. He used his brakes a total of 1,320 times over the trip, and averaged approx. 80 km-h.

By contrast, the slow driver passed only 668 cars, but was overtaken by 142. His brakes were used only 653 times.

The slow car also achieved almost the same average speed.

The fast driver arrived quickest - taking 20 hours and 13 minutes. The slow driver took 20 hours and 43 minutes - a total difference of only 31 minutes over 1,600 km.

A major auto club refused to accept the results - and conducted their own similar test over a different 1,300 km test course. In this case, also well documented, the "slow" driver took an extra 21 minutes. These 21 minutes saved 45 litres of gasoline.

The speedster is now fully referred to as the "economy" driver. Certainly does make a real difference in the driver's mind when he arrives down the highway, rested, and out of body aching, at his destination. It may be an aggressive age, but who likes?

Harbak-Bourgeois vows exchanged in November

A pretty winter wedding was held in the Calvin United Church in Ryley on November 25th, when Leah Bourgeois, second daughter of Vera and Lonne Bourgeois and Douglas Harbak second son of Barbara Johnson and Alfred Harbak were united in marriage in a double ring ceremony by Rev David Meddle.

The bride was radiant as she entered the church on the arm of her father. She wore a full length gown of white satin and lace, she wore a drop opal necklace, a gift of the groom and carried a bouquet of red roses.

The bride's attendants, two long time friends from Manitoba were maid of honour, Elizabeth Johnson and bridesmaid, Karen Zimmerman. The flower girl was the groom's niece Tammy Houm of Round Hill. They were all identically dressed in red velvet gowns with white fur trim. They carried white fur muffs with white and pink flowers.

The groom, wore a beige tuxedo with chocolate brown velvet trim, with two red roses in his lapel.

The groom's attendants were bestman, his oldest brother, Harry Harbak, groomsman, Ben Fink of Calgary and ring bearer, Doug's youngest brother, Bradley They all were beige tuxedos trimmed in brown velvet and were white carnation boutonnieres. The ushers were Stan Heigeland, friend of the groom, and Wayne Bourgeois, brother of the bride.

For her daughter's wedding, the mother wore a dusty mauve dress with white carnation. The groom's mother wore a blue gown with red carnations.

The wedding music was played by Colleen Walker The soloist, Joan Burnstad, sang two beautiful selections, Evergreen and You Light Up My Life.

At the reception held in the Ryley Community Hall Rev Meddle asked table grace after which a roast beef supper was served by the Ladies Auxiliary of the Royal Canadian Legion.

Master of ceremonies was the groom's uncle, Dell Harrison of Red Deer. Bill Davison of Tofield proposed the toast to the bride to which the groom ably responded. Harry Harbak proposed the toast to the bridesmaids and welcomed Leah into the family.

The three-tiered wedding cake was beautifully decorated by Alice Villeneuve.

After the reception, the bride and groom passed the wedding cake, then opened the gifts. Everyone enjoyed the wedding dance with music supplied by the Travellers of Tofield.

For a going away outfit, the bride chose a burgandy velvet pant suit with a yellow rose corsage. The happy couple will be taking a two-week honeymoon to Hawaii, and on their return, they will be making their home in Chilliwack where the groom is stationed.

Out of town guests were from Montreal, Brandon, Shilo and Flin Flon in Manitoba, Edmonton, Red Deer, Chilliwack, Wainwright, Round Hill and Tofield.

Computer programs open to farmers

Alberta Agriculture's Systems Engineering Branch has developed, adapted, and implemented a number of computer programs to help farmers analyze various design and management alternatives and to choose the one that is best suited to their specific operation These programs are available free of charge to all farmers in Alberta

They include the following:

Propane versus Natural Gas Cost Analysis. The program performs a cost analysis of the two fuels in relation to the heating value of each and such factors as investment, interest, service charges and the price of the fuel

Farm Building Environmental Control Analysis. This program calculates the ventilation and heating requirements and annual energy consumption of greenhouses, machinery sheds and confinement housing for beef and dairy cows, sheep, hogs and poultry Given a particular building system, the program will predict the inside temperature, the relative humidity and the effect of the sun in terms of solar heat gain

Forage Harvesting Systems Simulation and Analyzes This program can be used to evaluate various regular rectangular and large package baling systems on the basis of system performance and cost It can be used to evaluate alternative equipment combinations and sizes Two additional sections of the program should be available in the near future They deal with silage and stacking systems

Solar Heating Systems Design This program calculates the thermal performance of standard active solar space and water heating systems which use either air or water as the transfer medium The program also performs a life-cycle cost analysis of the solar heating system being considered

Energy Analysis in Farm Houses This program evaluates several methods of saving energy They include thermostat setback the use of additional insulation in the walls, attic or basement and the use of weather stripping The program performs heat loss computations to calculate estimated possible savings for each method

Truss Design This program calculates a design for specific [illegible] span gable roof trusses Information [illegible] includes [illegible] as the size of the building, snow load and type of roofing desired

Ventilation Design This program [illegible] calculate the [illegible] and heating requirements for cattle [illegible] Information [illegible] of [illegible] specifications

Farm Building Cost Analysis This program will estimate the cost of constructing a farm building, provide a partial bill of materials and estimate the amount of labor required

Grain Dryer Simulation This program simulates the mechanical drying of various crops and predicts dryer performance (energy consumption, drying rate, etc.) and drying costs

Grain Harvesting and Drying Simulation. This program simulates the total grain harvesting operation It can be used to evaluate various grain harvesting and drying alternatives on the basis of the total system's performance and cost It can also be used to evaluate alternative equipment combinations and sizes.

Farmers who wish to use any of the above programs should contact their regional engineer home design specialist or agricultural engineering specialist (they can be contacted through district agriculturists and district home economists) or write directly to the Systems Engineering Branch, Agricultural Building, 9718 - 107 Street, Edmonton, T5K 2C8.

Jack Horner explains quota on beef

The Honourable Jack H. Horner, P C., M P., Minister of Industry, Trade and Commerce
December 27th, 1978

Since 1973 Canadian beef producers have been concerned over the levels of beef imported into Canada and I think their concern came to a head in 1976 when an excessive amount of beef came into Canada from Australia and New Zealand Since that time they have been vitally concerned with the quota allotted to Australia and New Zealand in particular and the effect it has on Canadian beef numbers and prices

In 1967 Australia had 16,370,000 head of cattle. By 1976 this had grown to 33,412,000 - not quite double but you can see that Australia had excessively enlarged its beef herd and then, in essence, dumped them on the North American continent. This caused Canadian and American cattlemen to become very conscious of quotas

Actually quotas are set in Canada for all types of goods by the Export and Import Permits Act under the Department of Industry, Trade and Commerce Under my guidance we have been trying to establish a formula which would give the government, the cattlemen and the consumer some concept as to how the quota should be set, how far, in which direction and for what reasons

Last March it was agreed in Cabinet that there would be a base period of from 1971 to 1975 and the quota would be adjusted according to the increase or decrease in the consumption of beef from this average base period, and the rate of increase of beef prices relative to the rate of increase of food prices generally during the same period the average total imports of boned beef from all countries including the U S was 127 million lbs During this period consumption of beef was 3,177,000,000 lbs Taking the rate of consumption of beef in Canada today brought about by a larger population and a slight per capita increase in consumption it is estimated that the average consumption during the period of 1977, 1978 and 1979 would be 3,622,500,000

Then, in looking at the increase in the price of beef in relation to the increase in general food prices one can see that during the base period the average index for beef was 134.9 The average index for food during the base period was 136.2.

When one does the division one gets an index factor of 1.075. Looking at the price [illegible] the Consumer Price Index (CPI) beef prices are now at 288 General food prices are at 172. If one works that out one arrives at an index factor of 1.163 Then, when you subtract the index factor of the base period from 1 163 you arrive at an increased ratio of .088. If one multiplies [illegible] by 141.3 one gets 12 4 million lbs

So, for the price ratio this particular year we add an additional 13.4 million lbs onto the 141 3 million lbs arriving at a total adjusted import level of 153 7 million lbs

It has been customary for Canada to allow an additional one per cent for prospective customers in any given year, so, we will allow 154 7 million lbs of beef into Canada next year The exact quota allocation to the U S Australia and New Zealand will naturally have to be worked out through negotiation with these countries but if one takes the approximate level of last year where we allotted the U S 26 million lbs it would leave 139 7 million lbs for Australia and New Zealand

I think consumers in Canada can readily see that we are importing approximately an additional 5 million lbs of beef and that producers realize how carefully the formula was worked out There may well be times, if consumption and prices work the other way, the quota could be reduced Personally I was quite interested in this formula and was very satisfied that in today's world this would have a beneficial effect on producers, and that knowing exactly how much was coming in it would give them renewed confidence that the government was very mindful of the importance of the cattle industry to Canada

Wishing you all a very happy and prosperous new year and if at any time in the future any of my constituents would like a further explanation of beef quotas I would be only too glad to give them one.

Health Unit modifies immunization program

A new Immunization Schedule effective January 1st 1979 has been prepared with the assistance of the Alberta Advisory Committee on Immunization and Alberta Social Services and Community Health. Through vaccination or inoculation, morbidity and mortality from vaccine preventable disease has been drastically reduced. Childhood vaccination programs have become an important function of public health nurses in Alberta. Not only are many of the preventive diseases of greater concern during childhood but immunization at an early age can set the stage for lifelong immunity. In other instances, booster immunization may be required to maintain the lifelong immunity.

The new schedule has been endorsed by the Canadian Pediatric Association as well as the National Advisory Committee on Immunization agenty and will replace earlier schedules used since 1973.

There will be a change away from the basic vaccine which included Diphtheria, Tetanus and Pertussis as well as tetravalent polio vaccine or Salk. We will now use Triple vaccine consisting of injectable DPT (Diphtheria, Pertussis and Tetanus) and TOPV (trivalent Oral Polio vaccine or Sabin given by mouth).

The main advantage of the new schedule is to pave the way for a new generation of DPT vaccines which will provide a higher degree of immunity than our existing preparations.

In addition one dose of Diphtheria, Pertussis, Tetanus and Polio vaccine will be eliminated from the [illegible] schedule.

A schedule for the child under 13 months of age is available at the Health Unit.

Pertussis vaccine should not be given past the age of 6 years due to the high level of reaction in such children.

The practice ago when first and reinforcing doses for immunizations is left to the discretion of the local health authority, however, it should be given as early as possible within the age range recommended. For example where a Health Unit has an extensive Early Childhood Service Program the preferred target group would be 4 to 6 years of age for the reinforcing dose while other health units may prefer to give the reinforcing dose in Kindergarten or Grade 6.

Where a measles epidemic occurs with greater risk during infancy, measles vaccine may be given as early as 6 months, but it is vital that such children should be retranmunized soon after 12 months of age

Routine smallpox vaccination has been discontinued in Alberta since 1972 in view of the World Health Organization Smallpox Eradication Campaign there is no longer any medical justification for a vaccination against this disease. Such vaccination should only be carried out if required for legal entry into certain countries.

Personal immunization for immunization include the following:

a) Best immunity will be obtained by adhering closely to the schedule [illegible]

b) A primary series of Diphtheria, Pertussis, Tetanus and Polio immunization consists of a total of 4 doses, as each dose

c) Infants commencing their primary series should be at least 2 months of age.

d) There is no minimum weight for commencement of immunization Prematurity is no contraindication

e) When there has been an interruption in the recommended schedule with a delay between doses, it is not necessary to start the series again or repeat a dose, regardless of the length of time elapsed between doses.

f) A mild illness, e.g. runny nose or teething, is not sufficient reason to delay immunization.

g) Antibiotic therapy per se is not a contra-indication to immunization.

h) Dental and other operative procedures are not contra-indications to immunization.

i) Combined vaccinations, i.e. DPT (Diphtheria and Tetanus and Pertussis) and trivalent oral Polio (Sabin) result in adequate immune response to all antigens concomitantly.

Certain combinations of vaccines at different sites at the same time have also been shown to be safe and effective.

j) Where killed or live vaccines are administered simultaneously or closely spaced, it is wise to consider adverse reactions to any one of these in order to minimize the cumulative effect, i.e. Measles, Smallpox, Yellow-fever, Cholera and Typhoid may be better spaced.

k) As a general rule regardless of weight, age or state of health, the first dose in a series should never be [illegible]

l) Your health unit maintains a list of vaccine lot numbers which have been used in immunization. This facilitates investigation if any adverse reaction should occur.

m) An acute illness with fever is a legitimate reason to delay immunization.

n) No life vaccines should be administered during pregnancy, leukemia, multiple sclerosis, steroid therapy or other immune deficiency states.

Manufacturers of Measles, Mumps and Rubella vaccines continue to list allergies to eggs, chickens or ducks as contraindications to immunization with these products, despite substantial evidence to the contrary.

It has been reported that the concern of the manufacturer is that the child who has successfully and safely received the vaccine will then eat something in the next few hours which contains eggs and develop a reaction to the ingested food but the family and lawyer will blame the vaccine and institute a suit. Such concern has no basis in medical fact. Though more than 90 million live measles vaccines doses have been administered in North America, there has not been a single authenticated case of immediate or anaphylactic reaction.

Should the weather fall below -10 degrees Fahrenheit or 23 degrees Celcius, the rink will not be opened for skating.

Beginning January 12, there will be a fee charged for skating and the race settles down in earnest as teams battle for playoff berths.

Despite the fact that seventeen points separate the top and bottom teams in the league, no one has been eliminated from playoff contention, and it is still possible for the last place team to finish in first place.

Four games from the first half of the schedule are still to be played Notification as to when these games will be scheduled has not been received by either The Mercury or CFCW

The games involved with original dates in brackets are Andrew at Smoky Lake (Dec 5), Ryley at Smoky Lake (Dec. 12), Ryley at Lamont (Dec 31), and Holden at Smoky Lake (Jan 6)

Mundare continues to hold down first place following last week's action, increasing its lead over second-place Tofield to four points. Mundare now holds a six point advantage over Andrew.

Tofield is in Lamont tonight (Thursday) and will host Andrew on Saturday.

Tuesday's games will see Holden play in Andrew while Ryley plays in Lamont and Holden hosts Smoky Lake

Only six games were played during the past week as the Holden at Smoky Lake contest was postponed One game, Mundare at Ryley, was a game rescheduled from an earlier date of Dec 22rd

Mundare picked up two more wins last week when they blasted Ryley 16-2 and then pasted an 8-5 win over Lamont

Tofield had a split as they walloped Holden 11-3 and then were eked out 3-2 by Ryley

Tuesday night's results will be reported next week

Super curlers open playdowns

Semi-final action in the Super Curling League was completed on last night (Wednesday) in Tofield

Opponents from the Highway 13 Division were decided before Christmas, but winners from the Highway 14 section had to be decided in a playoff in Tofield on Tuesday night.

Miller and Gibb are the Highway 13 representatives but, they likely won't know who they're facing until they arrive in Tofield this evening.

Three teams ended up in a tie for first place in the Highway 14 division. Instead of going by wins and losses against each other as originally intended Sears and Bobry would have been the winners), it was decided prior to last week's action, that a tie would be broken by a playoff

Sears, Dobry and Goubault all ended up in a deadlock for first place with identical 5-2 records.

Opposition for Tuesday's playoffs was to have been decided by the three teams drawing from a hat

Winners of last night's semi-final action will meet next Wednesday night in Tofield for the Super Curling League championship

Dobry earned his berth in last night's playoff when he blasted Thompson 13-3 while Sears advanced by doubling Bugge 8-4

Goubault and Shyba were also tied for top spot going into last Wednesday's action and the loser automatically was eliminated, Goubault obtained a berth in the division playoffs by edging Shyba 7-6

Whyte finished in a tie for fourth place when he squeezed out a 6-5 victory over Miller who went through the schedule without a win

Health Unit plans "series of clinics"

Commencing early in January, a new childhood schedule of immunization adopted by the provincial health department means infant immunization can now commence at two months of age instead of three months

Immunization stimulates the body to develop protective substances against certain [illegible] diseases Vaccines used are diptheria, tetanus, pertussis (whooping cough), polio, measles, and rubella (German measles)

Under the new schedule, infants at two months, four months and six months of age will receive a combined diphtheria - pertussis - tetanus vaccine as well as an oral (Sabin) polio vaccine These initial doses are followed by booster shots when the child reaches 18 months of age, and again when the child is four - six years old

Twelve-month old infants are vaccinated against measles Girls at 12 years of age are immunized for rubella

Immunization is free, and available through clinics held by the Vegreville Health Unit Parents are encouraged to bring infants and pre-schoolers to local clinics for immunization, while the rubella program for 12-year old girls is carried out through the schools

For information and/or appointments at Well Child-Adult Clinics, contact the Vegreville Health Unit at the Holden Sub-Office Phone 688-3853 (Office hours 8.30 a.m 12.00 noon for clinics held in Holden, Viking and Tofield

Fontaine's memory perserved by A.C.T.

The memory of Tofield's Alphonse Fontaine will live on at the ACT recreation centre in Rundle Park.

Mr Fontaine, who passed away in October, shortly before his fifty-first birthday, was well known at the centre and was one of its active supporters, prior to his death

A paraplegic confined to a wheelchair Mr Fontaine was well known to thousands of truck drivers and other travellers for his willingness to assist people travelling throughout Alberta, especially along Highway 14

Known as "Alberta Wheels" to literally hundreds of Cher's Mr Fontaine talked to many of them over his own radio, and even had a CB unit attached to his wheelchair so that he could talk to his friends no matter where he was

On Saturday past, on behalf of his many CB friends, his grandmother, Mrs Elizabeth Lepine, presented a cheque for $1,001 to representatives of ACT (Associated Canadian Travellers) for use at the Rundle Park recreation centre

The money will be used to purchase a bronzing machine, which would allow handicrafts to be covered with a coating of bronze, to enhance and preserve them for the future

Police chases

High speed automobile chases by police forces are drawing a good deal of criticism these days, following a number of fatal accidents which have resulted from certain chases recently. Not only are drivers of the cars being pursued involved, but sometimes innocent third parties as well.

The deaths are bringing severe criticism of the whole concept of police chases, accompanied by demands that they be banned, in the interests of public safety.

Surely such demands fly in the face of reason. We'll agree that these deaths, any deaths, are undesirable. But to utterly ban police chases on the grounds that someone might be hurt is overlooking the obvious

No chase ever starts unless the policeman has some reason to wonder what a driver is doing, and even more to wonder why he will not stop when requested to. Under such circumstances, it's perfectly natural that a policeman would take off in pursuit. The tragedy comes when a driver flees some minor offence, for whatever reason, and immediately compounds his problem by failing to stop, and by trying to evade arrest. Obviously it becomes even worse, by driving without due care and attention, at unreasonable rates of speed, and by going through red lights.

With such an attitude being displayed, is it any wonder that a policeman who is charged with maintaining the peace takes off in hot pursuit to see how serious is the offence being committed? After all, if he were to abandon the chase, being content to pick the car up later by its license, he may have lost all opportunity to identify the actual driver, to see whether or not contraband is thrown out, whether the driver is wanted, or several other things

Certainly it's too bad when someone is injured, or killed But let's face it, no policeman enjoys being thrust into a high speed chase situation, either. He can't know what danger he's about to face, whether it's a gun-slinging driver in the car ahead, or a possible accident with his own vehicle, but he, too, is entering a dangerous situation, and he's doing it in the name of his duty to the public, not because of his own interest

It seems that it would be more productive if as much attention were paid to impressing on all drivers that not to stop when hailed by a policeman is simply compounding whatever abuse the driver feels he has already committed. It would be more productive if drivers were given the attitude that it's next to impossible to outrun a police vehicle

Then chase fatalities would diminish especially when that vehicle radios for help from other forces. No base runner in baseball was ever in a tighter bobox than a vehicle trying to outrun a police radio net

Sure, there have been some accidents during high speed chases by police, but how many chases have taken place without an incident, and have never drawn the spotlight of attention

Banning police chases seems to us about as intelligent as taking away the pistols issued to police on the grounds that someone might get hurt if the policeman shoots, after calling "Halt, or I'll fire!"

Deception or tranquilizers?

Dear Sir,

Jack Horner's year end report, printed recently in this newspaper, was, like most other things Mr Horner says and does, interesting However some parts of it give cause for concern

First of all, Mr Horner takes credit for having maintained a 50 percent rebate on taxes payable by private utility companies like Calgary Power This sounds good but who does it really benefit" It benefits private monopolies operating in areas which would be much better managed by a public corporation Horner is helping to perpetuate private monopolies whose excessive rates and often insensitive expansionism do not serve the public interest He deserves no applause for this rebate

He goes on to mention oil prices and takes credit for the $2 00 per barrel increase in the price of crude which will take place during the next year WE all know how unlikely it is that Horner is solely responsible for this arrangement but that is only a secondary matter What is most disturbing about Horner's handling of the oil issue is what might be called Horner's "pugilistic mentality" He writes and talks as if a bloody nose for the rest of Canada is somehow good for Alberta Another way of putting it is to say that he seems to assume that if "Eastern bastards freeze in the dark" then those of us who live in Alberta are bound to prosper in light and warmth

This mentality is as stupid as it is crassly selfish Many Albertans have come to Alberta from other parts of Canada, many more will see their sons and daughters take jobs and raise children in other provinces than our own Policies which cause hardship and restraint for any Canadians should be avoided, not pursued, by Albertans, no less than by any other Canadians

All Albertans felt shame last month when the Honourable Bert Hohol descended to disgusting and unhospitable stinginess in reacting to the prospect of Alberta's provision for some of the Vietnamese refugees who had been admitted to Canada No Albertan can take pride in the fact that our entire federal cabinet continually tries to make political hay out of an appeal to cynical and brutal materialism

The Albertans I know are not the greedy, money-hungry mob Horner supposes them to be. There is much decency, generosity, and humanity in this province in the average Albertan The only Canadians who want to see Alberta as a band of mindless, purse snatching hill-billies are Central Canadians looking for an excuse for hating the West and a few fanatical Conservative politicians, including one who was too conservative for the Conservative Party

So much for fatalities and oil, but what about Trade, which is, after all, Mr Horner's cabinet portfolio" On this subject Mr. Horner's desperate pleas and whining claims are pathetic All that Horner appears to have to show for a year or so as minister is increased volume in the regulation of natural gas sales, and some trade concessions for beef in Japan, rapeseed in Korea and boneless dressed meat in the US What makes this pathetic is not just the slightness of these advantages but the tunnel vision and myopia they betray Hasn't Horner learned yet that the future of Canada and that includes Alberta depends on her becomint an exporter of manufactured goods and on her ceasing to depend so heavily on the trading off of raw materials" Horner is starting to sound like a 1970's C.D. Howe, doing his part to keep Canada in the cahoose of North America's economic train

It takes a lot of gall for Horner to even mention the Foreign Investment Review Agency This Agency is the gutless wonder of the Ottawa bureaucracy the biggest disappointment since Lauier's promise that the twentieth century belongs to Canada During the fall year it rejected only 25 of the record 600 applications for take-overs by foreign firms which it received This prompted the American Business weekly Barron's, to quip that the only firm which would not be welcomed to take over part of Canada would be "Murder Incorporated" The performance of this agency has not surprisingly worsened during Horner's tenure as Trade Minister.

I find it difficult to concur with Horner's own high opinion of the performance he has turned in during his first year in a federal Cabinet True, his vivid distortions of reality, which appear periodically in this newspaper under the heading "Ottawa Report" make for much more interesting reading than do those tame and tiresome banalities called "Keeping in Touch" (or is it "Falling Asleep"") which his Conservative opponent regularly provides But is it any better to be deceived than to be tranquilized"

Yours sincerely

If you have been noticing reddish brown slimy sediment in and reddish-brown stains resulting from your well water, you probably have iron and or iron bacteria in your well systems An easy way to determine if your iron problem is caused by iron bacteria is to look inside your toilet tank If there is a slimy red deposit inside the tank you have iron bacteria

The recommended method for controlling iron bacteria is to pour three to five gallons of chlorine bleach, the type you buy for laundering, in 50-100 gallons of water and put this mixture directly into the well and pump some of it through the complete water system Leave this mixture in the well and the complete water system for at least twelve hours After the twelve hours has passed then flush out the well and run the taps until the chlorine smell has disappeared

The recommended chlorine method will not solve the problem permanently but if done at least semi-annually will usually keep the bacteria in check and save you a lot of problems with plugged filters, slimy red deposits and stains

OTTAWA (SJ) – It boggles the mind when you consider the opposition here, mounted to public servants' protests against the government's mild intentions of curbing the size of the public service.

The chance for efficiency and bringing public servants' salaries up line with what private business is paying must be done, no matter what the political cost in areas where the population is civil servants. It must be done not only for economic reasons but because it has been determined by polls that the public is no friend of civil service cutbacks.

We have reached the state in the federal civil service in finding the Armed Forces, where wages far outstrip anything that comparable jobs in private industry would pay. We have, for example something like 650 public servants at the lowest level of the senior executive category, earning between $31,400 and $43,200 Most of them would have trouble finding a non government job which paid as well and offered hours of work so brief

Generally speaking, the lower levels of the civil service are paid slightly better than private business would pay people for the same type of job In the very senior positions such as deputy ministers, pay levels aren't as high as they would be for top private business executives It is that great mass of civil servants in the upper middle level who are paid far above private business norms

The government which allowed this situation to take place is now faced with the distasteful talks of rectifying the situation It must be done not only by holding salary increases to less than the inflation rate, but by weeding out unnecessary staff As the worthy auditor general of Canada says, we should even fire some of those who aren't doing their jobs

Anyone who has been around Ottawa for long can offer you horror stories about incompetent bureaucrats who have been transferred instead of fired, sticking some other department with bad performance, and it's got to be stopped

In the face of such circumstances, here is the Public Service Alliance of Canada, and the Canadian Labor Congress, saying that government moves to tie civil service salaries to the private sector will be fought tooth and nail

If organized labor takes up such a misdirected crusade, it will be without the support of large chunks of the membership who are feeling the tax bite to support our fat bureaucracies right along with every other Canadian taxpayer

Horner reviewing rail line history

The Honourable Jack H. Horner, PC, MP, Minister of Industry, Trade and Commerce

Because of the difficulties which have occurred over the past year in the grain handling industry, and the suggestion that the Canadian Wheat Board position in addition to 2,000 hopper cars, there is throughout Western Canada and in Crowfoot in particular a renewed interest in when some of the railway track will be abandoned

It is difficult today to re-cap in one's mind the rush to build railroads in the early 1900s There was the CPR across the southern part of the Prairies, the Grand Trunk through the middle and northern regions and two individuals by the name of McKenzie and Mann were busy attempting to build what they envisaged as a third transcontinental railroad. In fact, in looking at the history of the railroads on the Prairies, it was this rivalry between the systems which sprouted branch lines that went curling across the plains in every direction, like ground vines in Spring There is no question that this atmosphere created, in essence, railway lines for today's services on the Prairies.

In the early days coal was a very necessary fuel and coal mines tended to get ready service from the railroads This is particularly true of Drumheller – an early coal mining town on the Red Deer River It was hard to visualize in the years 1911 to 1920 that the motor vehicle would ever occupy such a prominent spot in the economy of the Prairies and that the trucking industry would ever grow to the extent to which it has. Up until the early 1930s most livestock moved to market by rail but from about 1953 onward hardly any at all moved by rail. With the coming of the auction markets and better roads, larger cattle liners have taken all of the livestock business; however, rail still plays a prominent part in the movement of livestock out of the province. I only mention this to give you an indication as to how some services have changed without causing too great a disruption in community life

People have always complain when experts ask them to become more efficient believing that they are the most efficient segment in our society I think they generally expect the other segments serving the agriculture industry to become as efficient as they are and I suppose with that thought in mind it is only logical to believe that sooner or later some railway lines would have to disappear

The Hall Commission was set up to study this very question They brought down their report stating that on the Prairies generally approximately 1,886 miles of track which were up for abandonment should be upgraded so that they could serve the communities to the year 3000, that approximately another 2,300 miles of track should be examined more closely - some of it abandoned and some upgraded - but decisions on all of it should be taken between now and 1990, and another 2,100 miles of track should be abandoned as soon as possible.

In Alberta 90 per cent of the trackage under discussion was in the old Constituency of Crowfoot and the new Constituency of Crowfoot The line from Coronation East to Consort was to be upgraded and maintained until the year 2000. The line from Drumheller to Stettler fell within the second category, to be abandoned by 1990 or upgraded. The line from Hanna through Byemoor to Warden is in this same category

The Hall Commission recommended the establishment of a Prairie Rail Authority This would require legislation so in order to deal with all the uncertainties as soon as possible the Minister of Transport appointed a Prairie Rail Action Committee made up of representatives from Saskatchewan, Manitoba and Alberta under the chairmanship of Fred Anderson of Regina who was Secretary to the MacPherson Royal Commission on Railways in 1960 and 1961. On this PRAC from the Alberta representative is Mr Gere All of these men are practical Westerners trying to wrestle with the difficult problem of which lines should be upgraded which lines should be abandoned They are to bring down their report to the government early in the new year. Any lines they recommend should be abandoned, those recommendations will have to be heard by the Canadian Transport Commission and certainly affected districts will once again have an opportunity to express their concerns

The government also has made the decision that in the event of any line abandonment the right-of-way will, at no cost to the municipality, become the property of the municipality to be used for road construction or sold back to the farmers or for any other purpose the municipalities might have in mind The government is also considering some additional assistance in the movement of grain from what might be considered off-railway storage centres.

At the time this article appears in the local press I will be in China heading a trade mission comprised of a group of interested Canadian businessmen in an attempt to broaden our trade patterns with the Peoples' Republic of China I might say that this trip has been planned for some time - long before the U.S decided to recognize China

Many Canadians, knowing that trade is a two-way street, might wonder what on earth we can buy from China which will enable us to sell them more. Actually China, in its striving to become a modern nation by the year 2000, is very interested in developing its resources and Canada is certainly an expert in this regard Actually we hope to be able to assist China in the field of communications, aviation, farm machinery, lumber and in particular assist them in developing their oil and gas reserves. believing that there is ample oil and gas in China and that if these are developed they will be able to sell to the world large amounts of hydro carbons, thus enabling them to pay all the other necessary items they will require as a modern nation in the year 2000. The City of Tokyo, for example, imports four times the amount of gas we Canadians now export to the U.S That gives you some idea of the huge market available in Asia for the sale of China's resources which will enable them to buy more goods from Canada.

On this trip I intend to visit Indonesia and the Philippines as well Canada is building a railroad and opening a coal mine in Indonesia and there are a number of projects on the go in the Philippines When I get back I will give you a full report on Canada's ability to participate in this huge Asian market

Falkenberg to head Unifarm second term

Howard Falkenberg yesterday was elected to a second term as president of Unifarm, the office he was elected to fill just a year ago, following seven years of presidency by W Dobson Lea, who moved on to become president of the Canadian Federation of [illegible]

Mr Falkenberg was unopposed in his campaign for a second term, when nominations opened at 11.30 Tuesday

Two vice-presidents were re-elected by acclamation when nominations were taken late Tuesday afternoon

Danny Manderson of Ryley and Charlie Archibald of Rosalind were not opposed in their respective bids for new terms as vice-presidents

The elections were part of the annual convention of Unifarm being held in the Macdonald Hotel in Edmonton, from Monday to Thursday of this week.

Prior to the opening of the convention, it was expected that statutory rates for the movement of western grains would be among the major topics discussed, by the roughly 400 delegates expected to register for the ninth [illegible]

Several political leaders and several agribusiness leaders will be featured speakers during the meetings, including the Hon. Otto Lang, Minister of Transport also responsible for the Wheat Board, the Hon Marvin Moore, Alberta Minister of Agriculture; Robert Clark, leader of the Opposition in Alberta, F.M Hetland, commissioner of the Canadian Wheat Board, and W Dobson Lea, president of the Canadian Federation of Agriculture, and immediate past president [illegible]

Well known Alberta historian, Dr. J. W. Grant MacEwen, former lieutenant governor of the province, will be the speaker at Thursday evening's concluding banquet

Monday's meetings featured discussions with a number of commodity groups, followed by an orientation meeting for young and new [illegible]

Delegates representing all of Unifarm's 67 districts and member organizations are seeking to find answers to a wide variety of agricultural concerns ranging from non-agricultural use of viable farm lands to the potential for weather modification for farming in the future

The umbrella concept, established at the 1978 convention, gives representative member commodity groups the opportunity to present their policies intact for adoption by Unifarm, but also allows for challenge by delegates who feel that any part of a member group's policy may be detrimental to producers of another commodity

Consequently, the statutory rates issue, challenged at the convention, was referred to Unifarm's grain, livestock and transportation committees to attempt to find a [illegible]

A series of meetings and joint meetings of the three committees were held during the past year and culminated in the preparation of a five-part proposal that will be presented to the convention The proposal retains the benefits of statutory rates for grain producers while it en- [illegible] improving rail service and alleviating problems of livestock and oil seed producers and crushers.

Other members of the Zone championship team which will be going to Jasper Place on Jan 18-21 are Colleen Rawluk, Deb Martin and Shelley Ness

Froehler wins again

Mel Froehler of Strome has won his second straight Zone curling championship.

The Strome quartet won the Zone senior men's curling crown over the past weekend during a playoff bonspiel in Bruce.

Froehler won his second straight crown when he topped a member of last year's championship rink, Jack Wallis of Camrose, in the 'A-B' finals.

Other members of the championship rink, which will compete in the Northern Alberta playdowns in Edmonton from Jan. 18-21, are Cliff Robbins, Eddie Blasser [illegible].

Froehler had to win his title the hard way after he lost his opening round game 10-6 to Wallis.

Dropping to the 'B' Event, Froehler edged Ernie Dorin of Bruce 8-7 in an extra end and then beat Martin Olsen of Daysland 10-6 to gain a berth in the 'A-B' playoffs.

Froehler then toppled Wallis 12-7 to force a sudden-death contest which he won 9-6, to win the Zone title.

After beating Froehler in his opening game, Wallis picked up the 'A' Event when he stopped Olsen 9-6.

In the opening game of the three-team, two-day playoffs Olsen blanked the Dorin four [illegible].

[illegible]

Men's Zone playoffs will be held in Daysland starting tomorrow (Thursday) and winding up on Sunday. At least twelve teams will be participating.

Junior men's playoffs have been scheduled for Viking on Jan. 19-21 and five teams have already registered.

Marriage property now owned 50-50

Alberta's new matrimonial property act became effective on January 1, as a result of an order-in-council passed in November.

The new law could have an effect on everyone in Alberta who is married, separated or divorced. It sets specific guidelines for the distribution of property owned by one or both persons when a marriage breaks down.

The new law states that on marriage breakdown, property acquired during marriage will be shared equally by the two spouses unless the court decides it would be unfair to do so. If the two parties agree upon a basis for sharing this property, a judge's order is not necessary.

Although some property is exempted, the balance of the matrimonial property which is to be shared is almost all of the property the two persons acquired after marriage. If the court decides it will be shared on any basis other than a 50-50 split, the act sets guidelines for the distribution.

A marriage contract would override the act and allow spouses to be bound by the rules they chose, but the contract must be written according to the requirements of the act.

The new legislation does not deal with maintenance payments which are covered in the divorce act and the domestic relations act.

When the two parties disagree on property distribution either spouse may apply to the courts for a matrimonial property order which is in the form of a statement of claim for distribution of their property.

Protein from leaves

Have you ever thought of weeds as a rich source of protein?

More than a quarter of a century ago a young man working at Cambridge University in England became convinced that the green part of plants could be used as a source of protein if a way could be found to extract the protein. Despite interruptions due to other commitments, Norman Pirie persisted over the years with this work and eventually developed an extraction process.

Essentially, the process is simple: fresh green material is forced through a screw press which extracts the juices. Then the protein in the juices is coagulated by heat and strained out as a kind of cheese.

Work at the British National Institute for Research in Dairying has shown that the fibrous residue that is left can be used as feed for cattle and other ruminants. The sugary whey which runs off the protein after extraction could be used as a base for processes involving bacteria, the scientists say.

"Apart from conventional herbage crops", says Mr. Pirie, "there is an enormous potential for extracting protein from plant species regarded as weeds as well as from the residues of farm crops." He has calculated, for example, that sugarbeet tops, of which more than two-thirds are simply plowed back into the soil in Britain, could provide the country with 50,000 tons of protein a year.

"Another 50,000 tons of protein could be produced from potato stems which are not used at all", he says. Work on this material is now going on at the Rothamsted Research Institute in England. "Any harmful alkaloids" Mr. Pirie says, "are easily removed by washing the product with acid."

The main use of leaf protein in countries like Britain seems likely to be in animal feeds. Elsewhere, however, it could well be used in the human diet. Leaf protein is said to be equivalent to the protein of fish, but not as good as that from eggs and cheese.

Development work on the pressing process is still not complete, but there are reasonably efficient versions capable of working with a power requirement as low as one-third of a horsepower (250 watts). In fact, according to a British report, a low power press has been successfully used in trials in southern India where the protein shortage is acute.

There, locally made material, based on lucerne (alfalfa) and mixed with brown sugar and cereal, was fed to children as a supplementary food in the form of small cakes. Other children were given supplements based on skim milk powder and on pulses.

The children apparently relished and thrived on the sweet cakes. In terms of the children's height and weight gain, the cakes appeared to be almost as good as the milk powder supplement and slightly better than the pulses.

An incidental benefit from the leaf protein, says the report, came from its richness in vitamin A. Vitamin A is often deficient in some diets and the deficiency may, if not corrected, lead to blindness at an early age.

An official of Alberta Agriculture's plant industry division says similar work to that done by Mr. Pirie is being done with alfalfa leaves in Davis, California, U.S.A. at the University of Wisconsin, also in the United States, a 50 per cent protein product is being obtained by squeezing the juice from alfalfa specially grown for this purpose.

WOMEN MANAGERS

I read an interesting article about women in management the other day. It mentioned the well known phrases that sterotype the woman in [illegible] aggressive - a woman is pushy. Most women have good "business sense" and have time to study articles, keep up to-date on markets and innovations so can contribute much to management decisions on the farm. Doing some of the managing of the business frees husbands to spend more time outside doing the work of the business.

Many women have a special feel for a certain part of the farming operation, farrowing of pigs for example, so have taken over that end of the operation to manage and run.

Because a lot of farm wives do the books, they are able to keep closer tabs on the family's financial situation and join in major financial decision making.

Even the small task of reviewing the farm papers and magazines that come into the home and pointing out pertinent articles to the husband is an important way women today are becoming involved and knowledgeable in the successful farming business.

Perhaps the most important reason of all is the simple fact that women generally live longer than men and there's always the chance that the running of the farm operation will be left in the wife's hands. Better to know what's going on [illegible]

Magazine rep travels far

Ilene Miller of Hay Lakes received the personal touch as one of 10 finalists in a writing contest sponsored by Guideposts magazine, when Van Varner of New York, senior staff editor of Guideposts, came all the way to Hay Lakes on Sunday to meet her.

Being chosen as a finalist is considerable honor, said Mr. Varner, as it is such a large contest — 2,300 manuscripts were received by the magazine in this year's contest. Ilene is the only finalist from Canada. Although final placement in the contest is not decided yet, he said Ilene would likely be notified in a couple of weeks.

Depending on her final placement, she will receive a cash prize of a minimum of $1,000 to a maximum of $4,000, plus all finalists are awarded a college scholarship to attend any university of their choice.

From the airport, Mr. Varner went directly to the Miller home Sunday evening to become acquainted with Ilene and her family, then on Monday morning visited Hay Lakes School to meet her English 30 teacher, Mrs. Jean Moncur, and tour the school. He also spoke briefly to the English 30 class and answered some of their questions.

The contest is announced in September and is open for a few months, then the whole staff at Guideposts works at reading them, said Mr. Varner. Each manuscript gets two readings, in which the quality quickly shows through, then further weeding and judging is done.

"This is my baby — going around to meet the contest winners," Mr. Varner said. He enjoys learning about the background of the contestants, their goals, and something about their communities. He does a considerable amount of travelling, as each issue usually carries a personal story featuring a celebrity or sports figure and so forth. For example, on Saturday he was in Great Falls, Montana, gathering material for a story, then flew to Edmonton on Sunday and drove out to the Millers late that afternoon, was at Hay Lakes School Monday morning, then flew to Los Angeles, California, to visit with another contest finalist and family that evening in L.A., visit the school Tuesday morning, then fly elsewhere that afternoon.

The magazine, Guideposts, is a monthly non-profit, interfaith publication which carries no advertising and is sold by subscription only. Its sources of income include the sale of books and a certain amount of donations. It is more than a magazine, explained Mr. Varner, as they are interested in reaching out to help people wherever they can. Guideposts also has an edition in Braille for the same price. It is the 50th largest magazine (in circulation) in the United States, with a circulation of three and a half million. As a point of interest, last week it passed Newsweek in circulation, said Mr. Varner.

Don't cook your goose with a microwave oven

Although the exact biological effects of microwave radiation from a microwave oven are still not known, there are indications that an overdose can cause such things as cataracts of the eyes and damage to the sex glands, especially in males

For this reason microwave oven users should observe the following safety precautions:

Never stand within arms length of an oven that is operating.

Never open the door of an oven while it is on.

Never look through the door of an oven while it is cooking.

Never insert an object through the grill door.

Never tamper with the safety locks on the oven.

Never leave an oven on when it is not cooking.

Never use a damaged oven

If it or the door gets damaged in anyway, have the oven checked immediately.

Never go near an operating microwave oven if you use a cardiac pacemaker.

Never use scouring pads, steel wool or any other abraisive to clean a microwave oven. Use water and a mild detergent to clean the door, seals and oven cavity. Clean them frequently

Have your oven checked about once a year by a qualified serviceman to make sure there are no signs of wear or damage.

Grant Chruchill, safety coordinator with Alberta Agriculture, explains that microwave energy is a form of high frequency radio waves, and that the heating effect produced in food appears to result from the conversion of electromagnetic energy into heat energy within water molecules Molecules in an electrical field tend to line up and to vibrate, but they vibrate with greater speed than normal if the field vibrates as is the case with microwave emissions. Microwaves change polarity about five billion times per second, and the molecules of water in food or tissue vibrate at this frequency It is this rapid vibration, which causes friction between the molecules, that is thought to change microwave energy into heat energy

Since microwave energy is not absorbed by items that do not contain water molecules, the oven and the oven dishes do not get hot during the cooking process.

Microwave ovens cannot be turned up or down to generate more or less waves They can only be turned on for a longer of shorter period or turned off from the safety point of view, the door is the most important feature of a microwave oven because it provides a shield between the microwaves and the operator. The door has a double interlock system so that power to the generator is turned off when the door is open. However, if the door or the glass or the screen on the door are damaged, microwave energy may leak out.

Although the interactions between microwaves and human tissues is very complex, the most significant effects appear to result from heat. According to Mr. Chruchill, the body seems to respond identically to the heat that originates from microwaves and the heat that originates from a fever In both cases the heat acts as a stress factor which affects normal responses Effects which can occur from this stress are cataracts, temporary sterility in males, changes in the blood, headaches, a slowing down of the heartbeat and disturbances in the nervous system. A leakage from a microwave oven can cause a pacemaker to vary its impulse rate or to stop.

The standard level of safe exposure to microwaves used to be 10 milliwatts per square centimetre, but it has now been lowered to one milliwatt per square centimetre Of the 77 commercial microwave ovens tested by Alberta Labor's radiation protection branch, 45 were found to meet the current standard of one milliwatt, 26 met the old standard of 10 milliwatts and six were leaking in excess of 10 milliwatts per square centimetre.

Microwaves that are escaping from an oven can be detected in a number of ways. The simplest device for the home owner is a neon bulb. It will glow if the amount of radiation leaking from the oven is about 10 milliwatts per square centimetre These bulbs can be obtained from Westinghouse Canada Ltd. for about $5.

If you purchased your microwave oven before 1972 when the safe use exposure standard was lowered to one milliwatt from 10 milliwatts per square centimetre, you do not have to worry, according to Mr. Chruchill. He says the new standard was brought in so that microwave oven manufacturers would have to build in a larger safety factor to give users added protection.

God wouldn't have given us feet if he didn't mean for us to use them.

Top spot is crowded in Beaverhill hockey

It's getting crowded at the top of the Beaverhill Hockey League.

Tofield moved into a tie for first place with Mundare following action during the past week, and Andrew is only two points behind.

Mundare and Andrew both have a two-game advantage over Tofield in that both teams have played fourteen games while Tofield has been involved in sixteen contests.

Ryley and Wahkatau on Tuesday night while Holden played in Andrew and Smoky Lake was in Mundare. These games will be reported next week.

Tonight's (Thursday) games will see Tofield host Andrew, Smoky Lake is in Holden and Ryley plays in Lamont.

On Saturday night, Holden will host Lamont while Tuesday matches will see Ryley host Holden in Tofield, and Tofield will play in Wahkatau.

One week from tonight (Thursday) Tofield and Ryley meet in Tofield, while Holden plays in Mundare.

An important contest will be played in Tofield on January 27th when the league's all star team will host the CLC Vikings from Camrose.

It is expected that the players making up the all star team will be announced later this week or early next week.

The Camrose college team has shown improvement in the early going of 1979 and has climbed into third place in the Alberta Colleges Athletic Conference Hockey League.

Mundare dropped out of sole possession of first place last week when they were upset 8-5 by Andrew and a game in Tofield was postponed.

A win and a tie in two outings vaulted Tofield into a share of top spot. Tofield [redacted] Lamont is 1-1-1 this season.

In addition to a win over Mundare, Andrew recorded an easy 11-1 decision over Wahkatau.

Lamont edged Smoky Lake 5-4 and Holden walked all to a 4-4 sawoff while the only other game played saw Ryley topple Smoky Lake 7-4.

With the regular schedule not ending until the latter part of next month (February) little has been decided by play to date, with all teams still in the running for playoff berths.

ONE FOR ANTI-INFLATION

When in Rome . . .

One more example of officialdom gone mad surfaced in recent weeks, when Bell Telephone ran into trouble with the federal government over the possibility its contract to install telephones in a Middle East Arab country might infringe Canada's human rights legislation forbidding discrimination either for race or for sex.

Someone must have been working overtime to find discrimination in the situation involved, because Bell would be unable to send a complete blend of its workers overseas to handle the installation. Because it is an Arab country, no Jews would be permitted, nor would any women be allowed on the installation, since all telephone switchboard work there is handled by men.

And to our utter incredulity, the Hon. Herb Gray, whose ministry this falls under, is demanding that Bell either negotiate with its customers change their laws, permitting Bell to send in any and all Canadian workers, or else to forego the contract completely.

It's unbelievable! Well, almost unbelievable. Except that Canadians have come to credit almost any story they hear about the Liberal administration in this country today.

There's utterly no suggestion that Bell would be discriminating in its broad hiring policy, only that it might be selective in the people chosen for the foreign assignment. As well it should be. Think how careful any company would have to be, for instance, in sending German workers to an installation in Israel, when the Holocaust of World War II is remembered daily.

We can hardly believe that Gray, or any Canadians, should be so insensitive as to suggest the Arabs must be governed by our laws, or do without. Remember how indignant Canadians become when the United States "dares" try to impose U.S. standards on Canadian firms. Remember, as one instance, how upset Canadians became when Canada lost millions of dollars in auto sales to Cuba . . . a country with which we were trading . . . simply because the companies were ruled by a foreign government? Why wouldn't the Arabs be just as indignant?

If Prime Minister Trudeau has become famous for one thing, it probably is his declaration that the state has no business in the bedrooms of the nation. It isn't much of a stretch to feel the state has no more business criticizing the laws or mores of another sovereign nation, and if we want to do business with other nations, we'd better see what we can learn from them, rather than trying to remake them in our pattern.

Tax benefit exceeds subsidy

Grain producers should be interested in developments contained in the federal budget of November 16. Of particular interest is what is termed a stimulus to mining (oil sands and others) development, which raises to 100 percent from 30 percent the incentive for exploration. Those agricultural people who feel guilty about the cost to the public treasury of grain transportation subsidies should compare figures.

Other industries have for decades benefited from forgiveness of income tax in order to stimulate development of their business. The oil and mining companies have benefited most substantially from this provision and the savings to these companies have been extensive

The decision to permit Canadian petroleum producers to raise in price should have placed the development companies in a relatively strong financial position. A quick look at some annual reports would indicate that this has happened. Home Oil lists net earnings at $36.9 million for 1977. The same statement lists deferred income tax of $75.7 million. Deferred income taxes are unlikely to ever be paid and are tax considerations given in lieu of exploration and other expenses. Pan Canadian [illegible] lists income before income tax of $191.1 million and an additional $25.4 million in deferred income tax. Siebens Oil and Gas Ltd show net earnings in 1977 of $14.4 million with deferred income taxes of $13.5 million. Kenting Ltd., lists as operating income for 1976 of $6.5 million with deferred income tax at $127,428.

According to the Snavely Report in 1974, subsidies paid to railroads on behalf of the federal government amounted to $61.9 million. The cost to Canada to ensure grain transportation to seaboard is not comparatively large. The critics should bear in mind that agriculture is a high risk enterprise which does not receive the kind of stimulation provided to mining and petroleum. Agriculture's owner operators cannot expect to reap profits comparable to the protective industries. They are expected to persist and remain productive forever. The Budget is not criticizing development incentives for oil, gas and coal contained in Mr Chretien's budget. We do want to emphasize that the cost to Canada through the forgiveness of an additional 70 percent of mining development cost does now and will exceed the cost of subsidies for grain transportation

OTTAWA (CP) — I'm not much for lotteries in principle, although like many other Canadians I pay the fool tax and buy tickets with the dream of winters in Hawaii. I'm not in favor either of the sort of political side-stepping performed by the Minister responsible for amateur sport, Iona Campagnolo, on the subject of lotteries.

The news media got hold of a story on the financial troubles of the federal lottery late last year and charged the flabby minister Mrs Campagnolo with wasting up to $37 million in taxpayers' money in the fight between the secret service provinces over who got to play the computer numbers game with the feds.

The feds were stuck with all this leased office space, lottery machines for picking your own numbers and a sizeable staff designed to run federal lotteries which would compete with provincial lotteries. Wasted money, said the opposition, tell us how much.

Not waste at all, said Mrs Campagnolo. Canadians sunk something in excess of a billion dollars annually into lotteries, the net take to governments being $600 million, and all the federal government was trying to do was assure itself a large slice of that take. It came to a split-up understanding with the provinces and settled with the federal share of the profits at $200 million annually, said Miss J.

Well, it wasn't quite as simple as that. What happened was the feds decided they could steal a march on the provinces and beat them into the pick-your-own-number variety of the game of chance. To this end, the federal crown corporation charged with gambling ordered, in secret, several million dollars worth of machines to operate the new kind of lottery. No, they weren't slot machines a la Las Vegas, they were computers.

We all know the fuss which resulted last year in the House of Commons when the secret deal became public, and we know the final understanding the federal government was forced into with the provinces.

No, Mrs Campagnolo, it wasn't quite as simple as you made it sound in Parliament when you tried to explain the loss the federal government will sustain, as a result of the provincial governments buying out the brand-new federal lottery equipment at fire sale prices.

Had the federal government, through its crown corporation, not tried to steal a march on the provinces, exceeding the mandate extended by Parliament, we would not have lost that money.

It's nice to know that the fool tax hits the provinces, too, as well as through the end it will still be the taxpayer who foots the bill.

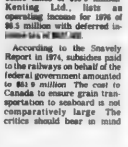
Chicago violinist at College

Mary Dill, guest violinist from Chicago will be featured in the second concert of the Camrose Lutheran College Faculty Recital Series 1978-79. This concert will be held on Wednesday January 24, at 8:15 p.m. in Convocation Center Marlene Nepstad will be the pianist. There is no admission charge.

The program is Sonata No 3 by J.S. Bach, Sonata No 5 (Spring) by Beethoven, Sonata No 4, "Children's Day at the Camp Meeting", by Charles Ives. Sonata No 1 by Brahms. The Sonata by Ives includes tunes such as "Jesus Loves Me" and "Shall We Gather at the River" used in a style somewhat reminiscent and reflective of children's services at summer camp meetings held near Danbury, Connecticut, in the late 1800's.

Before coming to Chicago, Mary Dill was Concert Master of the Saskatoon Symphony for two years. She has studied with Alfred Boyington and Erno Valasek, and with Zvi Zeitlin and John Crienaion of Eastman School of Music in Rochester, N.Y. She now teaches, studies and free lances in the Chicago area. Her husband, Dr. Floyd Dill, is a Professor of Economics at De Paul University. They have two children.

The remaining concerts in the Series are George Cotton, baritone, February 4; Marlene Nepstad, piano, March 14; and Douglas Jahns, bassoon, March 23.



Unifarm frames new right-of-way form

Following several months of negotiation between Unifarm, the Farmers' Advocate and representatives of the petroleum industry, agreement has been reached on a new standard right-of-way contract for use in dealings with Alberta farmers.

The agreement contract offers landowners additional protection through new clauses and sets a standard for equitable treatment. Unifarm has advised its members to insist on use of the new contract in any future surface rights negotiations.

Although the landowner is still responsible for negotiating details of the agreement, Unifarm officials are satisfied that the new standard contract form is a great improvement over a confusing variety of contracts in use in the past.

An important addition to the contract is a clause that frees the owner or occupier of land crossed by a right-of-way from liability for non-wilful damages to above-surface structures. This condition has been requested by Unifarm and the Farmers' Advocate for several years.

As well as offering protection to farmers, the new clause should encourage pipeline companies to either bury, or place out of the way, most of the above-surface structures that have long been a nuisance and danger to farm personnel.

Another major clause holds pipeline companies responsible for compensating farmers for additional costs incurred in his operation due to pipeline construction. This should prove of special advantage to Southern Alberta farmers who will now be able to claim compensation for returning land disturbed by pipeline construction to the level required for irrigation purposes.

Among other conditions of the contract is provision of a sketch to the landowner showing location of the proposed right-of-way; constraint on the length of time the agreement remains valid; compensation for inconvenience of above-surface structure; and compensation for additional pipelines along the same right-of-way based on difference in present land value to that when the original contract was signed.

Copies of the contract may be obtained at the Unifarm office in Edmonton or from the office of the Farmers' advocate.

See start on Prince Rupert

On January 11, J.W. Madill, General Manager of Alberta Wheat Pool, announced a major commitment by the Prince Rupert Grain Terminal Consortium. Subject to satisfactory negotiations with federal and provincial governments and ratification by the boards of member companies, the consortium is committed to an immediate start on construction of a major high capacity grain terminal at Prince Rupert.

Necessary prerequesites include satisfactory financing, assurance of usage, adequate site development and overall economic feasibility. The issues of sufficient rail transportation to the West Coast and arrangements for switching of cars between railroads must also be resolved if this project is to become a reality.

Mr. Madill said he is confident the many months of preparation and negotiation will reach a satisfactory conclusion in the next few weeks, and will result in an early start on construction of this major development to the benefit of all western grain producers.

The Consortium is made up of Alberta Wheat Pool, Cargill Grain Company Limited, Manitoba Pool Elevators, Pioneer Grain Company Limited, Saskatchewan Wheat Pool and United Grain Growers Limited.

Women overlooked

In the rush to increase food production, little attention has been paid to the needs of rural women in the Third World. New and appropriate systems of technology should be adapted to age-old practices of farming and food preparation, freeing rural woman from drudgery and allowing them more of the benefits of development. Feeding Calves For Optimal Gain

Calves need specific levels of essential nutrients in order to grow rapidly and efficiently Whether fattening or growing animals, it is always most economical to be sure that all their requirements for nutrients are properly met

A growing ration must always be higher in quality than a maintenance ration Most growing rations are based on medium to high quality forage. Grain and other supplements are also needed as well

Calves cannot make normal growth unless they receive an adequate supply of digestible nutrients. Since hay and roughages are bulky and relatively low in digestible nutrients, calves fed roughage alone, without grain or other concentrates, usually cannot consume enough to provide sufficient nutrients for good growth

Raising calves on an abundance of good hay and other roughage, with just enough concentrates to keep them growing properly, is nearly always much more economical than feeding them a large allowance of concentrates with less roughage

The best rate of gain for calves over winter 1.0 to 1.5 lb (0.45 to .70 kg) or more/day If calves make lower gains than this, they may be in poor condition by spring, will be more susceptible to stress and disease and many show lower reproductive performance

It is advisable to feed calves sufficient concentrates (grain plus supplements) in addition to an abundance of good roughage so they will make adequate gain

The following sample rations have been formulated for average feeds to give a gain of 1 lb per day on a 450 lb steer

Ration A. 13 lbs of excellent quality alfalfa hay (in some cases this amount of hay might not be eaten unless it is ground)

Ration B: 10 lbs of good quality alfalfa hay, 2 lbs. of barley

Ration C 10 lbs of oat green feed, 1.3 lbs barley grain, 0.7 lb of 32 per cent protein supplement

Ration D: 8 51 lbs of alfalfa-brome hay (50:50) 4.4 lbs of barley

Each of these rations must be supplemented with blue or trace mineralized salt, a calcium-phosphorus mineral, and 15,000 I.U. per head per day of vitamin A.

These rations are based on average feeds and may not be the right ones for many situations. Rations should be designed specifically for the actual feeds and management system involved

Consider the following points when formulating rations:

1 The quality of roughage affects the requirement for supplemental energy and protein

2 High quality legume feeds, if consumed at adequate levels, can supply adequate energy and protein in a growing ration To achieve a daily rate of gain higher than 1.1 lb. (0.50 kg) head, grain must be added to such rations

3 Grass hay is low in energy and the protein content is often inadequate It's normally necessary to feed grain and protein supplement to make up these deficiencies

4. Green feed is normally low in protein Greenfeed based rations for growing animals require protein supplements

5. Feeds vary in quality They should be tested before rations are formulated

6 Grains that are high in protein might minimize the need for a protein supplement

7 When protein is the most limiting nutrient, a protein supplement is a cheaper source of protein than is grain

Former Tofielders celebrate their 60th

Mr and Mrs Harvey Brenneman of Albany, Oregon, celebrated their 60th anniversary at Fairview Mennonite Church on Dec 24th.

The couple's children were hosts for the event. They are Roderick of Corvallis, Mrs. Eugene (Vira) Lemons and Harley, both of Albany, Mrs Willard (Barbara) Burkey of Herminston and Mrs. Richard (Lois) Miller of Middlebury, Indiana.

The children of a deceased daughter, Margaret, were in attendance as were most of the other twenty grandchildren and eleven great-grandchildren

Narda Hills and Harvey Brenneman were married on Jan 30th, 1919 in Tofield where they lived until moving to Albany in 1940

Mr. Brenneman was a farmer and worked with horses for many years, raising a cross between Tennessee Walker and Arabians. He also did carpenter work, and woodworking

Mrs. Brenneman was a teacher before becoming a wife and mother.

Mrs. Edgar Boettger of Tofield is a sister to Mr Brenneman.

Pupils see premiere

On January 3, thirty-eight students and two teachers from Holden High School had the opportunity to see the world premiere of the musical stage production "Flowers of Algernon" at the Citadel in Edmonton

Special student matinees are performed for school groups and many teachers feel this is an effective way to culminate a unit on drama In order to take advantage of this special offer, reservations must be made well in advance and each person attending must pay $2.50 some weeks before the actual performance Both Ryley and Tofield also had classes in attendance as city areas were not in session and rural areas had a better chance of getting reservations This is the third year some Holden students have been able to attend a play at the Citadel

This year the Citadel is also offering special rates to groups of fifteen or more if they wish to attend some specially designated plays in the Rice theatre (a smaller theatre in the Citadel) on Saturday and Sunday matinee Individuals may also attend but the matinees will be $3 00 and evening performances will be $5 00

Hereford Lites are busy with meetings

The final two months of 1978 were quite busy for members of the Hereford Lites

The club held its annual meeting in Forestburg early in November, during which the finals in their "princess" contest was held

Colleen Ziegler of Vegreville was named runner-up Other contestants were Gail Daschuk of Edmonton, and Patsy

Near the middle of December, members went to Red Deer for the annual meeting of the Alberta Hereford Club

Betty Walsh of Southern Alberta was crowned Alberta Hereford Queen during ceremonies held during the session.

Music during a fashion show held during the meeting was provided by Evelyn Grue, and Ruby Lyseng and the show itself was narrated by Anne Lyseng, all from Armena. Included as models were Alice Lyseng of Armena and Cathy Minchau of Millet

Dobry gets title

Doug Dobry of Viking has won the championship of the Super Curling League

Originally, the league was not to have decided its championship until tonight (Wednesday), but all teams involved in the playoffs agreed to determine a winner when they played in Tofield last Wednesday

Prior to Wednesday's playoff, three teams from the Highway 14 Division met in Tofield the previous night to decide which two teams would advance to the playoffs after all three had ended the regular schedule deadlocked in first place

Names were tossed in a hat and Dobry had his name drawn giving him an automatic berth. (It seemed fitting, since Dobry had beaten the other two teams during the regular schedule)

Goubault and Sears, both of Tofield then clashed, with Goubault advancing to the playoffs after he recorded a 10-6 victory

In semi-final play on Wednesday, Dobry disposed of Miller 10-4 while Gibb beat Goubault 10-8

In a close game to determine the championship, Dobry won top honours when he edged Gibb 7-6

A playoff was necessary to determine third place, and Goubault finished in that position when he recorded a 9-6 triumph over Miller

The other members of Dobry's championship rink are Gordie Maxwell, Don Hafso and Vern Hafso

Dobry's rink won prize money of $575 while Gibb picked up $320, Goubault earned $260, and Miller got $150

This was the second winter in which the league operated and officials indicate that it will return next year The league was formed to give teams more competition prior to Consol play

Participate in Canada's Employment Tax Credit Program.
The Employment Tax Credit Program was introduced by the Government of Canada to stimulate employment in the private sector.
In essence, we're encouraging you to expand your work force by providing a tax break for your business.
The potential annual tax credit for each new employee is over $3,000. And there is no limit to the number of new employees you can hire.
Now, by using the experience we've gained so far, we've changed the program to make it even more attractive.
Up to 33⅓% more tax credit.
The maximum term for the tax credit has been increased from nine to 12 months for each new employee. That means up to 33⅓% more tax credit
Greater eligibility.
We have expanded the number and types of businesses eligible to benefit. Now almost every business that's been operating in Canada for a year or more can join in.
Wider choice of new employees.
Now, almost anyone who's unemployed and registered at a Canada Employment Centre for a minimum of two weeks is eligible.
A minimum of red tape.

SELECTING THE RIGHT FABRIC

Every paper I pick up is advertising fabric sales. There are so many bargains. As a "fabricholic" I'm tempted. We need to be able to choose fabrics that are suitable and are good quality.

Your pattern envelope has some suggested fabrics listed on the back. It might also list restrictions like "knits only", "not suitable for obvious diagonals." Usually, too, there is a description of suggested fabrics such as soft or lightweight. Be sure that the fabric you choose fits this description if you want your garment to be successful.

The following tips from "Forecast for Home Economics" may help you recognize high quality fabrics:

— Make a uniformity test by holding the fabric up to the light. If the texture varies in its thickness or thinness, the fabric will not wear evenly.

— Judge the firmness of the weave by scratching the fabric's surface. If the threads move easily, holes are likely to appear around the stitches.

— Crinkle a section of the fabric to determine its potential for wrinkling. If the fabric doesn't bounce back, an iron will probably be a constant companion.

— Look closely at the angle formed by the lengthwise and crosswise threads to see if the fabric is on-or-off-grain. If the threads do not form right angles, the constructed garment will neither drape properly nor keep its shape.

— Check for white spots or creases lines where the color has faded. This is a preventive measure to avoid unevenly dyed or printed fabrics.

— Rub the fabric between your fingers. If a powdery substance appears, excess sizing was used on the fabric. Because it is used to strengthen a fabric, excess sizing can indicate and inherent weakness in the weave.

— To test the stretch and recovery ability of a knit, mark off a four-inch section along the crosswise rib, using pins or tailor's chalk. Place the pattern envelop's knit gauge on a flat surface, matching the pin or chalk marking with the gauge. Holding the left side firmly, stretch the knit comfortable to the indicated length on the gauge. If the knit does not return to its original size, the garment will sag or stretch out of shape.

Alternatives for Mother's Morning Out program (Coping with Kids) is scheduled for January 24th from 9:30 - 11:30 a.m. in the United Church in Ryley. The Viking program is January 25th from 9:30 a.m. - 11:30 a.m. in the Carena Club rooms.

We would appreciate pre-registration.

Stick to broncs

Two former cowboys from yesteryear took the opportunity to get together during a hockey game recently.

Despite the rough and tumble life of a cowboy, times change and older bodies don't do as well as they did when they were much younger.

The result was that both of the former cowboys, who originally met back in 1937 during the Clover Lodge Stampede, ended up in hospital.

Earl Davis recovered sufficiently to pen a poem about his onetime opponent from the old days when they both competed in rodeo competitions. His poem is dedicated to his long-time friend, Harry Tkachyk.

It follows:

There is a skinney cowboy
Peace be upon his soul
Who thought he could play hockey
The storm won't last as long.

Tuck a firm hold on his stick
Then he went whirling down the ice
To do the old hat-trick
Although he did his very best
Still he failed to score
I'm a little out of shape he says
For a lad of eighty-four!!
Next he started turning pale
And feeling very warm
A devil got inside his chest
And kicked up quite a storm
So now he rests in the hospital
And senses all the girls
He kisses some and tickles some
And some he pulls their hair
There is just one thing I have to say
To finish up my song
Go back to battle broncs boy!!

Ski Weekend

Would anyone be interested in a weekend skiing trip to Jasper? It has been suggested that we get a gang together, charter a bus, arrange a motel and go sometime in March. We need at least 30 people interested in order to warrant chartering a bus. Contact Colleen at 663-3730 if you are interested in this activity.

Just about just an evening trip to ski at Rabbit Hill? Let me know if you are interested.

Ryley and district news items

by Nadine Wood

Next week's speaker at the Seventh Day Adventist Church will be Esther Eagye Ouland or Mr Larsen from Leduc. The Colporter Convention will be the topic of discussion. Bible study is on Wednesday night at 7:30.

The 1979 agenda was discussed and planned at last week's UCW meeting. Also under discussion was the bake sale that is to be held on February 10, with all proceeds going to the Sunday School. A reminder of the upcoming pancake supper on January 21, at which the men will be serving.

The Agricultural Society met last Monday, and a decision was made to put into motion the 1979 lottery. Funds are badly needed to reopen the swimming pool. Tickets are available from any Ag Society member, and also at Ryley Home Improvement Centre and Wood's Hardware.

Many Ryley residents are spending these long winter months in Hawaii. Vacationing there are Mr and Mrs. Fred Lyons, Abe Neufeld, and Ron Teske. Mary Oands and Mary Body have just returned from a four-island holiday in Hawaii which they report they enjoyed immensely.

Bill Oands was the victim of an unfortunate accident in which he lost one of his fingers.

Eric Jensen and friend of Prince Albert, Sask. and Shirley Jensen of Edberg visited their parents, Hilda and Herman Jensen, in Ryley during the holidays.

Visitors with the Elmer Andersons during the holiday season were their sons, Stanley and Betty Anderson, Darcy, and Sherri of Calgary, Colin and Karen Anderson of Drumheller, and Lorne and Lucy Anderson and boys of Tofield. Their daughters, Irene and Henry Hahn of Viking and family, Linda and family of Edmonton, Sharon and family of Saskatchewan, and Laura and Henry Podrugny and boys of Camrose were also home for Christmas.

David and Ella Reil of Trochu were visitors at Harold and Clara Vergettes, and the E. Reils of Ryley.

Bob Cross, Leonard Vergette, and other families in Ryley and district were visited by Bob, Debra, and Brian Cross of Edmonton. They also enjoyed a dinner in the Tofield Legion Hall, put on by John and Elvera Reil, for their families.

Ida Hanka, Stanley, and Marilyn Campbell were visited by Ida's son, Earl Hjelzer, who is now teaching in Calgary. Earl also paid a visit to Tom Kerlee and other relatives.

Ida Hanka, Marilyn Campbell, and Rhonda spend a very nice holiday in Grande Prairie with Edmund and Donna Stauffer and family.

On Jan 7, John Reil turned 84, and John and Elvera Ludemann have been wedding anniversary. On hand at the Reimers Hall home in Tofield to help celebrate were Pamela Lysle and the Glenn Reils of Tofield, and the E Reils of Ryley.

The Ryley 4-H Clothing Club met in the Home Ec room last Thursday for its regular meeting. Final plans were made for the trip to the regional public speaking workshop in Vegreville on January 27, and the trip to the A.C.T. Telethon in Edmonton. The girls practised their speeches for the public speaking competition to be held in the Home Ec room on February 13. The two top speakers will then travel to the County speakoffs in Tofield on February 18. The next Clothing Club meeting will be held on January 25.

Alberta-CP Rail agree on freight rate incentives

After more than a year of negotiations agreement on a series of freight rate incentives designed to support the growth of secondary manufacturing in the province was reached just before Christmas by the Alberta Government and CP Rail.

The railway rate initiative will complement Alberta's policy of encouraging expansion of job-creating industry into the smaller centres of the province, away from concentrated population areas.

"This is the first time that a provincial government and the railways have agreed on specific ways of using freight rates in support of economic growth," said Dr Horner, Alberta's deputy premier, and minister of transportation.

Main elements of the new plan are:

1. To promote location of industry in smaller centres, new rate groups have been established for processed good originating in Alberta and destined for Eastern Canada or for export via west coast ports.

The rate groups apply to rail carload freight rates within a 50-mile (80 km) radius of Edmonton and Calgary and within a 25-mile (40 km) radius of 19 other smaller centres.

The following are the 19 centres to which the 25 mile (40 km) radius applies: Bonnyville, Brooks, Claresholm, Cowley, Drumheller, Edson-Hinton, Hanna, Lethbridge, Lloydminster, Medicine Hat, Red Deer, Rocky Mountain House, St. Paul, Stettler, Taber, Vegreville, Vermilion, Wainwright, Whitecourt.

Under this plan, CP Rail and CN Rail will publish the same freight rate for a particular type of traffic from all rail stations within a group.

2. Both railways agreed to the increased use of developmental freight rates where necessary to assist manufacturing plants in reaching new markets in other parts of Canada, the United States and abroad.

3. Formation of a petrochemical team made up of government and CP Rail representatives to explore new ways of using rail transport to assist Alberta's petrochemical industry to expand its United States and offshore markets.

"I view our agreement with Alberta as a pace-setter," said F.S. Burbidge, president of Canadian Pacific.

"We are prepared to sit down with other provincial governments to develop similar arrangements in support of their industrial strategies."

Dr. Horner said that although it is up to industry to take advantage of the new rate groupings and developmental rates, the Alberta Government will assist industries in exploring the new opportunities for establishing job creating manufacturing plants in smaller centres.

Agreement was also reached on the future need for CP Rail service into Fort Saskatchewan's petrochemical projects. This will pave the way for CP Rail to provide direct service to Fort Saskatchewan for the petrochemical industry. At present, Fort Saskatchewan is served exclusively by CN Rail.

BRTA asks for housekeeping at historic sites

The Battle River Tourist Association is submitting a resolution to the Travel Industry Association of Alberta asking that the Government of Alberta institute a maintenance program in connection with marked historical sites. The resolution was approved for presentation at the meeting of the association held in Castor on December 14.

As the preamble of the resolution states, it "has taken note of the commendable program of the Government of Alberta to research, preserve and mark a number of historical sites throughout Alberta," but is concerned that "there doesn't seem to be any subsequent maintenance program in place." "As a result, the nicely marked sites gradually deteriorate, become overgrown with vegetation, and present a very shabby appearance to the visitor."

Battle River Tourist Association is suggesting that "a local organization, local government or provincial government department be charged with the responsibility of keeping these precious locations in a state of excellence for the enjoyment and appreciation of present and future generations of Albertans and visitors in perpetuity."

The three particular sites in the Battle River Tourist Zone that need attention include the Peace Hills Cairn north of Wetaskiwin, the Telegraph Cairn near Hay Lakes, and the Ribstone Cairn near Viking.

Selling shares in family farm

Many Canadian farmers are taking a hard look at incorporating their farm business, according to the December issue of the Bank of Montreal's Farm Profit Management newsletter.

One major development in this area, the newsletter says, was the recent government ruling that the transfer of farm business shares to children is not subject to a capital gains tax.

The newsletter lists a number of reasons that prompt farmers to incorporate, such as a more orderly and gradual tansfer of the business between generations; greater flexibility in how the owner is paid, a fairier distribution of farm income among family members for a better after-tax position and a lower tax rate on corporation income.

An Ancient Prayer

Give us, Lord, a bit of sun,
A bit of work and a bit of fun;
Give us all in the struggle and splutter
Our daily bread and a bit of butter;
Give us health, our keep to make
And a bit to spare for poor folks' sake;
Give us sense, for we're some of us duffers,
And a heart to feel for all that suffers.

Give us, too, a big of a song,
And a tale and a book to help us along,
And give us our share of sorrow's lesson,
That we may prove how grief's a blessing;
Give us, Lord, a chance to be
Our goodly best, brave, wise and free,
Our goodly best for ourself and others,
Till all men learn to live as brothers

(This ancient prayer was found on the wall of an old Inn in England)

Must apply to receive old age security pension

Do you remember when it was necessary to have a means test before you could receive an Old Age Pension? That was abolished in 1951 for those over 70 years. The means test was continued for those over 65 until 1966. Today if you are 65 or over you can receive $164.74 per month by simply asking for it. The only requirement is that you supply proof of your age with either a birth or baptismal certificate, or two other documents that state the date of your birth. The O.A.S. pension and Guaranteed Income Supplement is reviewed on a quarterly basis and based on the cost of living as provided for in the OAS act since October, 1973.

Of course you must be a Canadian citizen or legal resident to receive the Old Age Security Pension. You can receive the OAS pension if you have resided in Canada for 40 years since the age of 18 years; or if you have resided in Canada for at least ten consecutive years immediately prior to approval of application. Gaps in this ten-year period can be offset by previous presence in Canada (since age 18) equal to three times the length of the gaps - - as long as the person was a resident in Canada for one full year immediately prior to approval of application.

A person receiving OAS pension may leave Canada and continue to receive the pension indefinitely, if he has resided in Canada for a total of 20 years after the age 18. If not, payment is made for only the month of departure plus an additional six months. In case of a pensioner residing in Canada, who is temporarily absent from the country for a longer period than six months, payment may be resumed when he returns to Canada.

The Old Age Security Act which was amended July 1, 1977, will apply to everyone under age 25 in Canada and to persons outside Canada on the above date, without prior residence until after July 1, 1977. The amendment states that OAS pension is "earned" at the rate of one-fortieth of the full pension for each year of residence in Canada after the age 18. This means that residence in Canada for 40 years after age 18 qualifies a person for a full pension; and residence for less than 40 years after age 18 qualifies a person for a portion of the full pension. The partial pension is, as a minimum, ten fortieths of the full OAS pension, based upon a minimum requirement of ten years residence in Canada after the age of 18.

The spouse of an OAS pensioner, aged 60 to 64, meeting the same residence requirements may be eligible for full or partial spouse's allowance. The annual combined income of the couple must be less than $7,391.99 (as of July 1, 1978) in order to receive full allowance. The total income does not include the OAS pension, the Guaranteed Income Supplement, Alberta Assured Income Plan or Spouse's allowance. The spouse must apply for this federal government allowance six months before his or her birthday, and re-apply each year until one becomes eligible for OAS pension at age 65. This allowance is not available to widowed, separated, or divorced people; but a common-law relationship may be recognized.

Old Age pensioners with little or no income apart from OAS pension may receive a full or partial guaranteed income supplement. This additional pension must be applied for every year, because eligibility and the amount of supplement depends on your total actual income in the previous calendar year and your marital status.

The maximum Guaranteed Income Supplement for a married couple (both pensioners) will be $102.61 each (as of October, 1978). If you are single, or married - - but your spouse is not a pensioner or receiving a spouse's allowance, you will receive $115.58 each month.

If you receive the federal Guaranteed Income Supplement and live in Alberta, you will automatically receive the Alberta Assured Income. The present maximum payment is $45.61 per month for a single pensioner and $47.20 each for a married couple. The present minimum monthly payment is $10.00. Only four provinces provide an income supplement and Alberta has the highest level, or support for single pensioners. In December 1977, a total of 141,115 Alberta seniors received OAS pensions. There were 79,551 or 56.4 per cent of the total, who required additional income support. Of this number 19.5 per cent were living almost totally on OAS pension, Guaranteed Income Supplement and Alberta Assured Income. In October, 1978 it was possible to receive $325.30 per month for a single person and a married couple could receive $639.10 per month.

Alberta still has many poor elderly and there will be increasing numb rs of older persons in the future. The Alberta Council on Aging is provincial voluntary organization of senior citizens and senior citizen groups designed to represent the interests of older people and to bring their concerns to the attention of the government. The council serves as a coordinating body for the province's 400 senior citizen organizations and publishes ten times a year the The Alberta Council on Aging News, a newsletter for senior citizens.

Treasury Branch opens on Friday

The Treasury Branch in Tofield will hold its official opening on Friday afternoon.

Heading the dignitaries who will be attending the opening ceremonies will be the Honourable Merv Leitch, Provincial Treasurer for the Province of Alberta.

Three other elected representatives will be on hand. They include Dr. Walter Buck, MLA for Clover Bar, Dr. W.H. Freebury, Mayor of Tofield, and Walter Kropielnicki, Reeve of the County of Beaver.

Also in attendance will be Fred Sparrow, superintendent of Treasury Branches, and G.R. Strong, president of the Tofield Businessmen's Association.

An added feature during the opening of the Tofield Branch will be the fact that Commonwealth Medallions will be given to the first one thousand depositors who open new accounts, or who transfer their accounts to the new Branch.

Friday's official ceremonies will mark the 100th Branch opening since the Treasury Branch began in Alberta forty years ago.

The public is invited to attend the opening ceremonies which will get underway at three o'clock.

Lotteries

Scores of groups across the province hailed a recent provincial announcement that regulations severely circumscribing lotteries or raffles planned by small local groups were being suspended for a year to give time for study.

The government seems to have responded to public annoyance or criticism, but unfortunately, the change in heart seems not to have worked its way down through the hierarchy of administration to those working with the regulations.

Only this past week, we've heard reports of two groups faced with an almost ridiculous set of hoops to jump through before they can get the permit they need to conduct small fund-raising drives, exactly the same sort of thing they've been doing for years, and the same sort of thing that people have been "taking a flyer" on for decades and decades.

The thought occurs to us, is the whole rigamarole of getting permission being made so difficult that most groups will give up, leaving the public with more dollars to pay into the government run lotteries, such as the Provincial and the Western. It's well known the government gets a cut from all of these lotteries, the figures running into prodigious amounts.

Has it now reached the point where the lottery business is like the liquor business, and the government won't allow anyone to muscle in on the tribute it exacts from the traffic?

No place for cuts

Canadians generally have applauded the Trudeau government's program of restraint and cutback announced last fall, and in many instances have wished the program might be extended further.

But in one respect, at least, we think Western Canadians generally would agree, if not all Canadians, that enthusiasm ran away with judgment when it came to cutting the funds for RCMP recruit training to about a third.

Surely today's police forces require more, not less, training, and to reduce the amount available in basic training simply sends out constables with less background, less perspective, less personal assurance and support, than is desirable. More, it simply defers until later the need for additional training which every policeman must have simply to keep up with his job.

Almost in the same category comes the additional program of restraint forced upon the military and which was so eloquently criticized by Admiral Falls recently. Were it not for the fact that the military has been under a program of reduction and cutback ever since Mr Trudeau took office, it might not be so serious, but the record speaks for itself as minister after minister in the defence portfolio has dutifully chipped away at the budget, in compliance with the Trudeau directive.

If these were not such troubled times, we might contemplate reduction of police and military with some equanimity. In the face of today's violence and disturbance we can ill afford the slightest cutback in these fields.

Canadian Comment

OTTAWA (BF) — Pundits here are still trying to decide whether Prime Minister Trudeau's new Board of Economic Development Ministers is really going to perform a useful function or if it's simply a political ploy.

The move to put Robert Andras in the [illegible] super minister [illegible] certainly [illegible] Finance Minister [illegible] and in [illegible] and that the small voice speaking for consumers is going to be silenced altogether.

Former cabinet minister Herb Gray asked Mr Trudeau for example if the Minister for Consumer and Corporate Affairs would sit on the new board. Mr Gray, after all, is a former Minister of that department.

Sure, said the PM. He can [illegible]

[illegible] fear bureaucratic interference [illegible]

That's what we will probably see.

The reason for Mr Trudeau's new economic approach is to change the structure of economic government. He's a man who must have structure, hence the mushrooming of red tape which has flourished like ribbons on a Moscow May Pole under his government.

Structure, flow charts and organizational plans are great stuff provided they are used as [illegible] thinking.

That fixation with structure [illegible] has seen such an increase in the public service during the past [illegible] years of government. The [illegible] produced much in the [illegible] been ruled by a government deplorably weak in the pragmatics.

Research British orphans of 1900's

Dear Sir

I am a former managing editor of The United Church Observer and columnist on The Globe and Mail of Toronto. I am doing research dealing with the arrival in Canada of thousands of orphan children from Britain in the early years of the 1900's. I would be pleased to hear, by letter, from people throughout Canada who came to this country through the various organizations such as Barnardo Homes, McPherson Homes, the Fairbridge Society and so on.

I would also appreciate letters from persons who worked for any of these organizations or other like them or in whose homes any of the children were brought up. My mailing address is 303 St Lawrence St, Whitby, Ontario, L1N 1H2. All letters will be gratefully received and acknowledged.

Sincerely,
Kenneth Bagnell

Saving the Monarchy

January 10, 1979

Sir

The New Year will see the introduction of a new Constitutional Amendment Bill, prepared by the federal government on the basis of comments made about Bill C-60, its original proposal to replace the B N A Acts. It is important for citizens to maintain their vigilance over changes relating to our Monarchical form of government.

This summer, the then Minister of State for Federal Provincial Relations, Marc Lalonde, tried to defend the republican provisions of Bill C-60 by stating that they merely reflected current practice concerning the roles of the Queen and the Governor General. Most Canadians and all the provincial premiers were not fooled by his distortion of the facts.

However, undoubtedly the argument of current practice will come up over and again during future debate. So let it first be remembered that in many cases current practice is nothing more than the practice of the Trudeau Ministry. As such, it lies clearly within the political realm, and is subject to change unless frozen in a written constitution.

To demonstrate in dramatic fashion the above point a list has been prepared detailing the many changes which have weakened the Canadian Monarchy during the latter part of the Queen's reign. They range from symbolic (1969 abolition of 21 gun salutes on the Sovereign's Birthday) to substantive (1977 removal of the Queen's right to sign Canadian Ambassadors' credentials).

Canadians who care about retaining the Monarchy, and who would like a copy of the complete list of erosions to bring to the attention of their friends and elected representatives may obtain the article by writing the Monarchist League of Canada, 2 Wedgewood Crescent, Ottawa, Ontario K1B 4B4.

Yours very truly,
Arthur Bousfield,
Vice Chairman,
The Monarchist League of Canada Inc

Every community shares in new highway grants

Every town and village in Alberta will share in a new program of transportation initiatives for rural Alberta announced last week by Premier Lougheed and Deputy Premier Dr Hugh M Horner, Minister of Transportation.

The announcement was part of an overall statement in which the premier announced a new 6-year comprehensive transportation plan, which the premier reported, actually triples the amount allocated to assist the cities.

The program for towns and villages doubled the previous allocation, claimed Dr Horner, who went on to say there is also provision for assistance to hamlets. Towns and villages received four million dollars in 1978, and will receive eight million in 1979, while a further two million is allocated for hamlets.

35 towns and villages received assistance during 1978, said Dr Horner, who added that some 70 are expected to qualify for help this year. He was not specific as to the communities.

The new plan was developed because the growth of towns and cities had been far faster than anticipated when the original program was drafted four years ago, declared Premier Lougheed. He added it had been developed in response to the requests of mayors and councils from many communities to shift towards unconditional grants of funds, rather than the strings-attached program of the past.

This means we're moving to a formula of grants with suggestions, not conditions, stressed Mr Lougheed.

Answering a question, he said the government would favor the use of the money in Calgary and Edmonton "the two most rapidly growing cities in Canada" .... for light rail transit, but there will be no direction, he emphasized. After all, he said, they're elected people, they know the needs of their communities, and it's their [illegible]

The major portion of the three quarters of a billion dollars promised by the premier will be directed to the two major cities, over a six year period, but there are eight other programs, covering transportation cost assistance to the other cities.

Teams change places in Beaverhill league

Six teams changed places following action in the regular schedule of the Beaverhill Hockey League during the past week.

Tofield dropped out of a tie for first place into third spot while Andrew climbed into a tie for 1st place.

Lamont picked up two wins and moved into fourth place, dropping Ryley down into fifth spot.

Holden vacated the league basement. An easy win over Smoky Lake allowed Holden to climb into seventh place, leaving Smoky Lake at the bottom of the standings.

Despite the fact that twenty points separate the top and bottom teams, all are still in the running for a playoff berth, and every team still has the opportunity to move into first place.

Tonight's (Thursday) games will see Tofield and Ryley play in Tofield while Holden goes to Mundare.

On Tuesday, Tofield will be host to Smoky Lake while Ryley travels over to Andrew.

Big Game

Tofield will be the site of an important contest on Saturday night.

At that time the Beaverhill Hockey League All Stars will host the Vikings from Camrose Lutheran College.

The game should be a good one since the All Stars will be icing a potent line-up and the CLC squad is expected to be strong, entering Saturday's game with only one loss in 1979, and they have climbed into a tie for second place in the ACAC Hockey League.

Results

Mundare maintained its share of first place in the league standings by whipping Smoky Lake 8-2 and walloping Waskatenau 11-2.

Andrew jumped ahead of Tofield into a share of top spot by posting three wins, beating Holden 8-5, edging Tofield 5-3 and trouncing Smoky Lake 17-2.

Lamont posted two wins in moving into sole possession of fourth place when they dumped Ryley 7-3 and beat Holden 4-1.

Holden doubled Smoky Lake 8-4 and Waskatenau edged Ryley 5-3 in the only other games played.

Three games are still to be rescheduled: Ryley at Smoky Lake, Ryley at Lamont, and Mundare at Tofield.

Learn by working

by Neil Dewart

Work Experience taken through the Holden School is a five-credit course available for most students in high school, but cannot exceed more than ten credits.

Mr. Ness, guidance counseller for the County of Beaver, arranges several work stations in each area.

Most of the businesses in Holden are involved in this program.

They provide a variety of activities that concern the operation of their business. Students then learn more about how private enterprises are developed and operated. Employees are usually willing to help student workers with problems about the work or about business relations.

Work experience is a real job because you earn credits just as you would normally earn a salary. For many students this is an enjoyable way to earn their high school diploma.

Final rites planned for Ryley lady

Final rites for a Ryley resident will be held on Friday afternoon.

Funeral arrangements are being handled by Hoveland Funeral Chapel of Camrose.

"A.O.C. helped us get started."

Ross Uibel, Caribou Clothes

Caribou Clothes and its retail division employ 28 people, manufacture 3000 sheepskin coats a year, and sell through 70 outlets. And none of it could have happened without financial backing such as that provided by A.O.C.

"We're the only business in Mountain View," Ross Uibel explains. "Without A.O.C.'s guarantee or support, it would be very difficult to establish a manufacturing business in a small community like this."

Ross Uibel grew up in Mountain View, a small town near Waterton National Park, and then moved to the United States. When his wife Lorna's part-time hobby of making coats began to look like it could become a self-supporting business, they decided to come home and take the big gamble of starting their own business.

With Alberta Opportunity Company help, their efforts have paid off. Caribou Clothes now market coats and accessories throughout Western Canada and the States through their six Barn Stores and other retailers.

"The people at Alberta Opportunity Company are extremely helpful and very business oriented. They seem to be highly interested in sound business ventures, and I certainly recommend A.O.C. to other people who need financing and can't get it from conventional lending institutions."

At the Ladies' Club meeting last week it was announced that donations had been made to the Tofield Hospital and the Tofield Lodge from money raised during 1978. Election of officers resulted in the president, Dana Koss, and the vice-president, Coffaine Chapman, remaining in office, with Kathryn Peterson taking over as secretary-treasurer from Lynn Gates.

Lynn Gates reported that she had seen a white breasted nuthatch at her birdfeeder last week, which is an unusual bird sighting but, becoming more common as more people put out winter birdfeeders.

There will be whist at the hall this Friday, starting at 8:30 p.m. sharp, and the final day of the cross-country ski course will take place on Saturday.

Makin' It

THE PLACEBO EFFECT

A cake mix requiring only added water was not selling and the company's research discovered the cause. The public apparently felt they must do something to make the cake mix edible. Therefore, the formula was changed requiring the housewife to add an egg. Immediately the mix achieved great success.

A new cream designed to soothe irritation of bites and burns without sting was not selling, and the research revealed that people had been conditioned to expect a sting from medicine. Alcohol was added with marketing success.

Physicians have known for years that the psychology of people demands response according to conditioning. This is called in medical terms, "the placebo effect". Actually this is a little pill or capsule, which is merely a sugared candy dispensed by the doctor for an imagined ailment. People refuse to believe that some of their physical symptoms can be of emotional origin. The amazing thing is that often the pill works.

What is true with the natural man is also true of the spiritual. Man seems to be conditioned to earn forgiveness of sins rather than accept God's salvation as a free gift. In Luke 18 we read of a young man who went away sad when he discovered salvation was to be received without any additives.

"By grace are ye saved through faith, and that not of yourselves, it is the gift of God". Ephesians 2:8.

SPRING SESSION

The Spring of the Legislature is just around the corner even though the date has not been formally set.

I would anticipate that it should be somewhere around the middle of February. This brings up the subject of [illegible] set dates for Legislative sessions and pre-set date for elections.

The present system of the Government setting dates when it best suits its purpose is certainly out-dated and should be re-vamped. Government in power get to set the date of elections, get the greatest share of financial contribution by large companies and get a large budget for government advertising.

The opposition parties, as you can see are placed at a great disadvantage and therefore the democratic process suffers.

[illegible]

I visited and surveyed the scene of last week's fire in Bruderheim and wish to extend my sympathy to the [illegible] for the losses they have suffered. The town and neighbours have certainly rallied around the [illegible].

LET THE CHILD PLAY

I always remember comedian Alan King's routine on Little League. He suggested that parent's butt out and leave the kids to play on their own. I was reminded of this at Christmas as I watched Michael play with his gifts. Adults have a tendency to expect children to play their way. We know how the train should run on the track, not on the floor Michael. (I guess Santa should bring a train for his Aunts to play with next year!).

Children use toys in a way that is meaningful to them at the moment. Remember that play is a child's work. The child works hard at mastering and perfecting new ideas. Even those forms of play that seem aimless to the adult feed into his growing awareness of self and world. A child's level of achievement and satisfaction with play may be very different from the adult. Frequently a child abandons a project midway in a way that adults can find frustrating. The crayon is dropped, the toy abandoned, the train track torn apart. For the toddler, it is the activity that counts, not the completion of a total task.

Remember, too, that a child's imagination is a wonderous thing. They may see a completely different use or purpose to a toy. The big hit at our house over Christmas was two cans of nails and a magnet, . . . so much for expensive toys.

Lunde is honored

Rev. Karel Lunde was honored for his contribution to the sport of wrestling, when CLC hosted its third annual invitational meet on Friday and Saturday.

Rev. Lunde received his award from the Alberta Amateur Wrestling Association, in recognition of his efforts on behalf of amateur wrestling.

Making the presentation on behalf of the AAWA was Rev. Glen Johnson, president of CLC.

Rev. Lunde is still quite active in wrestling circles, and still coaches the CLC squad, which is growing stronger each year under his direction.

Martin Collegiate of Regina won the team trophy for the weekend competition when they finished just ahead of Wetaskiwin Composite High School.

Cliff Rolls of Wetaskiwin was selected as the Most Outstanding Wrestler in the two-day meet and was presented with an award for his accomplishment.

Mayor Rudy Swanson was on hand to officially open the meet on Friday night and returned on Saturday afternoon to present the team trophy.

Glen Lett, principal of Camrose Composite (co-host for the meet) presented the individual awards in each weight [illegible].

A total of 162 wrestlers from sixteen different high schools competed in the two-day meet while ACAC schools sent competitors on Saturday.

Results of the meet were not available.

[illegible] Ingibergsson, former pastor of Bawlf, officiating.

Pastor Woolery was born in San Gabriel, California, on October 3, 1947, and received his elementary and high school education in Omaha, Nebraska. He attended Concordia College - St. Paul, Minnesota, Concordia Senior College-Fort Wayne, Indiana, and Concordia Seminary-St. Louis, Missouri. Seventy ladies attend care & share program

by Grace Phillips

Seventy ladies enjoyed the Care and Share program on January 16 in the meeting room of Vision House, Tofield.

Mrs. Gladys Severson chairing the program welcomed the guests and [illegible] the feeling of accomplishment held by the members of the Vision Society on the completion of their project, Vision House. After offering a prayer of thanks, she introduced Mrs. Sheila Wilkerson [illegible] Camera singers of the U of A as a one-year resident of Tofield [illegible] husband is manager of Northern Utilities. Accompanied by Mrs. Bernice Heiberg, Mrs. Wilkerson sang "Count Your Blessings" which was well received by the audience.

Mrs. Josie Aubrey, proprietor of Aspen Textiles, Tofield, spoke on the relevance of the metric units of measurement to sewing. She humorously chided those who mentally converted metric units to the former, more familiar units and adjured everyone to accept and use the metric units. She gave some practical advice on the available widths of materials and lengths of zippers etc. Classes in sewing can be taught, or arranged to be taught, by Mrs. Aubrey. The door prize, won by Diane Holvik, was a sewing chart.

After a social interval during which coffee and lunch were enjoyed, Mrs. Wilkerson accompanied by Mrs. Heiberg sang "Father in Heaven". This selection was of special significance to Mrs. Severson who expressed her pleasure in hearing it sung by Mrs. Wilkerson.

The featured speaker of the evening was Connie Lanstrom of the CLC in Camrose who for eight years was a missionary in Papua, New Guinea.

Miss Lanstrom expressed her pleasure at being in Vision House. To her she said, the fine building was evidence of the goodness of God and of willing obedience to Him on the part of those [illegible] who built it.

Miss Lanstrom chose as her theme the calling by God of people to do His work and their response to Him. She based her speech on the Bible verses "You are precious in My sight, you are [illegible]" and "Follow Me and I will make you fishers of men" as she cited examples of God's call to David and to Peter. For each individual, said Miss Lanstrom, God has a unique role in His kingdom. To fulfill these roles, all must catch a vision of what God [illegible] in them and what God's [illegible] for them may be. Even though we constantly live beneath our "privilege potential" we can come nearer to [illegible] it if we accept Jesus' [illegible] that each person is precious to Him. When we respond positively to His call, we [illegible] our own [illegible] and [illegible] of others.

Mrs. Severson closed the meeting with gracious thanks to Miss Lanstrom, Mrs. Wilkerson, Mrs. Aubrey, the organizers of and the guests who had attended the evening's program.

Roosevelt and his wife Eleanor, in a four-part special that chronicles day-to-day life of the White House from 1909-1961, as seen through the eyes of two maids who served eight American Presidents. The maids Lillian Rogers Parks, and her mother, Maggie Rogers, are portrayed by Leslie Uggams and Olivia Cole. The first part, a three-hour segment, will be telecast on Monday on channel 3 beginning at 6 p.m. Both Lillian and Maggie, who was head maid, kept copious diaries of their years of service in the White House and this special offers a glimpse into the private and public lives of America's First Families -- beginning with the Tafts and ending with the Eisenhowers. Incidents from the lives of the famous and the powerful are set alongside events which convey both the dignity and the perseverance of those who served them. Degree status for CLC

Several details have still to be worked out, but degree granting status for Camrose Lutheran College was accepted in principle last Wednesday when Minister of Advanced Education, Dr. Bert Hohol met with the college's Board of Regents here.

Accompanying Dr. Hohol were his deputy minister, Dr. Henry Kolesar, and several officials of the department, and M.L.A. Gordon Stromberg.

Dr. Hohol made three commitments after his discussions with the board of regents, two of them involving funding, while the third involved the degree question.

First was his promise to step up financial support of private colleges from the 75 percent level to recent years to 85 percent, and second was an offer for the department of advanced education to assume the $100,000 deficit experienced in operations by the college last year.

In an interview Tuesday, Rev. Glen Johnson, president of the college, was delighted at the entire prospect, but pointed out there are still a myriad of details to be worked out.

In the funding area, for instance, he said the question will have to be ironed out over what level of education the government would consider, or in other words, 80 percent of what? The government has moved away from the concept of a straight per-pupil grant, he said, and it would be necessary to establish a standard of funding applicable to the type of work being done here in comparison with somewhere else.

Factors which would be involved in helping reach this decision would be the extent of the program there, its quality, involvement, and development, in other words, at what stage is the program here compared to those at other institutions.

GROW SLOWLY

The college has made a commitment that it will not attempt the introduction of degree level courses until it has completed a three and a half million dollar expansion program, said Mr. Johnson.

This was not made a condition by Dr Hohol, he emphasized, but is part of a long range plan for the college involving an estimated eleven million dollar development.

Two million has already been spent towards the ex pansion, he said, pointing out the $3.5 million would complete the first phase of development, comprising a new library, Faith and Life building, and additional classroom accommodation and

The board wants to move slowly in its progress towards degree status, said Mr. Johnson, and would like to start with somewhere between 300 and 600 students

Both the board and the administration of the college do not anticipate growing beyond 1,000, or at most 1,100 students, said Mr. Johnson. "We have no intention to be big," said Mr. Johnson. "We would always offer a limited number of major courses," he continued, commenting it was the intention to be a small, liberal arts college, and in a sense, to provide "an alternative"

The government, added Mr Johnson, thinks this program is "entirely realistic"

The board would hope to offer both a 3-year and a 4-year arts degree, beginning with both, he said. The major group of students in the early years would come from transfer students, he felt, whereas later on, more would be expected to move up through the college itself

Steps would have to be taken, he said, to provide a solid core program for all students, plus a limited number of major programs The range of majors would be contingent on staffing, he pointed out, and necessarily would be limited at the outset With the student population now at about the 650 level, he said he would like to see about ten members added to staff when the enrolment reaches the 800 level.

The administration is presently in the process of developing a formal proposal, he said, one which has not yet been approved either by the board or the government, which contemplates the possibility of moving into the third year program in the 1980-81 program, with the possibility of moving up to fourth year either one or two years later

In view of current developments in the grain sector (depressed prices and continually rising costs), farmers who are renting land should review their old land leases and study alternative types of arrangements to determine the best for their particular circumstances. In the long run "the best" is also "the fairest", and the fairest method of land leasing is to use the relative contributions of each party as a basis for calculating the amount of rent to be paid in cash or in crop share.

Crop Share Lease

Traditionally with a crop share lease the landowner supplies the land and buildings while the tenant supplies the labor and [illegible] and pays operating expenses. However, since there are many variations, it is important to examine the relative cash and noncash contributions of each party. (A one-third - two-thirds split between landlord and tenant may be fair, but to satisfy both parties, the facts and figures should be down on paper.)

POINTS TO CONSIDER:

— The landlord and tenant share the risk and uncertainty of grain prices and yields.

— The tenant has a further incentive to use good farming practices if the landlord pays a share of the cost of seed, fertilizer and chemical.

— The landlord may be willing to sign a longer-term share lease than cash lease, there-by increasing the renter's security of tenure and time horizon for planning major machinery [illegible]

— The landlord and tenant may disagree on major management decisions such as the optimum amount and type of fertilizer and chemical to use, cultural practices and amount of summerfallowing to be done.

— Gains from superior farming ability or losses from inferior ability are shared with [illegible]

— The landowner has no short-term guarantee of covering his investment costs.

Cash Lease - The most common form of cash lease is one in which the tenant receives all of the income and pays all of the expenses, except taxes and building insurance, in return for a fixed cash settlement. [illegible] the [illegible] bearing all of the risk of poor crop yields, the landlords contributions should be adjusted downward to compensate. For example, his share should be reduced by 10 percent if, in the long run, one year in 10 is a reasonable estimate of the frequency of crop failures for the area. To establish a fair cash rent, the expected gross returns per cultivated acre are calculated using average yields and average prices. This gross return figure is multiplied by the landlord's adjusted share of contributions to determine the cash rent that should be paid.

POINTS TO CONSIDER:

— The landlord receives a guaranteed return on his investment because the tenant must pay the fixed rent even if low prices and poor yields occur.

— Many potential areas of disagreement are eliminated since the tenant has more flexibility in production and management decisions.

— The tenant receives all the benefits of good production and management practices as long as he is renting the land. Because of the wide fluctuations in grain prices, cash lease agreements are usually short term. Hence, the tenant has less incentive to use improved cultural practices, the benefits of which will accrue in the long run and not necessarily during the term of [illegible] — Accurate yield determination is of lesser importance than in the crop share lease.

— A "fair" rent now may be "unfair" before the term of the lease has expired because of the uncertainity of prices and yields.

Flexible Cash Lease - The advantage of a flexible cash lease over an ordinary cash lease is that price risk is distributed between landlord and tenant. As with cash lease agreements, the contributions approach is used as an adjustment for yield risk made to determine an equitable contributions ratio.

The next step is to calculate the base annual rent in bushels per cultivated acre. Then reduce the average yield of a crop commonly grown in the area by the percentage of rented land to be summerfallowed. Multiply this base annual rent by the total realized price to arrive at cash rent per cultivated acre.

Since the flexibility of the agreement centers around price determination, it is very important to specify in the agreement the way in which price is calculated. For example, if Canadian Wheat Board prices are to be used, the type of grain, grade and delivery point must be specified. Alternately, if feed grain prices are used, an average price for 30 days prior to the rent payment is made. It is also important to specify when payment of rent will be made since if wheat board prices are used, the final payment will not be [illegible]

Points To Consider

A well-thought-out flexible cash lease may facilitate longer-term leasing arrangements.

— Both the landlord and tenant share in some of their risk and uncertainty of variations in prices and yields.

— With the flexibility of the agreement based on price, considerable time may elapse before final payments are known. However with open market feed grain marketing numerous alternatives are available.

— A flexible cash agreement which is to complicated provides for misunderstanding. Adjustments for actual price and yield variations are best obtained by using the crop share method of leasing.

Killam Lions ready for a sports "coup"

Killam Lions Club are on the verge of scoring a major sports coup.

Negotiations have been conducted with the Western Major Fastball League and a decision is expected next month (February) which could bring a major fastball tournament to the town.

Although it still needs to be finalized, it would appear that the Killam Lions will be dropping their annual baseball tournament in favour of holding what could turn out to be the second-best fastball tournament in Western Canada.

A proposal to host a fastball tournament at the level of Western Major Fastball League will be decided when the Lions hold their regular monthly meeting on Feb. 13th.

If agreement is reached, a tournament involving all [illegible] from the WMFL could be held in Killam in June. A decision will also be reached to see if the tournament might be expanded to include other teams, providing they are willing to compete at this level.

If the Lions decide to proceed with the tournament, it would be second only to the "World Series of Fastball" which is an international affair, that attracts the top teams from both Canada and the United States.

The tournament, if held, would likely be the first major tournament of the season in Western Canada, because it is planned to hold it in June.

The holding of such a tournament has apparently been discussed by WMFL teams who have given tentative approval, and all teams would be expected to compete.

One reason that all teams might be willing to take part in such a tournament could be the fact that the Killam Lions are considering offering about six thousand dollars ($6,000) in prize money.

Although it was reported in last week's issue of The Canadian, that the Lions have already decided to drop the annual baseball tournament, such a decision still has to be formalized by the club, although it would appear that such will be the case.

A spokesman for the club indicated that the problem of attracting top calibre baseball teams to a tournament is becoming more difficult each year.

"Without top teams, you can't draw the fans", according to the spokesman who noted that other centers holding baseball tournaments were experiencing the same kind of problem in keeping their tournaments alive.

With some of the best players in the world competing in the WMFL (teams use players from a number of countries, including the United States and New Zealand), it would seem to the Killam Lions that such a tournament would be a crowd-pleaser and could fill the park.

RAT CONTROL

[illegible] waged a relentless battle against the rat, often with little success.

In Canada, Alberta is the only province free of rats. Now Saskatchewan is introducing a control program [illegible] three-to-five-year period. However, the program could save $20 million a year based on estimates that each rat causes $20 damage each year.

The constitution: Queen and Supreme Court

Excerpts from a letter to Senator Eugene Forsey, Ottawa, from Hon. S. Bruce Smith of Edmonton. Mr. Smith is a retired Chief Justice of Alberta, former president of the Law Society of Alberta and former vice-president and a member of the executive of the Canadian Bar Association.

I appreciated having received your letter of June 26, together with the Constitutional Amendment Bill in which letter you suggest that I might comment on the proposals in general and in particular those dealing with the Supreme Court.

First, I make a comment with respect to the position of the Queen of Canada under the Constitutional Amendment Bill. It appears to me that the Queen's position is definitely denigrated. The only definition of the position of Her Majesty is that contained in Section 30 of the Bill by which she "shall be styled the Queen of Canada and whose sovereignty as such shall pass to her heirs and successors in accordance with the law."

In comparison, the powers, authority and functions of the Governor-General of Canada are set out in great detail in Sections 43, 44, 46 and 47. By Section 43 the executive government of Canada is vested in the Governor-General "on behalf and in the name of the Queen." By Section 44 he is given precedence as "the First Canadian." I think it is worth quoting Section 46, which is as follows:

"46. All powers, authorities and functions vested in and exercisable by the Governor-General of Canada, with the advice or with the advice and consent of or in conjunction with the Queen's Privy Council for Canada, or any member thereof, or by the Governor-General individually, as the case may be, immediately before the commencement of this Act, continue to be vested in and exercisable by the Governor-General, on the advice of or by and with the advice of the Council of State of Canada, or any member thereof, or by the Governor-General individually, as the case requires, subject to this Act and subject to be abolished or altered by the Parliament of Canada or otherwise under the authority of the Constitution of Canada."

By Section 47 he is declared "the commander-in-chief of the Canadian Forces" with full status and powers in his or her own right rather than merely in the capacity of a representative of the sovereign. These provisions appear to me in reality to cause the position of the Governor-General to be more important than the office of the monarchy.

I am entirely in agreement with you that, under the new scheme, a government with a Commons majority could make us a republic or the only one-chamber federation in the world in 60 days. This is demonstrated clearly in my view by the explanatory notes on Page 3 of the text, which refer to "provisions that Parliament already has exclusive authority to enact under Head 1 of Section 91 of the British North America Act" and the statement on Page 4 that the provisions relating to the federal executive, the House of Commons and House of Federation (which will be continued as within the present exclusive authority of Parliament) after the commencement of the Bill as law could therefore be amended from time to time by Parliament and that "the Bill would not restrict the future powers of Parliament in this connection. These provisions would thus be constitutionalized but not entrenched."

It may not be the aim and object of the present government of Canada to convert Canada to a republic, but the revisions referred to definitely open the way for this being accomplished.

So far as the provisions relating to the House of Federation are concerned I can see no advantage whatsoever in the creation of this house. All the members would be appointed, not elected. I would much prefer it, if there is to be a change, to have elected Senators and provisions relating to the Senate which would provide that each province have equal representation in the House of Federation with the result that the provinces with larger populations would not have the same dominance over legislative actions of the Senate as they do now.

Turning to the provisions relating to the Supreme Court of Canada, I have no favorable comments to make whatsoever. I agree with you that "'candidates' are what prospective judges will be. They will have to mount campaigns, lobby the provincial attorney-general concerned or the members of the nominating council and then the members of the upper house." I do not think that any first-class lawyer with a reasonable measure of self-respect would demean him or herself by submitting to this with this procedure.

Furthermore, I do not like at all the provision that questions relating to the civil law of Quebec shall be decided by the judges of the Supreme Court who are judges appointed for Quebec, namely four. This provision would have the consequence that, in matters relating to the civil law of Quebec, the Supreme Court of Canada would be bound in the future not by the decision of the majority, but by the decision of a minority of four judges from Quebec. I have difficulty in imagining anything more objectionable than this provision relating to the procedures of the final Court of Appeal of Canada.

I have been greatly shocked in the last day or two that a special committee of the Canadian Bar Association is preparing a report which recommends that the Queen is no longer to be Canada's head of state. I am shocked at the views of the committee and can only hope that the Canadian Bar Association will not adopt this report. If it does we might then well be advancing on the course leading to the elimination of the monarchy and the establishment of a republic. I am convinced that the large majority of the people of Canada desire the maintenance of the monarchy and are not willing to agree to the establishing of Canada as a republic.

Your views already expressed in some detail have been given wide publicity and of this I am glad.

I am not really qualified to measure what constitutional changes the province of Quebec would like to have but have the definite impression they would like to have control over immigration and control over TV and radio and some other additional fresh powers. I do not believe that the draft Constitutional Amendment Bill would go any distance to satisfying the aims and objects of Premier Levesque and the present government of that province. There is a rather grey area in the division of legislative fields between the government of Canada and the provinces. Several of the provinces maintain vigorously that in this area the government of Canada has been regularly and consistently infringing upon the rights of the provinces, there being no exact lines as between the central government and the provinces at the present time in the British North America Act. But in respect of this objection of the provinces, again the draft Constitutional Amendment Bill does not, in my opinion, go any distance at all in meeting these objections. I certainly cannot believe that the provisions relating to the House of the Federation or the Supreme Court of Canada would ease the situation with respect to the province of Quebec in Canada.

Frankly, I regard the Constitutional Amendment Bill as a possible tragedy to our political system if it should become law.

As we all know, there has been agitation for years in favor of the overhaul of the British North America Act and its patriation to Canada. But to me the draft Constitutional Amendment Bill tends to create a situation in which, so to speak, the tail is wagging the dog; the bill goes a long distance in overhauling the provisions of the British North America Act with respect to those provisions which lie within the present exclusive authority of Parliament but it postpones any consideration at all of the revision of the powers as between Canada and the provinces and the latter question appears to me to be the really live issue and the one which is going to be most difficult to deal with. I think it is an unfortunate and artificial manner of approaching the question of the revision of the constitution of Canada to redefine the constitution so far as the federal executive, the House of Commons and the Senate are concerned, and to leave completely untouched and in a vacuum any changes in the division of powers between Canada and the provinces.

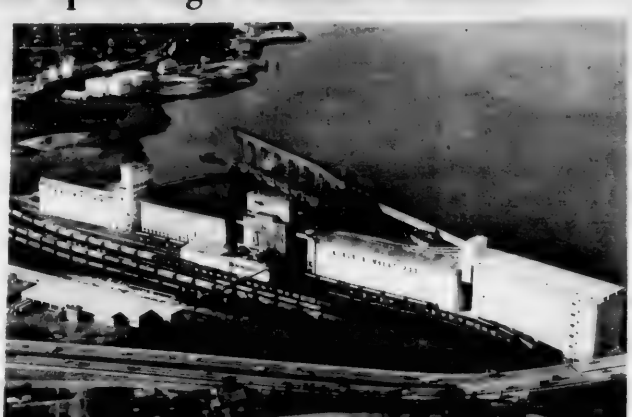
Pool opens huge Vancouver addition



Alberta Wheat Pool officially announced the opening of huge new storage facilities at its No. 1 Terminal in Vancouver, adding 2.5 million bushels of extra capacity to make a total of 10.1 million bushel storage available.

The announcement was made in Camrose to a gathering of weekly newspapers, radio and television broadcasters by Parke Dobson, Wheat Pool director for District Number 4, backed by several Pool delegates from the area

The move followed directives from the Wheat Pool members some years ago to review facilities for receiving, storing and shipping grain, said Mr Dobson, with orders to act on their findings

The new facility will provide surge capacity, emphasized Mr Dobson, permitting the terminal to handle probably 20 million extra bushels each year, based on turning stock over as many as ten times yearly. Last year, stressed Mr Dobson, the Pool turned over its stock 13 times. The complex features versatility, high throughput, and very low manpower requirements beyond those of the main terminal

Pool officers stressed the advice of the Canadian Wheat Board that possibly a hundred to a hundred and fifty million bushels of added sales could be realized if the capacity were available, and the Alberta Wheat Pool felt they were leading the way when they st made the decision to increase capacity Mr. Dobson pointed out that while Alberta started first, Saskatchewan Pool completed enlargement first because of construction difficulties experienced by the Alberta operation

As safe as modern engineering can make it, said Mr. Dobson, the new unit employs a radical redesign of normal facilities, with a solid concrete platform supported on piles, the platform supporting steel bins, the huge storage bins, which are completely open at the bottom, reducing very substantially the danger of explosion from dust accumulations In addition, he said, materials have been employed in a number of areas to reduce sparks or overheating at friction points which moving high volumes of grain.

Capable of unloading 425,000 bushels in a seven-hour period, the entire facility can now load two large or three small ships at the same time

A feature of the additional storage is that it will provide the Pool with a ten day supply of grain for loading ships, even if some catastrophe were to block railway deliveries for the entire ten days.

Mr. Dobson agreed that railways have their own problems to overcome, stressing there are many unpredictable factors involved in transporting grain. The Pool operated three shifts a day last week for three days, he pointed out, but then had to shut down because the CPR ran out of cars for delivery

More spur lines, more empty car storage areas, more unloading facilities, and other features are needed, said the District Four director, to make the whole plan more workable

Mr. Dobson reported both boxcars and hopper cars take an average of seven minutes to unload, but pointed out hopper cars carry far more grain

The Pool had no plans today for further development of the Vancouver facility, he stated in answer to a question, but said they would probably wait for developments of the consortium planning the Prince Rupert terminal Such a consortium could conceivable increase efficiency considerably, stressed Mr Dobson, through permitting concentration of some types of grain at one terminal, with other types at the other centre.

This would make ship loading far more efficient, he suggested, eliminating, or at least reducing, the need for ships to moved from one terminal to another to load complete cargoes as has been the case in the past

The initial construction at Vancouver started in 1977, said Mr. Dobson, who then traced the continual program of expansion and improvement, a step every few years, with nearly $28 million being spent in the past nine years

Opportunities expand in overseas youth exchange

Three overseas youth exchange programs are available to young people in Alberta.

The International Agricultural Exchange Association (IAEA) operates a world-wide youth exchange program whereby more than 300 students from other parts of the world come to Alberta under this program each year to work, and an equal number of young people from Alberta who are over 18 years of age are eligible to work in other countries

The Alberta-Hokkaido Dairy Exchange Program provides for the exchange of dairy and cultural experiences between Alberta and Japan. Students must have a background in dairy farming to qualify for this program. The period of exchange varies from six months to a year, and some financial support is available to Alberta students going to Japan because of the lower wages paid in that country.

Professor to speak

Dr Harry Vincent Stuart Prest, Assistant Professor of English Literature at Camrose Lutheran College, will be delivering a public lecture on Thursday evening, in the Teaching Theatre of Founders' Hall (Old Main) at Camrose Lutheran College.

The lecture will begin at 7:30 p.m and the topic will be "Gulliver's Travels: Swift's Savage Indignation"

This lecture is free of charge and the public are welcome to attend An informal reception will follow the lecture

The fellowing week, on January 31st Prof Geoffrey Durrant of the University of British Columbia will be lecturing on the poetry of William Wordsworth.

Information can be obtained from C.A. Cheshire, 9715-107 Street, Edmonton, T5K 2C8.

The Netherlands Youth Exchange Program offers two programs, both of which give Canadian youth the opportunity to learn farming or market gardening on Dutch farms and to participate in the rural community life of that country.

Participants may choose either the long-term program, which provides up to 12 months of training on a crop or dairy farm or with a market garden, nursery or greenhouse operation, or a short-term horticultural program The short-term programs run for between two and four months during the summer.

Applications for either programs may be obtained from: A.M. Leroi, Netherlands Vice-Consul for Emigration Affairs, 721-475 Howe Street, Vancouver, B.C. V6C 2B3.

Confronting your faith

by Carl E. Hansen

With Pastor Carl Hansen of the Mennonite Church

"Who is the greatest in the kingdom of heaven"' the disciples asked Jesus He replied "Unless you turn and become like children, you will never enter the kingdom of heaven. Whoever humbles himself like this child, he is the greatest in the kingdom of heaven." Matt. 18:1-4.

There you have it: The entrance requirements for landed immigrant status in the "kingdom of heaven" (a euphemism for God's people here on earth who recognize his rulership) is childlikeness Likewise the credentials for becoming an influential somebody in God's movement is child-likeness. Jesus is there about the nature of a child that God likes so much?

There are at least four qualities which make the child a symbol of those who are citizens of the kingdom:

A first quality is humility. Motives of personal ambition, personal prestige, personal publicity, and personal profit are not normal to a small child Their appearance is a sure sign of approaching adolescence and adulthood These motives have no place in the life of the Christian who forgets self in his devotion to Jesus Christ When Jesus lays down the condition, "unless you turn," he implies that the normal adult quest for self-fulfillment is going the wrong way on a one-way street There must be a turning around, a returning to childlike humility, of giving preference to others

A second quality is dependence. A small child is utterly dependent upon the good will of adults to supply its needs. He doesn't worry about tomorrow's groceries or taxes, just assumes these will be provided as needed Jesus urged his followers: "You not be anxious about your life, what you shall eat . . . etc." Matt. 6:25-34. Kingdom citizens simply recognize their dependence upon God and abandon all worry and anxiety from their lives.

A third quality is trust. My little daughter lets me swing her by her feet in circles or up and down with her head moving in an arc reaching from the ceiling to within inches of the floor. She giggles and sings or talks while I do this to her Comp.lete trust! The kind of trust citizens of the kingdom have in their Heavenly Father! Our lives are in His hands Let Him do with us as He pleases. It will be okay. It will be fun!

Children also ask for things they think they want Wise parents don't give them everything they ask for. Children will not be happy, but they soon accept that and still trust enough to ask again for the next thing they want. In the same way God wants us to come to Him for all our needs.

A fourth quality is freedom. Children are so free and honest and open. They are not bound by the chains, doubts, grudges, guilt, peer pressure, and other inhibitions we adults allow to restrict our lives. My friend was entertaining guests in his home. Their foul and profane language was getting on his nerves, but he lacked the courage or wit to rebuke his guests tactfully Resentment was building up, when his little four year old burst out in a clear loud song, "Jesus loves me, this I know, for the Bible tells me so" etc The whole atmosphere changed "Out of the mouth of babes and sucklings thou has brought perfect praise" Matt 21:16

Children make mistakes, but they are quick to be sorry, accept correction and forget it. They don't carry their guilt with them like adults. Also they are quick to forgive and forget an injury received. Life is too short and exciting to waste it carrying old grudges

So you would like to be great among God's people? How do you measure up to the stature of a child in these qualities of true greatness?

Focus emphasis on MS research

The work funding Dr. K.G. Warren does not promise to be easy. But it is important and could result in major contributions to medical knowledge.

The assistant professor of medicine came to the University of Alberta in July, his appointment integral to the increased emphasis which the University is giving to research related to multiple sclerosis. It will be up to Dr. Warren to carry out, encourage, direct, and coordinate research into this disease common in Canada. About 1500 Albertans suffer from it.

Multiple sclerosis is a demyelinating disease of the brain and spinal cord or both; its cause is, as yet, unknown. However, observations of the disease and its pattern of occurrence have led medical researchers to speculate that its occurrence must depend upon a combination of factors - - a factor or factors in the individual makeup of a person combined with an environmental factor or factors. Weight is added to this belief by the fact that the disease is rare in tropical climates and there has never been a documented case of a full-blooded American Indian developing multiple sclerosis.

Dr Warren left the Wistar Institute of Anatomy and Biology at the University of Pennsylvania to come to Alberta. Previously he had studied medicine and neurology in London, Ontario. Multiple sclerosis has been his primary research interest for some time and, at the University of Alberta, he will continue his research in addition to co-ordinating multiple sclerosis research through the recently-established multiple sclerosis clinic

Dr Warren describes the University of Alberta as a relatively well equipped with scientists who could make contributions in this area of medical research. The research itself is to have considerable breadth and depth, both the cause and the effects of the disease will be investigated. In the main, the research will be organized in [illegible] teams.

On one front, a "desperately needed" diagnostic test will be sought so that the disease might be detected in its earliest stages. In this regard, promise is shown in the work of Dr. T.A. McPherson, assistant dean of medicine and director of the faculty's division of medical oncology, who has developed a radio-immuno assay to determine the level of myelin basic protein within an individual's central spinal fluid — he hopes to show that the level is different in persons with multiple sclerosis.

On a second front, immunologist Dr. John Donnelor is leading investigations in the area of immuno-genetics. Sought is a gene related to susceptibility to multiple sclerosis and the specific immune complexes - - antigen antibody complexes - - which combat the disease. If the complexes can be found they may provide clues as to its cause.

On another front, an epidemiology study — that is a study of the occurrence and distribution of the disease - - is being undertaken by Dr. Sharon Warren. Her search for clues to the cause of the disease will involve detailed questionnaires to help fill obtain as much information as possible about the life history of those Albertans who have multiple sclerosis.

On the fourth front, researchers will attempt to find a factor involved in the occurrence of multiple sclerosis. Dr. K.G. Warren says that medical scientists have good reason to believe that a virus is involved - - multiple sclerosis could be caused by a virus not yet identified or it could be an unusual disease caused by a known virus. It is on this front that Dr. Warren himself will be working. Others working in this general area include Dr. D.L. Tyrell and Dr. R.G. Marusyk.

In addition, the clinical effects of the diseases are to be studied. This is important, says Dr. Warren, because, even if its cause eludes discovery, investigations of the clinical effects of the disease will allow the best patient care possible. In this regard, Dr. R.P. Beck is pursuing research which may lead to improved treatment of urinary tract problems common to multiple sclerosis patients. Dr. D.R. McLean is studying visual-evoked and auditory-evoked responses, and Dr. T.A.S. Boyd is studying the eye movements and reading ability of multiple sclerosis patients.

HYDROPONIC BARLEY GRASS
They look like large refrigerators and use hydroponics - the growing of plants without soil - to produce barley grass for animal feed. "Grass machines" as they are commonly called in the United States, can yield up to 800 pounds of grass a day, about the same as 25 acres of irrigated pasture.
The total cost of producing one ton of barley is $25, compared with at least 800 a ton for pasture alfalfa, and the unit uses less than one-fifth the water required to irrigate the pasture. Studies have also shown that farm animals fed this barley together with hay or straw are more productive

CONTROLLED ATMOSPHERE APPLES

In late winter and early spring all the Canadian and U.S. apples bought by consumers are the product of controlled atmosphere storage.

The apples are stored in a sealed room with a low-oxygen, high-carbon-dioxide atmosphere for at least 90 days. The controlled atmosphere slows the respiration rate in the apples, keeping them fresh and crisp.

Reg Greene of Agriculture Canada's fruit and vegetable division says consulted atmosphere storage facilities in Canada have doubled in the last 10 years.

"MR. YURKO IS WRONG"
The Tofield Mercury
c-o Ed Clinton
Tofield, Alberta.
T0B 4J0

Dear Editor:

I'm writing to you concerning Bill Yurko's suggested use of Alberta's Heritage Trust Fund.

My feelings in this matter can only be described as intense disappointment, for these reasons.

The Heritage Trust Fund was commenced for the [illegible] of the province. When it will eventually run out of it's natural resources; consequently, it will no longer be a wealthy province. This is why we are saving now. In so doing, people in the generations to come can employ the money we have reserved for them.

If you're going to use the money from the trust fund - - for anything but it's intended purpose - - you run considerbleluxury, so that everyone will benefit. Use it for schools, hospitals, or public libraries.

I realize that Alberta is a very sports oriented province and that Mr. Yurko is attempting to create contentness in Edmontonians by bringing the N.H.L. to their city. However, I also realize that there is a provincial election in the up-coming year. Perhaps, Mr. Yurko would find favor in many more people if he tried to do more for everyone instead of just hockey fans. Such as using the trust fund for auxiliary hospitals, nursing homes, schools for the retarded or disabled, or advanced education; if it is necessary to use the trust fund at all. Edmonton is a very wealthy city and I don't think it really needs everyone's Trust Fund for their hockey games.

Sincerely,
Janet M Nalisnuk
Tofield, Alberta

Flagging motorists can be dangerous

The Accident Investigation Team of Alberta Transportation has noticed that of pedestrians killed on Alberta highways during the past three years, six lost their lives while trying to flag down passing vehicles for assistance In the same period there were nine other persons killed by other vehicles while in the vicinity of their own vehicles.

Moreover, before these fatal crashes the victims had experienced a vehicle breakdown, run off the roadway, or became stuck in snow filled ditches All occurred during the hours of darkness

A spokesman for the Accident Investigation Team further noted that most of these fatality victims had all placed themselves directly in the path of the vehicle they were trying to flag down for assistance

The spokesman recommends that drivers who desire assistance at night would be much better to activate the four way flashers or inside dome lights of their disabled vehicles. Most passing drivers will stop on such signal to render assistance

"Home care" program is set by Health Unit

In April of last year, the Alberta government announced a Home Care Program [redacted] ministered through health units Plans have been progressing in this area and Mrs. Mollie Cunningham, Director of the Vegreville Health Unit, recently announced that the Co-ordinated Home Care Program is now accepting referrals and admitting patients throughout the area served by this health unit

The program is designed to meet particular needs of the people in this area with special emphasis on elderly and handicapped persons. The goal of Co-ordinated Home Care is to prevent, delay or shorten hospitalization by extending health care and support services to people who, with some help, could remain [redacted]

Co-ordinated home care brings community services and volunteers together with health care personnel such as nurses and rehabilitation therapists Many support services can be arranged such as homemaking, homehelp, handiman, visiting, transportation, [redacted] contact and Meals-On-Wheels, if they are available within a [redacted] of where the patient lives The Health Unit cannot establish these services Mrs [redacted] is concerned on behalf of the people in the Health Unit area who live in communities [redacted] support services are not yet available.

Local committees are being formed by volunteer representatives in many communities. Each committee will be finding out what support services exist in their area and who the home care staff can contact to make arrangements when patients need support services. As well, the committee wants to find out what services the people in the area would like to establish

In the Tofield and Ryley areas, Mrs. Ethel Fleming and Mrs Gladys Whyte are looking for interested people who might like to help, or offer [redacted]

As Co-ordinator of the Home Care Program, I am eager to provide whatever assistance I can. Contact me for more information regarding any aspect of Home Care, by phoning the Health Unit in Vegreville, 632-3331, or writing to Vegreville Health Unit, Box 99, Vegreville, Alberta

Seminar attended

Marvin Weber of Hoveland Funeral Chapel Ltd in Camrose has returned from a comprehensive seminar on death education in Red Deer.

According to Mr Weber, the experimental seminar is designed to help funeral directors examine perceptions about their own deaths and to become more sensitive to the feelings of the families they serve

The curriculum of the four-day workshop contained information on how funeral directors can develop [redacted] natives to the traditional funeral where individual needs may not be met

This concept in funerals is called "Life Appreciation Services" and focuses upon the lifestyle, accomplishments and personal convictions of the deceased, in addition to religious beliefs

Funerals are individually planned to help the family and friends remember the life of the deceased in the most positive way.

Neighbours respond when fire burns home

Neighbours rallied to the assistance of a Tofield area resident who lost all of his belongings in a fire.

Vernon Krueger was away from home when fire of unknown origin completely destroyed his house and all its contents. The fire occurred on January 21st.

Residents of the area responded to Mr. Krueger's plight by collecting cash and clothing. Mr Krueger's home was located about one mile west of Tofield.

Waldemar Meitzler of Bittern Lake RR1 suffered a broken leg when the snowmobile he was operating was in collision with a truck. The mishap occurred along a road on Jan. 28th.

There were several other traffic accidents in the area during the past week with a number of persons suffering minor injuries.

Three more persons were charged with passing a school bus while it was stopped and the lights were flashing.

RCMP warn motorists that charges will continue to be laid, and that the penalty can include a fine and the loss of four points.

Police responded to a total of seventy complaints during the past two weeks and three more drivers were charged with impaired driving.

Russell Ferguson, whose home is located six and one half miles north of Tofield, reported the loss of a one and one-half year old Holstein Hereford cross steer with a black white face. The animal is branded on his right rib.

John Wall of Tofield reported the theft of a skill saw, an electric drill and various wrenches from his residence.

Russ Dryden of Tofield reported the loss of a mytre box, valued at $75, which was taken from his parked truck.

David Secord of Edmonton reported an attempted breakin at his trailer which is located northwest of Tofield.

Myrtle Norman reported wilful damage at the Tofield Car Wash when a 3-ram window was smashed. It would appear that a vehicle was backed into the window with the driver failing to remain on the scene.

Court

Marcel Preteau was fined $500 on two charges, one of mischief damage, and another of theft.

Vernon Krueger was fined $200 on a charge of driving with a reading in excess of .08, while Clayton Timothy Jeffrey was fined $200 on a similar charge. Both had their licenses suspended for a period of time.

Joseph Frederic Canlak pleaded guilty to a charge of driving while his license was suspended and was remanded for sentencing until Feb 13th.

Mark Jones was fined $150 for having caused wilful damage to a service station in Ryley.

David McCoy was fined $75 on a charge of shooting while in a vehicle. Kelvin Thomas McCoy and Darrell Fleck were each fined $50 on charges of illegal possession of liquor.

Custodian to retire

by Nadine Wood

The Ryley school staff and students will recognize a very special person who will soon be leaving their midst.

On February 11th, at 2:45 p.m., a tea will be held in honor of Reg Dyer, who has given 10 years of cheerful, careful service as the school custodian, and who is retiring at the end of January.

During his years at the school, Reg has burned hundreds of kilograms of garbage, scrubbed several kilometers of floor area, and applied many litres of wax.

He has always taken a personal interest in everyone, and has never failed to greet students and staff alike with a friendly smile.

Everyone is invited to join in marking Reg Dyer's retirement, and to wish him well in his new lifestyle.

Tofield moves into 2nd

Tofield moved into a tie for second place, only two points out of top spot, following Beaverhill Hockey League action during the past week.

Two victories allowed Tofield to catch Andrew in the standings with both teams two points behind Mundare. Mundare has a game in hand on Andrew and two games in hand over Tofield.

The slumping Ryley Rebels fell three points behind Lamont in the battle for fourth place (final playoff berth) when they lost two games, stretching their losing streak to four games.

In an exhibition game in Tofield on Saturday night, the Beaverhill Hockey League All Stars surprised the CLC Vikings 6-4 to even their annual series at one game each.

Following last week's action, only one thing has been determined. Holden has been eliminated from contention for first place while the best that Smoky Lake could do it is tie for top spot.

Tonight (Thursday) games will have Tofield hosting Holden while Ryley plays in Smoky Lake.

Games on Saturday night will see Holden host Andrew while Ryley will host Mundare in Tofield.

Tuesday night's contests will see Lamont play in Tofield while Holden hosts Waskatenau, and next Thursday's matches will have Ryley hosting Andrew in Tofield while Tofield plays in Lamont.

Mundare retained sole possession of first place when they whipped Holden 14-3 while Andrew dropped from a first-place tie when they were edged 6-5 by Lamont.

Tofield made it two wins in a row by walloping Waskatenau 8-3 and then followed by doubling Ryley 8-4.

Holden stunned Ryley with an exciting 5-3 triumph and Smoky Lake followed by whipping Waskatenau 9-4.

Despite having the edge in play, Vikings were unable to win the end of a 6-4 score in Tofield on Saturday night in an exhibition contest with the Beaverhill Hockey League All Stars.

The two teams split three goals each in the first and last periods and it was Beaverhill's 3-1 margin in the middle stanza that proved the way to victory.

Beaverhill got goals from Thomson, Appleman, Mosdell, Nachtigal, Perakiwe and Prudensky. Stang had a hat-trick for CLC with the single going to Franch.

Vikings outshot the All Stars 38-19 and were assessed eleven penalties to only seven for the host team.

League standings to date, not including Tuesday night's contests, are as follows.

Gallinger rink wins Bruce spiel

by Bea Fredericks
Gallinger Wins Bruce Ladies' Bonspiel

On Sunday evening, the Darlene Gallinger rink from Tofield won the Grand Challenge at the Bruce Ladies' Bonspiel after a hard-fought battle against Strilchuk's Ryley foursome.

At the end of the 9th end the score was 8-8 in favor of Gallinger Strilchuk missed her last takeout to leave the Tofield rink with a pair.

The second event saw the Darin rink from Bruce easily defeat the Hantuik team from Vegreville by a score of 9-4.

In the Third Event, Nellie Scribney of Vegreville skipped her rink to victory over the Betsy Ann Gallinger rink from Tofield. Scribney was leading 7-6 at the end of the 9th and made a perfect takeout with her last rock to remove the tying stone.

A total of twenty-two rinks from Bruce, Holden, Ryley, Tofield, Viking and Vegreville participated in the bonspiel. The large entry along with keen ice and attractive prizes made for a fine time for all.

On Saturday night, the ladies from the Agricultural Society catered to the banquet which was held in the Community Centre. Judy Kaltia welcomed the guests and Ellen Dorin said grace. Following the tasty meal the skips introduced their rinks.

Following is a complete list of the winners:

Vision House opens tonight

Vision House will officially open its doors tonight (Thursday) in Tofield.

Mayor, Dr. W.H. Freebury, will cut the official ribbon and declare Tofield's newest addition to be open.

That Place manager, Diane Reil, will accept the keys for the new building from Erwin Weins, contractor responsible for the construction of the building.

Musical numbers will be rendered, there will be a devotional period, the history of Vision House will be outlined, and a building report will be given.

Tonight's opening ceremonies are scheduled for eight o'clock.

"That Place", a coffee shop and part of Vision House, will feature a number of "sale" items tomorrow (Friday) to mark the occasion of Vision House's official opening.

Treasury Branch opens in Tofield

Alberta's Provincial Treasurer Merv Leitch cut a ribbon and officially opened the province's newest Treasury Branch on Friday afternoon.

Tofield's newest banking establishment was packed with well-wishers for the official opening which saw hundreds of persons sign the guest book.

Fred Sparrow, superintendent of Treasury Branches, was one of the principal speakers, outlining some of the history of how Treasury Branches came into existence.

Three local persons were involved in the opening ceremonies.

Speaking briefly to extend their congratulations were Dr. W.H. Freebury, Mayor of the Town of Tofield; Walter Krupielnicki, Reeve of the County of Beaver; and G. R. Strong, president of the recently formed Tofield Business Association.

The Tofield Treasury Branch will be under the management of Dave LeClaire, and was constructed at a total cost of $237,839 and covers 3,000 square feet.

Following the official opening ceremony, the ladies of the Vision Society catered to a light lunch.

The opening of the Tofield Branch marked the occasion of the Treasury Branch establishing its 100th outlet in the province since its beginning forty years ago.

According to Treasury Branch officials, present planning calls for thirteen more branches to be established in rural communities over the next two and one-half years.

Who cares?

We were interested in a recent discussion with a friend when it was suggested that people generally today seem to have lost the capacity for righteous indignation, for becoming concerned about situations in the community or outside, even though their very lives may be affected. Our apathy borders on the criminal, even, it was suggested.

At the time, it seems, we had remarked over a situation we found dreadfully upsetting, in that among various associations of lawyers across the country, not one, as far as we know, had risen in protest over the recent holding of secret court sessions in the province of Quebec. It was protested in Parliament by a number of the Opposition members, but their opposition seemed to die down shortly, and they moved on to other things.

By contrast, it seems to us at least, that the entire bar association should have protested this departure from established (need we say it) British justice. It affects all of us, of course, but the legal system is central to the entire court system, and vice versa. No-one could be more affected than they, no-one could be more aware than they of the long range ramifications when even one precedent-setting case is heard in a Star court, and no-one should have been more vociferous in their protest.

To their shame, not one protest was heard. Even more to their discredit, when a subject did arise that brought them to their feet, it was a sordid little thing about money in their own pockets.

So much for the great traditions, the lofty ideals.

Better bettors

Canadian bettors may not be betting any better than they used to do, but they're certainly betting more, according to figures released recently by Agriculture Minister Eugene Whelan in regards to pari-mutuel betting on Canadian horse races.

Nationally, he says, gross betting totals went up slightly more than seven percent, although Saskatchewan's wagering dropped more than twelve percent. It's interesting here to note that Alberta, as it does in so many other ways these days, led the provinces in the rate of increase, with more than a fifteen percent surge.

It's even interesting to note that Alberta leads British Columbia in total amounts wagered, although we have fewer people here. For that matter, Alberta scores almost half as many dollars bet as do the people in Quebec, though they outnumber us by well over three to one.

Another interesting feature is that while there were more racing days, total attendance fell off almost one percent, leaving the distinct impression that those who turned out were putting more on the counter.

Which exactly follows the patterns of the lotteries.

Progressive Farming

Earlier this winter we had advertised a number of courses we thought the general farming public would be interested in. The result was that we got a varying response depending on the course of [redacted]

Since then, we have had additional suggestions from various people as to which courses they would like to see the Department of Agriculture offer. We had acted on these suggestions and are prepared to set up the following courses:

1) Surface Rights for Farmers - The main emphasis would be on the farmers rights with respect to oil companies, drilling and siesmec companies and pipeline companies. Topics will include compensation incurred in construction, settlements, and farmers legal rights. This course will be held on February 23, 1979 at the Ryley Legion Hall at 1:00 p.m. There is no cost for this course, however we ask you to pre-register by phoning our office.

2) Livestock Veterinary Course - This course would be given by a practicing veterinarian. The main emphasis would be on preventative medicine, recognizing symptoms, and what action should be taken on the part of the farmer. Types of animals to be studied would be beef and dairy cattle, swine, and horses. Registration fee would be $10.00 and the course will be held at the Ryley Legion Hall, February 26, and 28, 1979 at 1:00 p.m. each day. Please pre-register by phoning our office.

3) Home Gardening Course - This course was prompted from interest shown by country and town people. The course would include seeding practices, seed bed preparation, rotation, fertilizer requirements, weed and pest control and varieties best suited for planting in this area. The emphasis would be on vegetable crops and also on some small fruits such as raspberries, strawberries, saskatoons and crab apple trees. This course will be held in the afternoons of March 8 and 9, 1979 from 1:00 p.m. to 4:00 p.m. at the Ryley Legion Hall. Registration fee is $5.00. Please pre-register by phoning our office.

All courses mentioned above are subject to pre-registration. We urge you to pre-register so that we can accommodate you since space is limited in each of these courses.

Tracing orphans from Britain

[redacted]

I am a former managing editor of The United Church Observer and columnist on The Globe and Mail of Toronto. I am doing research dealing with the arrival in Canada of thousands of orphan children from Britain in the early years of the 1900s. I would be pleased to hear, by letter, from people throughout Canada who came to this country through the various organizations such as Barnardo Homes, Macpherson Homes, the Fairbridge Society and so on.

I would also appreciate letters from persons who worked for any of these organizations (or others like them) or in whose homes any of the children were brought up. My mailing address is 303 St. Lawrence St. Whitby, Ontario, L1n 1H2. All letters will be gratefully received and acknowledged.

Sincerely,
Kenneth Bagnell

Schreyer

January 1979
[redacted]

It is simply unbelievable that Mr. Schreyer would say at his investiture that to be a good Canadian, each of us (speaking of and to ethnics) must try to be true to his heritage of language and culture. I should say that a good Canadian puts his Canadian citizenship first and always, whether born or acquired, or no nation can exist or survive. He also said bilingualism and multiculturalism are a fact in Canada and cannot and should not be ignored. I beg to differ. Those two words and so called facts sprang up into our surprised faces only in the last ten years, so can hardly be considered so basic or historic. If a people speak one language and adhere to one culture, that is a unilingual and unicultural country, whatever their origins.

Canadian Comment

OTTAWA (SF) — This time last year all the capital's political pundits were saying there would be a federal election for sure during 1978. Well, now we are saying the same thing about 1979, but with considerably more certainty.

Trudeau could legally spin out his term of office until 1980, and that's an eyebrow lifting fact, but if he tried it, there might be something akin to revolution in Canada.

The law says Parliament [redacted] no later than five years after the writs were returned from the previous general election. The writs for the July 8, 1974, election were returned July 31, ergo Parliament must be dissolved July 31, 1979. The law, however, is silent about when an election must be held. It merely says that Parliament must sit at least [redacted].

The letter of the law could hence be met if Mr. Trudeau continued governing by cabinet only until the [redacted] summer of 1980 and then called an election in time for a new Parliament to meet in late fall or early winter of 1980.

He has promised he won't do that. He has promised that an election will be held before his five year term expires, and despite the fact that his record of promises - price and wage controls, for example - isn't simon pure, this time his word is [redacted].

Most likely time for election is May. That would mean the PM can hold his next federal-provincial constitutional conference in February and hopefully come up with enough of an issue to fight a [redacted].

There are prayers being offered up by the bushelfull from Mr. Trudeau's office and the Privy Council Office for a rapid improvement in the Canadian economy. It's not so much the economic health of the nation which is causing so much concern, as the effect on any election results that economic matters will have.

Unfortunately for the Liberals and for Canadians, things do not look very bright. We can expect continued inflation at about the same 8.8 percent rate, and consequently, quite a bit of labor unrest as unions strike to keep the buying power of members even with inflation. The record of increased corporate profits will add muscle to union demands, yet Canada must hold wages down if she is to recover her competitive position internationally.

No, 1979 does not promise to be a comforting year economically, but by this time in 1980 Canada should see the light ahead at the beginning of an upturn. Always providing we can stop the escalation of government spending at all levels and coordinate some sort of policy that will last for more than the few months it takes to run an election cam-[redacted]

Confronting your faith

With Pastor J. McKinstry of the Evangelical Church, Holden.

There is the story of a King, found in Isaiah chapter 7, who found himself in a very tight spot one time. From all directions the nations around his country were preparing to attack. They wanted some of his precious territory, indeed some wanted all of it because of its strategic location in relation to international commerce. It seemed that King Ahab stood alone, no immediate help was available. His was a small army outnumbered many times by superior forces, by no means a pleasant situation in which to be found. Yet, he was not alone for God was interested in the course of events. From God, through the prophet Isaiah came the words of comfort and reassurance:

"Keep calm and don't be afraid."

Soothing words no doubt, but of what practical value in this critical situation? It is very easy to say, "Trust in the Unseen God," in the face of the threatening, overwhelming Seen. King Ahab was not going for that kind of assistance. He wanted to put his faith in numbers - outnumbering the enemy forces with mercenaries. Chariots are more effective than confidence; troops rather than trust.

God was ready and willing to help him, and through Isaiah He was reaching out with His comfort and support. "Listen Ahab, what you so greatly fear, the impending invasions, will not take place, they will not happen. But it depends on you. King Ahab, you can direct the future, the outcome is in your hands. If you do not stand firm in your faith, you will not stand at all." And because Ahab chose not to stand firm in his faith in God both he and his country felt the sting of the invader's sword and spear.

On the other hand, Paul the Apostle found himself in just as serious and overwhelming a situation as did King Ahab. But in his case he chose to find his deliverance in God rather than in people. His defense was in the Unseen God who delivered him both from and in his oppressions. Listen to his testimony of the grace of God and His power to make him an overcomer: "We are hard pressed on every side, but not crushed, perplexed but not in despair; persecuted but not abandoned, struck down but not destroyed."

Whether it is the individual or the nation, God has given His promise of help. The number of opposing forces mean nothing to Him. Our trust and confidence in Him is the key to deliverance. This does not mean that God will always remove the pressure which is threatening to squash us. Paul retained the 'thorn' all through his life. Yet that did not prevent him from being the great evangelist of the Acts of the Apostles.

None of us is exempt from the pressures of daily living. They may take on an infinite variety of forms but [illegible] They are part [illegible] some of them [illegible] crush us to powder. We can compromise with them [illegible] Ahab [illegible] faith or fail. Paul encourages us to stand [illegible] we choose the position wher[illegible] selves.

Farming practices have changed

Farming practices in Alberta have changed significantly over the last quarter century according to Statistics Canada's census figures.

In 1976 the farm population in the province numbered 190,000 or about 10 per cent of Albertans. In 1951 the farm population was about 345,000, or almost 37 per cent.

As the number of people living on farms has declined, the size of farms has increased. From 1951 to 1976 the average number of acres occupied per farm rose from 527 to 817.

While census year figures are not entirely comparable due to the change in definition of a census farm, they do show a substantial drop in the number of smaller holdings.

Larger farm size has been accompanied by a sharp rise in mechanization. Over the past quarter century, the number of tractors per Alberta farm has doubled. In 1976 each farm had an average of two tractors.

Today's farmer also has much more capital tied up in machinery and equipment. The average farm in the province has almost $37,000 worth of equipment. It must be added here that many small farm operations are part of the "average." The average total capital value of Alberta farms in 1976 was about $340,000.

Today's average farmer also has more formal education than his father.

In 1961, just over one per cent of Alberta farm operators had attended university, while a further seven per cent had completed high school. Ten years later almost four per cent of farm operators had some university while another 12 per cent attended at least grade 12.

There has also been a significant increase in the number of farmers with vocational training. More and more farmers are enrolling in courses such as mechanics and accounting that offer a direct benefit to farm operations.

KIDS CAN LOVE VEGETABLES

Most kids are fussy eaters at some time, either at a young age or as a teenager. According to the experts, food crisis in teens is best avoided by developing "good taste" early in life. Since eating vegetables is a common complaint in many households, food consultants at Food Advisory Division, Agriculture Canada, have a few pointers for frustrated parents.

Canada's Food Guide recommends four to five servings of fruits and vegetables every day including at least two vegetables. It also suggests choosing a variety of vegetables - cooked, raw or their juices, and including yellow or green leafy vegetables. This may sound simple but can be most challenging at times!

Children like color in their meals. Bright-colored vegetables such as carrots, sweet potato, broccoli, squash, corn and tomatoes will perk up and meal. A variety in shape and texture is equally as important: carrot sticks, cubes, cubes, mashed. Mixing vegetables in the same dish can be interesting as well, offering a variety not only in color, shape and texture but also in flavor, for example, carrots and turnip, peas and cauliflower, turnip and potatoes where a mild-flavored vegetable is combined with a stronger-flavored one.

Some vegetables like cauliflower, broccoli and cabbage are eargerly accepted when served raw, even though these same foods are rejected when cooked. Serve them as bed-time-snack snacks (turnip sticks, cauliflowerets dipped in yogurt for example) or in salads (spinach, cabbage). It's a good deal to make small colorful salads a daily habit and to vary the salad dressing often.

It has been shown that children like canned vegetables as well as fresh and frozen. With such a variety of Canadian vegetables on the market, there shouldn't be any problem in serving a different vegetable every day of the week. However, when introducing a new vegetable, it's a good idea to serve it with a favorite food.

Children are turned off by large platefuls so offer small portions and let the little tot ask for seconds. Also, it is important to respect the size of a child's appetite. An average serving of a cooked vegetable is two to four tablespoons, a raw vegetable one small sticks or ¼ cup. The size of a serving of food for a young child can roughly correspond to the child's age in tablespoons.

Food is fun too! Give a child the pleasure of taking part in preparing the food that will be at the table. It's a learning experience to enjoy potatoes that are baked or broiled, then mashed. The following recipe for "Potato Cheese Balls" could be just the thing to share with Mom and Dad before sitting down at a relaxed meal.

POTATO CHEESE BALLS

125 mL grated cheddar cheese
2 mL salt
0.5 mL pepper
500 mL mashed potatoes
1 egg
15 mL milk
75 mL dry bread crumbs.

Grate cheese on piece of waxed paper. Mix cheese, salt, and pepper with potatoes in a bowl. Shape potato mixture in 3 cm balls. Crack egg into bowl and beat gently with a fork. Mix the beaten egg and milk together. Dip the potato balls in the egg and milk mixture, then roll in crumbs. Place balls on greased cookie sheet. Bake at 220 degrees C. until browned (10 to 15 mins.) Makes about 20 balls.

Ryley news

by Norma Wood

On Sunday, Ryley Legion will be hosting the Legion Zone Curling playdowns. There will be five rinks competing from Tofield, Ryley, and Kingman.

Last Friday night, thirty-five young people, their pastor, Rev. Potts, and guest, Rev. Dodd, from the Ryley Side Church of Nazarene were visitors at the Clarence Madsen farm.

Visitors this past weekend at the home of Elmer and Kathryne Anderson were their children, Lawrence and Anne of Calgary.

Guests at a recent Lions meeting in Ryley were District Governor Murray Corbin from Leander, the Zone Chairman, the Deputy District Governor, and members from the Cooking Lake Lions Club.

Last weekend, Mr and Mrs. Ring Dyer, Mr. and Mrs. Al Martin, and Mr. and Mrs. Bob Brahm travelled to Red Deer to attend the Lions Multiple District Convention. It was the largest mid-winter conference ever held in Multiple District 37 International Lions President Mr Lyman, addressed the conference, and from all reports, the weekend was very enjoyable.

The Lorne Booth's and the Bob Smiths have now returned from their vacation in California, and Mr and Mrs. Fred Lyons are home from Hawaii.

Lindsay Taylor is in the Vegreville Hospital and Randy Penn is in the Tofield Hospital recovering from pneumonia.

Bradley Johnson had a very exciting experience when he went flying Sunday with Charlie Sears. They flew to Vegreville, over Miquelon Lake, then over Bradley's home.

Mr and Mrs. Douglas Hatch and family, Sally Visser and Ben Macleod, all of Calgary, spent the weekend at the home of Barbara and Bradley Johnson.

by Ben Fredericks

Board members of the Agricultural Society met for their regular monthly meeting last Tuesday. A decision was made to hold an Easter Bunny bingo on Friday, April 6. There will also be a Mini-Bonanza and coffee will be served by the girls from the Bruce 4-H Club.

Winners of the last Senior Citizens' whist drive were Lillian and Dan Teske, and consolation prizes went to Ruth Dreyer and Ernie Dorin.

The Bruce Busy Bees will be holding their annual public speaking competition at the Community Centre on Thursday, February 8. The public is welcome to come and listen.

Volunteer firemen are reminded that meetings are held the second Monday of each month at the grader shed.

Students take special course

Two grade eleven students are currently involved in the special projects program offered by Holden School.

Valerie Steinwand works with Miss Lawson's grade two class while Marie Chrystian aids Mrs. Hallett's Junior Opportunity Room.

The three credit course requires a minimum of 75 hours of class time assisting the teachers who supervise the course.

This involves helping the children who have difficulties in reading and word recognition. It requires a great deal of patience and understanding yet, it is a rewarding experience.

During the past semester, twenty-five grade eight students from Ryley Junior High School have been studying taxidermy.

The study of taxidermy is part of a "natural history" course which was conducted by their teacher, Pat Nolan. Mr Nolan learned the art from textbooks.

Each student selected a specimen, with some choosing fish while others selected birds.

Mr. Nolan suggested he was delighted with the results produced by the students, and the students themselves were also pleased.

At the present time, the students are working on various projects to be entered in the Beaver Science Fair which will be held in Ryley on March 5th.

Each student, or pair of students, will be doing display type research projects for the Science Fair.

Projects from all over the County of Beaver are expected to be on display during the Fair.

Pictures shown show the different stages of taxidermy

New Grant Program For Agricultural Societies

I am pleased with the new grant program for agricultural societies, this is intended to help the societies cover their operating expenses. It became effective January 1, 1979.

Under it all Class C and D agricultural societies in the province will receive grants equal to 50 per cent of their utility and insurance costs to a maximum of $1,000 a year.

To be eligible for these grants, agricultural societies must actually operate the facilities for which expenses are being incurred, and they must keep monthly records and annual copies of financial statements for the fifth calendar year must be submitted to the Agricultural Societies Branch between January 1, 1980 and February 15, 1980.

Utility costs include the monthly charges for water and sewer; fuel oil, propane, natural gas and electricity. They do not include capital installation costs or such charges as the frontage tax for water and sewer.

All insurance costs are eligible for the grant.

Grants will not be provided to cover expenses that are covered by an operational grant from Alberta Recreation, Parks and Wildlife. However, I feel that the grants should be extended to other recreation complexes as well and will so indicate in the Legislature.

Tofield

In continuation of my regular pre-sessional visits I visited many parts of the Tofield area. The most fascinating stop was at the Thoroughbred Rehabilitation Centre in Tofield. Their centre is one of the most modern establishments in Alberta and is certainly an addition to the racing industry.

I had lunch with the Senior Citizens and wish to thank them for their hospitality.

Attending Swim-A-Thon

The "Tin Dog" limited my skating to that of being a mere spectator. The turn out was excellent and the society should show an income in the neighborhood of $3,000.00.

A.C. Minsky

Monday night was hockey night in the commercial league and the K of C's were kind enough to only edge us by the score of 3-0. The game was fun regardless of the final score. Phil Gaumont will probably be goalie until he gets his pension cheque as he doesn't show any sign of slowing down.

Women and Lions

Wednesday night was meeting night and both meetings coincided so I caught a bit of both. After the Kinsmen meeting we entertained Mr. Ellen and Pat Kinsmen in a friendly hockey game. All I'll say about the game is that they're always good fellowship.

Any problems, concerns or suggestions please call or write.

Vision House is open

by Grace Phillips

With Don Litwin as chairman, Larry Foshaug as official photographer and Dr. Freebury as the cutter of the ceremonial ribbon, the historic occasion of the opening of Vision House in Tofield, took place last Thursday, Feb 1st.

Mr Litwin welcomed the hundred guests who filled the meeting room of Vision House, and asked Mrs Ingrid Simonson to conduct the devotional period.

Mrs. Simonson read the Scripture verses she had chosen as being appropriate to the occasion "Where there is no vision, the people perish," "Except the Lord build the house, they labor in vain who build it," and the "love chapter" from First Corinthians. A prayer of thanks followed for the Divine guidance which had led to the building of Vision House.

Accompanied by Mrs. Thelma Erickson, a trio made up of Mrs. Evelyn Foshaug, Mrs Pat Litwin, and Mrs Gladys Severson sang "To Glorify Thee."

Mrs Martha Dueck gave a brief, interesting account of the events leading up to the successful completion of Vision House She mentioned the group of seven women from several churches who, meeting as a prayer group, had responded to the challenge of establishing a Tofield outlet for Christian literature and who, after a "holy huddle" had rented space in the Listan Building, opening the first "That Place" on October 12, 1972 Mrs Dueck paid tribute to the seven "originals", to Ron and Joan Collins for their accounting services, to Diane Reil for her ability, energy and competence in managing "That Place"; to the husbands who had an ably and willingly supported their wives' efforts

Dave Schmidt, speaking for the building committee which, in addition to himself, consisted of Glen Reil, Don Litwin, and Dick Thiessen, reported on the construction of the 30' x 80' building begun last spring and built by Wiens Homes.

Mrs Collins' treasurer's report showed that $53,388.93 had been donated of which $47,000.00 came from individuals, $2500.00 had been raised by the Food Services of "That Place" under the management of Mrs M Funk and Mrs M Stutzman. Wems Holdings had been paid $78,000.00, land costs were $10,000.00, all bills were paid and a $40,000.00 mortgage was held by the Bank of Montreal

Miss Freda Ragehr, past-president of the Vision Society, a missionary in Korea for eight years and a teacher in Alberta for seven years, brought warm congratulations on the successful completion of Vision House The members of the Vision Society, she felt, were Christian witnesses in the community who had accepted the challenge of urging others to come to God

Mr Reimer of the Canadian Bible Society complimented the efforts and achievements of the Vision Society, especially those original members who had "ignited the spark and kindled the flame" in the lighthouse of Tofield.

Prayers of dedication were offered by Jake Dueck, Mrs Diane Reil and Rev John Schmidt of the Tofield Gospel Church They gave thanks for the leadership given by dedicated members, for Divine guidance, for the evident ability "not only to dream, but also to do" They dedicated Vision House to the service of God and the community

Dr W H Freebury, mayor of Tofield, expressed his pleasure in participating in the opening of the fine new building, and congratulated the Vision Society on caring for both the physical and spiritual needs of the community

With Mrs Elsie Thomson, Mrs. Marge Funk and Mrs Diane Reil assisting, Dr Freebury then cut the ceremonial ribbon and declared Vision House officially open

Don Litwin then called on Erwin Wiens of Wiens Holdings contractors for the building, to speak

Mr Wiens spoke of the honor of being asked to share in making a dream come true, of the friendly relations between the building committee and the contractors of the difficulties surmounted with the aid of Divine guidance, and the pleasure of presenting the keys of Vision House to Mrs Diane Reil

Accepting the keys on behalf of the Vision Society, Mrs Reil thanked Mr. Wiens for his firm's successful completion of the project

Dr Walter Buck, M.L.A. for Clover Bar, expressed his pleasure at being asked to be present at the opening of Vision House, and extended his congratulations on the completion of the successful venture He spoke of his attendance at the Camrose Lutheran College which had led him to join the church. He closed by saying that Christian men have a decisive role in politics

Following the program which opened with the singing of "To God Be The Glory", lunch and a social hour were enjoyed.

On Friday, "That Place" on its first official day of business in its new location was a very busy store.

Free coffee and cupcakes were served, the door prize, a large framed picture, was won by Mrs. Janine Scott.

Opening
Dr. W. H. Freebury, mayor of Tofield, cut a ribbon last Thursday night and officially opened Vision House. Looking on in delight are Mrs. Diane Reil and Mrs. Marg Funk.

Tofield wins junior girls hoop playdowns

Saturday saw Tofield host the County of Beaver Junior High School basketball championships

The Tofield Girls, coached by Mr. Wahlstrom, proved that the regular season play was no real indication of the strength of the team. During the year the girls compiled a 2-4 win-loss record.

At the championships, the Tofield girls took charge to defeat Viking 14-3. Then they advanced against Ryley who had outpointed Holden previously 13-4.

In the championship round, Tofield built up an early lead and then hung on to edge the Ryley girls 17-16.

Mr. Wahlstrom is not only pleased with the performance of his girls, but also with the promise they hold for the future. Only 4 of the 13 girls will be gone next year, and if the performance of this year's Grade 7's and 8's is any indication of what is to be expected next year, then the Tofield girls might just do it again!

Members of this year's squad championship team are Rose Siemens, Kim Herklotz, Francie Wiens, Rosie Weins, Sandra Shewchuck, Yetta Jensen, Carol Kallal, Kim Brodie, Connie Kope, Denise Telford, Roxanne Riches, and Anita Kogelstadt.

The Junior High boys, coached by Barry Martini, did

Walker resigns

Colleen Walker has resigned her position with the County of Beaver Regional Recreation and Parks Department.

Miss Walker had held the position of program supervisor and has tendered her resignation which becomes effective on March 7th.

The program supervisor's resignation was accepted at a recent meeting of the Beaver Regional Recreation Board, who turned the problem of obtaining a replacement over to the management committee

Clay Schnaus attended the Board's meeting on behalf of the Beaver Regional Arts Society and gave Board members information on a number of points.

Entries in the annual arts and music festival will not have to pay fees in the future, according to Mr Schnaus. The move was taken in an effort to attract more participants.

This year's festival will be held in the auditorium at Viking School, because of its size, as it can hold 200 people

Mr Schnaus also urged members of the public to attend regular meetings of the society

Following a report submitted by Keith Walls on behalf of the Theatre Centre committee, Board members adopted present rental rates on a trial basis, and decided that a qualified member should be in attendance when outside groups rent the facility.

Colleen Walker was authorized to buy a team banner and t-shirts for Beaver athletes competing in the North Eastern Alberta Winter Games

Reports submitted by Miss Walker and Administrator George Baker were accepted.

Minutes of a Board meeting held on January 3rd were approved

Information for this new story was obtained from the unapproved minutes of a Board meeting held on January 31st

Beaver ideal for university

The County of Beaver would be an ideal permanent home for Athabasca University, according to Tory candidate, Butch Thomlinson

Mr Thomlinson told The Mercury, that if he was elected as Clover Bar's MLA in the forthcoming provincial election (when it is called) he would support any move to have the university established in this riding

Mr Thomlinson made his announcement following receipt of a letter by Education Minister Bert Hohol, from Dr W H Freebury, mayor of Tofield.

In his letter Dr Freebury asked that the Minister of Education consider Tofield as a site for the permanent home of the university

According to Mr Thomlinson, the riding of Clover Bar would be an ideal location for the university because of its close proximity to Edmonton

Some years ago Alberta established a Crimes Compensation Board, whose purpose is to help victims of violent crimes who suffer financial loss as a result of their injuries. From time to time the board issues news reports dealing with its activities, and the awards it has made.

On the face of it, the concept is probably highly humanitarian, recognizing the need for financial assistance at a time when the victim may be most in need of it, but we have often wondered how they reach the decisions made. For that matter, we've often wondered just how great are the funds which the board can distribute.

One recent case involved a painter who was assaulted on Jasper Avenue in Edmonton near 108 Street at the hands of three men, and after suffering a fractured finger, facial cuts and concussion, was unable to work for fifteen weeks.

After reviewing the lost wages and expenses incurred, the board notes that it awarded him $1,118. At first glance, it seems like a fairly large sum. But even if nothing at all were allowed for expenses, the award would amount to only $74 weekly, and that doesn't go very far these days. Unless some recognition was made of his having earned a fairly substantial level of pay beforehand, so that he might be expected to handle most of his own

One other problem we notice is that no mention is ever made as to whether or not any of this money is ever recovered from the thugs who commit these crimes. Obviously many of them are never brought to trial, or even identified, but it might be nice sometimes to correlate the penalty with the injury and the award.

Computer error

We were concerned last week that Ottawa could hardly keep up with the projects it was funding under Canada Works, because a press report came in, not once but twice, detailing a number of projects in the Camrose region, which we later found had already been completed a year or two ago.

We're relieved this week, however, to find they still know what's going on. The problem was simply a computer that listed complete works of the Phase I and Phase II programs, as well as the current Phase III operation. So Ottawa does know what's going on. It's simply that computers make mistakes, and only rarely does anyone have the temerity to question what the computer comes out with.

So, according to the Phase III report, we can still look for extra hours of employment and creativity in the fields of the Bethany Nursing Home, the Alliance and District improvement program, a recreation arena, park and lake project at Bashaw, the sheltered workshop project in Camrose, and a project at Galahad undertaken by the Lions.

Canadian Comment

OTTAWA — Tory MP Mike Forrestall wants Canada to close shipping in the Canadian Arctic to all foreign vessels. Forrestall certainly has some local interest in proposing such a move because he represents the riding of Dartmouth - Halifax, and an Arctic ban on foreign shipping would mean jobs for hundreds of Forrestall

The fact is that increased activity in the Canadian Arctic north of the 60th parallel has resulted in an increase of almost 400 percent in the amount of foreign shipping operating in the Canadian Arctic during the brief re-supply

Canadians simply don't have the ships built to take even loose Arctic ice. As a result we are using ships built in Denmark, Great Britain, Sweden, Finland, Greece and Norway to carry Canadian cargoes to Canadian northern ports. Foreign ships, foreign crews, foreign benefit.

We are losing not only the jobs involved in crewing such vessels, but also the jobs involved in designing and building the ships themselves. We are also losing the expertise needed to operate vessels in the lumpy waters of the Arctic.

During the past two decades pretty large claims - pollution control zones in the far north, maritime jurisdiction extended to 200 miles. It's all been talk. Our Maritime forces have been going steadily downhill, apparently by government design, and our cargo-carrying fleet is virtually non-existent. For a nation which depends so heavily on maritime trade for prosperity, that's shocking. We have now reached a state where Canadians are not in a position to take advantage of a development boom in our own waters - the Canadian Arctic. Forrestall says the Canadian position is "ludicrous" because of government "lip-service," and he demands that we do something to enable a greater Canadian share of Arctic development. Trouble is that the current federal government has no concept of the importance of things maritime to Canada's future. That fact is demonstrated by the attitude displayed towards both military and civilian maritime capability of

We need an increased awareness of the importance of marine development as never before, because the next decade will see mushrooming activity not only in the Arctic, but in the exploitation of seabed mineral resources. Let's not miss the boat.

Beef not the villain

Member of Parliament Arnold Malone has issued a statement of rebuttal respecting the opinion of at least one federal cabinet minister who has advocated an increase in the importation of off-shore beef. Consumer Affairs Minister Warren Allmand has said in recent speeches that he favors an increase in the beef quotas from the present 150 million pounds annually to 250 million pounds.

Consumer groups have also been harsh on the beef industry. Many consumer groups single out the recent improved beef prices as the unjustifiable villain causing the upward pressure on all food prices.

Mr. Malone claims Statistics Canada data negates the above positions. He points out Statistics Canada has revealed the following information:

Since 1971 - per capita disposable income is up 139 per cent;

Poultry prices are up - 130 per cent;

Pork prices are up - 144 per cent;

Fish prices are up - 155 per cent;

Average of all food prices are up - 117 per cent;

Beef prices are up - 113 per cent.

"The simple fact is that beef prices have increased less than our average disposable income, less than other meats and less than the average of all food prices."

Statistics Canada further points out that beef prices have declined 3.3 per cent in the four month period from August to November 1978 while the prices of fish, pork, and poultry have increased in the same time period 2.6 per cent, 6.8 per cent, and 9.4 per cent respectively.

Moreover, international companies have revealed that the Canadian consumer can buy beef cheaper than Japan, England, Australia, Germany and even the United States. A pound of boneless sirloin steak can be purchased in Canada for an average of $2.50 per pound, in the United States the price is marginally higher at $2.56 per pound and in Japan it is a whopping $16.61 per pound.

Mr. Malone claims the arguments suggesting unjustified beef prices are based on false data, although inadequate comparisons and are made by persons who fail to comprehend the nature of the beef cycle.

European tour planned by CLC Concert Choir

Planning is underway for the Camrose Lutheran College Concert Choir to tour Europe

The 24-day tour would take the choir through the Scandinavian countries and Germany, with possible side trips into France and Switzerland.

One highlight of the trip will be the Oberammergau Passion Play, staged once in every decade since the sixteenth century. The story of Christ's passion and death is enacted in music, with the people of this Bavarian town serving as actors, musicians, and stage hands, as well as hosts to the 30,000 visitors who see the play each week.

The choir tour will conclude with a visit to Augsburg, Germany, site of an international convention of Lutheran dignitaries in honor of the 400th anniversary of the Book of Concord. The book, a collection of the basic confessions of the Lutheran Church, was published in Augsburg on June 25, 1580.

The director of the Concert Choir, Jonathan Mohr, expects to take a sixty-voice choir on the European tour, and hopes that young choral singers from all over Alberta will audition for choir membership next fall. "In addition to the educational aspects of such a tour, we hope to be musical amassadors for Canada," Mohr says. "We plan to include a major Canadian choral work on the concert program, as well as some Canadian folk songs."

Rev. Jim Rasmussen is in charge of planning for the tour. A companion tour is also in the early planning stages.

SURVIVAL OF WINTER CEREALS

A longstanding problem for farmers of the central prairie area, winterkill of winter cereal crops, may be near a solution.

An Agriculture Canada plant pathologist at the department's research station at Lacombe, Alta. has found that climate is not directly responsible for the failure of fall seeded crops. The scientist found that a fungus pathogen that thrives at low temperatures is responsible for the death of these cereals during the winter.

The scientist's work is centered now on identifying varieties of cereals that are resistant to the pathogen. Some chemicals are also being tested to determine their effectiveness in controlling the disease.

not experience the same success as the girls. The key accomplishment of this past season was that the players all received plenty of court time, (allowing them) to acquire experience and to achieve the goals they set for themselves. This year's group will provide next year's team with five Grade 7 boys who now have some valuable experience.

At the championships, the Ryley boys defeated Tofield 25-10, and then went on to lose a squeaker to Hastings 21-19.

The cheerleaders, under the direction of Mrs. Dobbie and Angela, put up a spirited and entertaining defence for the home teams.

The High School boys' basketball team is having a fairly successful season so far.

They are undefeated in league play and are doing fairly well in exhibition play. The boys played in an exhibition tournament on Feb. 2 and 3 in Vermilion. Here, they lost a squeaker to Grand Center on the game on Friday night and then came short against Lloydminster on Saturday. Barry Reinhart won a shoot-out contest at the tournament and Robert Marshall was named to the all-star team.

Upcoming events, on Saturday, the boys' and the girls' high school teams head to Holden for the county tournament.

On February 16 and 17 the boys' team are entered in the tournament in Wetaskiwin.

The High School girls have had an up and down season. They are 1-3 in league play, losing two real squeakers.

In exhibition play in Vermilion, they lost on Friday night to Grand Center 46-36. On Saturday morning, they came back to defeat St. Paul 40-8, which put them in the finals of the consolation round. In the finals, they gave the boys to Lloydminster 32-20 in a game that was in doubt to the last second.

Ottawa gets mail

The information services branch of Agriculture Canada in Ottawa receives about 1,000 letters and cards each working day. By the end of the final working day of 1978 the branch will have sent more than 200,000 replies to inquiries from Canada and around the world.

Out of this large volume of mail the occasional unusual letter is received. For instance a professor in Argentina worte for information on dentures for cows -- a problem rarely encountered in Canada. One foreign student wanted lovely books and photos, but he neglected to say of what. And another letter, from the United States, brought a smile when the writer asked for publication K1A 0C7, which is the information services' postal code.

MAKE A SPECIAL OCCASION OF VALENTINES' DAY

Thank goodness for St Valentines' Day in February. It helps to bring a special romantic aura to what could otherwise be a cold and blustering February day.

General Foods Kitchens suggest you make this a special day, with a special cake. The Chocolate Cherry Pudding Cake is a simple version of a Black Forest Torte. If you've got heart shape pans, use them.

Chocolate Cherry Pudding Cake

1 pkg. (4-serving size) chocolate Instant Pudding
1 pkg (2-layer size) chocolate cake mix
4 eggs
1 cup water
¼ cup salad oil
1 can (14 ounce) dark pitted cherries
1 envelope Dessert Topping Mix
¼ cup milk

Blend pudding mix, cake mix, eggs, water and oil in large mixer bowl. Then beat 2 minutes at medium speed. Pour into two greased and floured 9-inch layer cake pans. Bake at 350 degree F for 30 minutes or until cake tester inserted into centre comes out clean and top springs back when lightly pressed. Cool in pans 10 minutes. Remove from pans and finish cooling on racks.

Drain cherries reserving ¼ cup syrup. Prepare dessert topping mix with reserved syrup and milk as directed on package. Arrange one cake layer on serving plate and top with half the prepared topping and repeat with second layer. Arrange cherries on top of cake.

Substitute your favorite chocolate cake recipe if you don't want to use a mix.

EROSION PROBLEMS FOR BLACK SOILS

Very few people like wind and even fewer like blowing dust. However there is nothing we can do about it once soil starts to blow, the only thing that will stop wind erosion is rainfall, a drop in the wind, or in some cases, working the soil to bring lumpy material to the surface.

But instead of attempting to cure this problem it is more beneficial to the farmer to attempt to prevent the occurance of wind and water erosion. Thus the farmer should examine their farming techniques carefully and consider these questions:

1. Does the cropping program allow soil organic matter to remain at a sufficiently high level to protect the soil from erosion either by wind or water?

2. Is the straw being burned rather than being worked back into the soil?

Is it being partially used for feed or bedding?

3. Is land worked to such a condition in the fall that there is little or no trash or lumpy material on the surface to hold the snow or protect against erosion?

4. Are too many crops which add little to the soils organic matter being grown (rapeseed for example)?

5. Should more forage crops (like sweet clover) be grown to permit a build up of organic matter that protects soil from erosion and improve subsequent productivity?

As is stated by Dr Stan Beacom, Director of Agriculture, Canada's research station at Melfort, Saskatchewan, it is time all of us who manage productive agricultural land realized the responsibilities we have to maintain this precious natural resource in a highly productive state. Coming generations will need it to sustain their standard of living at a level similar to ours and continue to provide food at a reasonable cost to a hungry world. Beacon then concludes that the technology is available to prevent soil erosion so let us use it now before it is too late.

Feedlot Tour - February 19, 20, 21, 1979. Touring feedlots in the Red Deer area. This will be useful to producers who intend in finishing cattle, have feedlots or interested in feedlot operation. This is an opportunity to observe and discuss various methods used by feedlot operators and discuss markets and market predictions. If you're interested, we invite you to register with us by phoning our office in Ryley to reserve space for you.

A legacy of Canadian knowledge for the people of Alberta.

The great natural resources of our Province will not last forever. They are a gift from the land which must be returned as an inheritance to the greatest long-term resource we have . . . the People of Alberta.

The Alberta Heritage Learning Resources Project is a legacy of knowledge about our Province and Country for young and old alike to be passed on to future generations.

The Government of Alberta provided $8.3 million from the Alberta Heritage Savings Trust Fund to create the Alberta Heritage Learning Resources Project.

This ambitious learning resources project, directed by Alberta Education, includes Alberta Heritage Books for Young Readers. A specially written series of 12 high-quality reference books about the history, geography and natural environment of Alberta and Canada for Grades 4, 5 and 6.

Western Canadian Literature for Youth. This ten-volume series of selected literary works about Western Canada is for Grades 7 through 12. Three hundred and forty-nine western Canadian authors are represented in these anthologies. Two additional volumes will be in Ukrainian and French.

Alberta Literature for Senior Students and Adults. This is a classic thirty-volume library collection of already-published books. It includes such famous Canadian authors and historians as James Gray, Grant MacEwan, James MacGregor, Andy Russell, Maria Campbell and Hugh Dempsey.

The Canadian Content Social Studies Kits (KanataKits). The sixteen multi-media resource kits are for all grades. They are being developed through the cooperation of teachers and school boards across the Province.

Junior Atlas and Relief Model of Alberta. The atlas, for Grades 4, 5 and 6, is the first of its kind for young children to focus on a region. The 4' x 8' relief model will be distributed to all schools and selected public buildings.

Phase I of the Alberta Heritage Learning Resources Project is a kit of no fewer than 620 colour slides, 24 full-colour study prints, teachers' guides, and six 15-minute films about the flora and fauna of Alberta.

The Alberta Heritage Learning Resources Project Material will be provided free of charge to all schools and selected institutions in the Province of Alberta.

Pre-Sessional Fears

It has been my continuous practice to tour the constituency before the spring sitting of the legislature. Last week I toured the Lamont, Tofield, Bruderheim, Cooking Lake and Ardrossan areas. This gives me a chance to exchange ideas with the people and to hear their views.

Volunteer Tour

Last Friday, I toured a large plant at Redwater to meet and visit with labor and management "on the job". Many worthwhile topics were discussed.

Legislature Primacy

On Thursday I visited with a primary class in Ardrossan and delivered some material to be used in an exchange with Ardrossan in Australia. At the same time I had a short visit with Terry Gunderson, the principal and member of his staff at the High School.

Contempt 1000

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. George Geiringers on the celebration of their 50th anniversary.

I was privileged to attend and bring greetings on behalf of the Premier, Lieut. Governor and the Legislature.

"That Place"

The night I attended the opening of Tofield Vision House and "That Place" Coffee House.

This is an interdenominational church group that had provided Tofield and area residents with an excellent new facility. It is across the street from the newly opened 100th branch of the Treasury Branch of Alberta and is worth dropping in for a visit.

Sherwood Park Kinsmen were good hosts on Thursday night and gave us a badly needed win. The fellowship is really what is most important but, it is a good feeling to win the odd hockey game.

Bruce Badminton and Ryley Family Badminton

Because of the very low attendance at badminton in Bruce, we have had to find it necessary to cancel this activity. We will be trying this again next fall and we hope interest will be re-vitalized during the spring and summer.

As you recall, this winter we decided to plan a second night for badminton in Ryley because of very crowded conditions Thursday evenings. This has not worked so well. Attendance has been low on Tuesday evenings so after trying for three weeks, Ryley family badminton Tuesday evenings has been cancelled.

Badminton will still be played in Ryley Thursday evenings, 8.00 - 10.00 p.m. until spring.

Crunch is coming for hockey league

The crunch is coming for teams in the Beaverhill Hockey League with slightly more than two weeks remaining in the regular schedule.

There is a three-way fight for first place and a two-way battle for the fourth and final playoff berth with both teams still having a chance to shoot for top spot.

Waskatenau, Holden and Smoky Lake have now been eliminated from any contention for the top three places but, still have a chance of earning playoff berths.

Mundare currently holds a one-point edge over Andrew and Tofield in the fight for top spot and has a game in hand on both teams.

In the race for fourth place, Lamont's lead over Ryley has been reduced to only two points and Ryley has two games in hand on Lamont.

Waskatenau currently is five points behind Ryley and leads Holden by an identical margin with Holden having a slim one-point lead over Smoky Lake.

Tonight's (Thursday) games will see Ryley host Andrew in Tofield while Tofield travels to Mundare.

Saturday night's contests will have Tofield playing in Andrew while Holden is in Smoky Lake.

Games next Tuesday night will see Ryley host Waskatenau in Tofield. Tofield will be playing in Smoky Lake.

One week from tonight (Thursday), Ryley hosts Lamont in Tofield while Holden will be hosting Mundare.

Beginning next week, The Mercury will delay writing a story on league play so that Tuesday night results may be included.

Standings (unofficial), not including Tuesday night's games, are as follows.

	W	L	T	GF	GA	Pts
Mundare	15	4	1	174	62	31
Andrew	15	6	0	177	101	30
Tofield	14	5	2	105	86	30
Lamont	9	9	3	102	122	21
Ryley	9	9	1	82	106	19
Waskat.	6	12	2	87	108	14
Holden	4	16	1	85	169	9
Smoky L.	4	16	0	84	126	8

A game scheduled for last Thursday (Feb. 1st) night between Ryley and Smoky Lake was not reported to CFCW. There was no information available as to whether or not the game was played or postponed.

It was a 50-50 week for top place Mundare. They bounced Lamont 7-1, were stopped 9-5 by Andrew and then held to a 5-5 draw by Ryley.

Andrew had a split in its other two outings when they were upset 9-6 by Ryley and bounced back to stop Holden 7-2.

Tofield picked up two wins to grab its share of second place after they whipped Smoky Lake 6-2 and defeated Holden 7-3.

In the other game played, Lamont trounced Smoky Lake 9-1.

Snow soccer?

Something as pretty as the combined efforts of a snowfall and a bit of wind didn't keep these grade eight students at Tofield School from challenging nature by playing soccer outdoors. They paused briefly from their lively activities to stand for a picture. —Tofield School Photo

Obituary

MRS. JENNY REITAN

Mrs. Jenny Reitan of Ryley passed away in Edmonton on January 20, 1979 at the age of 84 years. Mrs. Reitan had lived in the Tofield and Ryley districts for many years. She is survived by 1 son Arnold of Red Deer; 2 sisters and 2 brothers in Norway. She will be missed by her many friends in the local area. Funeral services were held on Friday, January 26, 1979 at the Ryley Lutheran Church with Rev. Gary Barr officiating. Interment followed in the Tofield Cemetery.

Pallbearers were Bert Kirkeland, Art Auch, Hjalmer Johannsen, Verner Jensen, Gerald Weder and Don Campbell. Hoveland Funeral Chapel Ltd. of Camrose in charge of all arrangements.

CARD OF THANKS

The Family of the late Mrs. Jenny Reitan wish to convey thanks to all who so freely gave of themselves at this time. Such kindness shall never be forgotten. Special thanks to Rev. Gary Barr, the pallbearers and the ladies who prepared and served the lunch.

Thomlinson is P.C. candidate

The Progressive Conservative candidate for the provincial riding of Clover Bar is a 37-year-old Fort Saskatchewan businessman.

C. G. Butch Thomlinson, a life-long resident of the Clover Bar riding is a married man with three children.

He owns and operates a clothing business in the Fort which he purchased from his parents.

Mr. Thomlinson says he has been close friends with the sitting member for the riding, Dr. Walter Buck, for many years and his decision to seed the PC nomination to run against Buck was a difficult one, considering this friendship.

"However," said Mr. Thomlinson recently, "I am concerned that this riding receive representation from within government. Opposition members are fine, but they rarely get very much for their ridings.

"I am convinced that as a Progressive Conservative MLA working within the framework of government, I can get from government many things desperately needed in the riding which an opposition member could not get. After all, an MLA elected on a Progressive Conservative ticket would certainly have the ear of the premier and cabinet, whereas an opposition member does not.

"I have been meeting with people in Tofield and area in recent weeks and will be holding more meetings in the future to discuss local problems.

"I am impressed with the drive people have in this corner of the Clover Bar riding and certainly look forward to working with Tofield and district people in the future," Mr. Thomlinson said.

Fiber Flax industry is underway

Work is now underway to test the feasibility of setting up a fiber flax industry on the Prairies.

The three-year project will be carried out by the Flax Growers of Western Canada -- a non-profit producer group. Agriculture Canada's New Crop Development Fund is contributing $47,600 to the project while the provincial governments of Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba will contribute another $47,600.

CHIN, JERRY
8034 - 52 Ave, Ryley
YOU ARE A WINNER

This is not the first attempt to develop a fiber flax industry on the Prairies. Research was started in the 1940's to investigate the possibility of growing fiber flax. The work was halted in the 1950's when synthetic fibers began to replace natural fibers in fabric.

However, the market situation for fabrics has changed drastically over the last few years. The rising price of petroleum has meant that synthetic fabrics are no longer inexpensive. New varieties of fiber flax and new manufacturing techniques have also increased the use of natural-synthetic blends.

Canada currently does not produce any fiber crop. A fiber flax industry could reduce our reliance of imports. It could also lead to a substantial export market if the world demand for linen fiber increases as expected.

According to a 1977 study conducted by the United States Department of Agriculture, the U.S. imports five million pounds of linen fiber a year to meet domestic demand. It is hoped Canada could capture part of this market.

Based on the European experience a growing Fiber Flax... gross returns to farmers in the range of $50 per acre are realistic.

The New Crop Development project will look at the adaptability of fiber flax in western Canada.

Three test sites have been set up in Alberta and another three on each of the other two Prairie Provinces. Crop scientists from universities and research stations as well as farmers will take part in the project.

Selected samples of flax grown at the test sites will be collected in the next three years and sent to Belgium for fiber evaluation. At present, Canada does not have the necessary equipment for such tests.

Holden, Smoky Lake face elimination from playoffs

The line has been drawn for Holden and Smoky Lake in the Beaverhill Hockey League if either team wants a playoff berth.

With the regular schedule rapidly drawing to a close, neither team can afford even one loss if they want any chance at making the playoffs. In any event, any combination of losses by either team, or wins by Lamont and Ryley, would effectively oust Holden and Smoky Lake.

Waskatenau still has a shot at a playoff berth, but the road is getting tougher all the time as they trail Ryley by four points and Lamont by six points and they must finish ahead of both teams.

Actually, the fight for the fourth and final playoff berth looks to be between Lamont and Ryley.

Lamont currently leads Ryley by only two points with Ryley holding three games in hand over Lamont.

Although Ryley is fighting for a playoff berth, they still haven't been ousted from the fight for top spot while the best that Lamont could hope for is a second place showing.

The other real battle is for first place with only two points separating the top three teams.

Mundare leads both Andrew and Tofield by two points. However, Mundare has a game in hand on Andrew and two games in hand over Tofield.

One of the problems experienced by the news media in publishing unofficial standings is that all game results are not being reported to CP/CW.

Games missing to date, either played and not reported, or postponed are: Ryley at Smoky Lake (Dec. 13), Ryley at Lamont (Dec. 28), Ryley at Smoky Lake (Feb. 1), Mundare at Smoky Lake (Feb. 6), and Tofield at Andrew (Feb. 10).

Postponed games that are still to be played include Mundare at Tofield, Holden at Smoky Lake, and Waskatenau at Mundare. CP/CW was not notified as to when these games will be played.

CP/CW and The Mercury are requesting league officials to contact Dale Smith at CP/CW with results and postponed games' playing dates.

Tuesday night games to have been played included Waskatenau at Ryley, Tofield at Smoky Lake, and Lamont at Andrew.

Games tonight (Thursday) will see Ryley host Lamont in Tofield while Holden is hosting Mundare.

On Saturday night, Holden is hosting Ryley while Tofield will be host to the Waskatenau team.

Tuesday night's contest will see Ryley play in Tofield while Holden travels to Waskatenau.

Games one week from tonight (Thursday) will have Ryley playing in Mundare & Holden traveling to Lamont.

The regular schedule is supposed to end on February 24th.

Two games scheduled for Saturday night were postponed. They included Holden at Smoky Lake and Waskatenau at Mundare. Tofield at Andrew was not reported, if it was played.

Mundare edged Tofield 5-4 in an exciting contest and a game at Smoky Lake, scheduled for last Tuesday was also not reported.

Andrew and Ryley engaged in a wild contest in Tofield on Thursday night and when the sharp-shooters on both sides were all done, the teams had battled to an 11-11 stalemate.

In Tofield's only other game scheduled for the past week, the team fought Lamont to a 5-2 draw in a game played in Tofield.

Waskatenau got a shock in Holden last Tuesday night when they were upset by an 8-5 score. They bounced back on Thursday night to post a 6-4 triumph over Lamont.

Unofficial standings to date, not including Tuesday night, are as follows:

	W	L	T	GS	GA	Pts.
Mundare	10	4	1	179	68	32
Andrew	15	6	1	188	112	31
Tofield	14	6	2	111	73	31
Lamont	9	10	4	108	130	22
Ryley	9	9	2	93	117	20
Waskat	7	13	2	99	128	16
Holden	5	15	1	93	160	11
Smoky L.	4	16	0	84	156	8

FLASH...

Just before The Mercury went to press, word was received that a provincial election date had been set.

At a press conference in Edmonton, Premier Peter Lougheed announced that Albertans would be going to the polls on Wednesday, March 14th.

The battle for the seat in the Clover Bar Constituency will be fought by at least three candidates when the next provincial election is called.

Premier Peter Lougheed is expected to make an announcement about a spring election almost any time, and all parties are presently looking for such an encounter in March.

The New Democratic and Progressive Conservative parties have already nominated candidates and the Socreds will confirm their candidate at a meeting scheduled for Monday night.

Dr Graham Griffiths of Sherwood Park, RR3, will carry the NDP banner after getting the nomination at a convention held in December.

Butch Tomilinson of Fort Saskatchewan was confirmed, at a convention just a few weeks ago, as the candidate for the Progressive Conservative Party.

The sitting MLA, Dr Walter Buck of Fort Saskatchewan, will once again be the Social Credit candidate.

Dr Buck's candidacy will be confirmed at a Socred constituency meeting of the Josephburg Community Hall on Monday night.

Nominations ceased to be accepted on Monday (Feb. 12th). Dr Buck was the only candidate nominated.

RCMP check stabbings

RCMP are continuing an investigation into a stabbing incident which occurred in the CN Bunkhouse on February 2nd.

Victor Dverdovsky of Montreal has been charged with wounding with intent, after he was alleged to have stabbed two fellow workers. He is also reported to have stabbed himself a number of times, some of which required stitches to close. He is to appear in Court for sentencing on March 27th.

Eight people will be charged with causing a disturbance in a public place after they were apparently involved in a fight in the Tofield Hotel on Thursday.

Stacey Hickling of Tofield, RR1, reported the loss of a calculator, stamps, and carnival tickets from her purse while it had been hung up in a local penny arcade.

George Lee of Tofield, RR2, reported finding a large truck tire and rim. Owner may claim these items by contacting the RCMP.

Three more drivers were charged with passing a school bus while it was stopped and its lights were flashing. In addition, RCMP responded to 69 complaints during the past week.

COURT

James Patric Durland of Edmonton was sentenced to six months on each of four charges of forgery, with all four having occurred in the Tofield area.

Joseph Fred Danilak of Holden was sentenced to 14 days in jail after appearing on two charges, one of driving while his license was suspended, and a charge of driving with a reading in excess of .08.

Darryl Bratrud of Tofield was fined $300 and Gerald Kenako of Camrose was fined $300 and had each their licenses suspended, when they appeared on charges of driving with readings in excess of .08.

Tofield dog owners facing heavy fines

Dog owners in Tofield can't let their animals run wild in the town any longer.

Town Administrator, J. D. Brodie, told councillors, at a recent meeting of town council, that the patrol had started work, and a number of dog owners had been issued with tickets.

Heavy fines have been imposed and dog owners are being requested to obtain licenses and to prevent their dogs from running at large within the town limits.

Six members were named to serve on the Tofield Municipal Library Board. They include Ron Taylor (chairman), Peggy Nahirniak (treasurer), Phyllis Meinster (secretary), Judy Hastings, Dorothy Clark and Gail Munro.

Council authorized insurance coverage for the library contents be increased to $80,000 from $27,500 and that the insurance on the building itself be reviewed.

In addition, council requested the new library board to recommend a pay schedule and hours of work for the position of assistant librarian.

Council agreed to send a representative to a meeting with Viscount Investments, Alberta Transportation and Alberta Power re Viscount wishes to start planning for a subdivision in the west area of town.

Prior to the start of the meeting, a public meeting was held during which no verbal or written objections were heard about a proposed rezoning of Block K, Plan 6888H from "urban reserve" to "R-3 residential".

Minutes of a meeting held on January 8th were approved.

Information of this news story was obtained from the unapproved minutes of a meeting of Town Council held in January 22nd.

Home care established

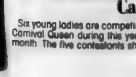
A general meeting has been scheduled for Tofield on Monday night to make plans for the establishment of a home care program for Holden, Ryley and Tofield.

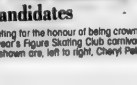
The meeting will be held in the council chambers of the Town Hall, starting at eight o'clock, and all interested persons are being urged to attend.

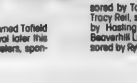
A number of part-time nurses have been retained by the Vegreville Health Unit but, they are in need of volunteer assistance.

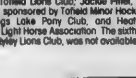
One of the major tasks facing the general meeting will be to obtain the services of someone to act as a member of the Central Management Committee, which looks after the entire program in the County of Beaver.

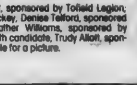
More information may be obtained about the program by calling Gladys Whyte at 662-3966.











Candidates

Six young ladies are competing for the honour of being crowned Tofield Carnival Queen during this year's Figure Skating Club carnival later this month. The five contestants shown are, left to right, Cheryl Peters, sponsored by Tofield Lions Club; Jackie Pittet, sponsored by Tofield Legion; Tracy Reil, sponsored by Tofield Minor Hockey; Denise Telford, sponsored by Hastings Lake Pony Club, and Heather Williams, sponsored by Beaverhill Light Horse Association. The sixth candidate, Trudy Alloit, sponsored by Ryley Lions Club, was not available for a picture.

"WILL THAT BE 'SMOKING' OR 'NON-SMOKING'?"

Not that stupid

Premier Lougheed disappoints us.

With an election only days away, he throws away the lock on the public moneybags, and seems to be hunting for new ways to distribute the stuff that's been piling up for years.

Probably there isn't one of his most recent examples of public funding that isn't welcome, and probably there isn't one that won't be highly appreciated by Albertans.

But surely we can't all be so naive as to vote for him just because all of these plums were delivered in the last few weeks before we cast our votes. Surely they can't all have been developed since the last sitting of the Legislature . . . if they were, what were the members doing during the other sittings? And if they took a good deal of time to develop, as any reasonable person must feel, why weren't they allowed to come on stream in some sort of orderly fashion, rather than like the family spree of gift giving at Christmas.

Is it, indeed, to follow the pattern recently voiced by Grant Notley, NDP leader, when he spoke here about Santa before the election and Scrooge after?

Really, we've been supportive of Premier Lougheed's programs of restraint, as we watched the superheated economy of Alberta pointing towards the stratosphere, while some members of the workforce develop distorted and unhealthy views over the limitless health of the economy, and its ability to support them forever.

There has probably been a need to cut off some of the fat and the waste in recent years, even though it brought some suffering with it.

But it's insulting to be told in so many words that all the wraps and restraints can be taken off at election time, that we can be bought with our own money, and that programs and policies which weren't possible as recently as last fall are suddenly not only possible but desirable.

We have no doubt whatever that the Lougheed machine will roll to victory again this time, because we believe that in the main it has given relatively good government, and because we believe that many Albertans will not want to indicate splintered support when it comes to the national arena,

That doesn't mean a lot of voters won't feel insulted.

Post Office

Recently Canada's Postmaster Gilles Lamontagne announced in the House of Commons that first class mail rates would increase on April 1st from the present 14 cent level to 17 cents.

Now, if the level of service decreases in a ratio corresponding to the increase in rates, the country will really be in trouble.

Fight reduction of railway lines

The Prairie Rail Action Committee presented its report last week on rail line abandonment in western Canada. The Committee, known as PRAC, was set up by the Minister of Transport to make recommendations on the fate of the 2344 miles of branch lines which the Hall Report did not make a final decision on.

Established in the face of controversy, PRAC's report immediately drew widespread criticism from across the West. On an overall basis, 1461 miles or 60 per cent of the track involved was recommended for abandonment. As well as dismay over the large total abandonment recommendations, serious questions have been raised over specific lines. For example, PRAC recommended abandonment of a 144 mile stretch of track in Manitoba which serves over 1500 permit holders and has had average receipts over the last five years of 9,750,000 bushels a year.

While Manitoba and Saskatchewan were hit with the bulk of the abandonments, nearly 84 per cent, Alberta did not escape entirely. In our own area, the CN Coronado Subdivision from Abilene Junction to Elk Point was recommended to be added to the basic network. This also includes a recommended $2,251,000 rehabilitation program to upgrade the line.

However, the last ten miles of the subdivision, from Elk Point to Lindbergh, is removed from further protection after July, 1979, and the 10 miles section from Lindbergh to Heinsburg is recommended for abandonment by December, 1979. I believe that PRAC did not adequately assess all factors and the use of that rail line by Canadian Salt Company at Lindbergh as well as the needs of the farmers who use the Heinsburg delivery [illegible].

As a matter of fact evidence reveals that no discussions or consultations took place with officials of the Canadian Salt Company. Over 1/3 of current salt production from the Lindbergh plant moves by rail and should service be discontinued it could place these markets — served by rail — in serious jeopardy.

The other line in our area affected by the PRAC Report is the Furness Subdivision running from Paradise Valley through McLaughlin and Rivercourse into Saskatchewan. PRAC recommended that this 19.5 mile line be abandoned by December, 1983. However, there is a strong feeling that this recommendation was based on an incomplete, if not inaccurate, assessment of the matter. What is perhaps more significant is the fact that CP has already made application to the Canadian Transport [illegible]

As a result of what I feel are failings in the PRAC Report, I will be writing to the Canadian Transport Commission demanding that abandonment proceedings not take place on either of these lines until adequate hearings are held.

The whole issue of the movement of grain is one of the most important in western Canada today. Because of the effect that the Prairie Rail Action Committee's Report will have on the grain handling and transportation system, I intend to continue to participate actively in the growing [illegible] recommendations. I will keep you informed of developments on a general level and especially on those PRAC recommendations directly affecting our area.

Ryley plans debenture borrowing of $700,000

The Village of Ryley will be issuing debentures in excess of $700,000 for 1979 capital works projects.

At a recent meeting of village council, it was agreed that council would indicate to Alberta Municipal Financing Corporation that the village would require that amount of money for two projects.

The village's new sewage lagoon is estimated to cost $420,000 while a street program will cost $[illegible],000 making the total value of debentures to be issued stand at $706,000.

Councillors accepted an offer of eighty acres of land from Mark Garstad with the land to be used for the sewage lagoon. Council agreed to purchase the land if it meets with the approval of the Village's engineers and the Department of Environment.

Council agreed to purchase the necessary materials for the installation of the Community Hall, providing the purchases were made locally. An estimate of the total cost of the project had been received from the Lions Club.

Permission was granted to the Home Coming Association for use of the Sports Grounds for homecoming days. Approval was also given for locating an information booth on the west side of the Fire Hall.

Council authorized the deposit of $1,273.74 from the general account to the Ryley Skating Rink Fund.

Accounts submitted for payment were approved, with one exception.

Minutes of a regular meeting held on January 8th, and a special meeting held on January 18th, were approved.

Information for this news story was obtained from unapproved minutes of a regular meeting held on January 22nd and a special meeting held on January 31st.

Canadian co-sponsors ski meet

The Camrose Canadian is going to co-sponsor what could be the largest-ever participation event in the history of cross-country skiing ever held in this community.

In a joint statement released this week, C.A. "Chuck" MacLean, publisher of The Canadian, and Dr. Gary Gibson, representing the Camrose Ski Club, announced the holding of a major cross-country meet on Sunday, February 25th.

Entitled "Camrose Cross-Country Ski Gallop", the one-day meet will be open to everyone, beginners and racers alike.

Upwards of three hundred skiers from Camrose and surrounding area, and from many other parts of Alberta, are expected to be present for the "mass start" which is scheduled for 1:30 p.m.

There will be ten different classifications for competition, ranging from card-carrying racers down to young children.

Entries for the eight-mile race will be accepted on the morning of the race between nine o'clock in the morning and 12:30 p.m.

In addition, pre-registrations may be telephoned to Larry Johnson at 672-5541, or mailed to him at 4676 50 Street.

In order to make the event available to everyone, registration fees have deliberately been kept low. Families may register for ten dollars while adult fees have been set at four dollars and children (under 14 years) will pay two dollars.

Registrations on the day of the event will be taken at the Camrose Ski Hut, from where the race will get underway.

The course for the race will cross over some pretty scenic areas and will end at the Battle River bridge. Arrangements are being made to obtain transportation to bring skiers back to the city.

Drop-out stations will be set up along the course in case any competitors don't wish to go the entire distance and patrols will continually cover the course to make sure that skiers don't get into trouble.

Everyone entering the race will be presented with an official ribbon which will state they took part in the cross-country race sponsored by The Canadian and the Camrose Ski Club.

A unique prize will be awarded to the top four finishers in each of the ten different events. Each winner (four) will receive a printed tee-shirt.

The meet will be sanctioned by the Canadian Ski Association.

Officials representing the two sponsoring bodies are urging anyone who cross-country skies to enter the event, and are trying to make it a social-type affair.

A hot drink will be waiting for each competitor making it to the finish line.

This will be the third straight year that a citizens' race (open to everyone) will be held in Camrose. The success of the first two meets have encouraged officials to go big on the third try.

In addition, such events have proven to be extremely popular in other Alberta centers with a recent meet in Edmonton attracting over 3,000 entries.

"Participation, not competition", will be the motto of the meet.

Three trails will be established at the start of the race, and then after the start, will end with skiers competing on open snow.

The ten divisions set up for the February 25th meet are as follows:

Men (holding racing cards)
Women (holding racing cards)
Juvenile Men (13-16 yrs.)

Intermediate Men (over 16 years)

LIABILITY INSURANCE FOR FARMERS

Do you have comprehensive farm liability insurance? Are you aware of the importance of this type of insurance or do you feel that you do not need this protection?

There is always a risk in farming of farm workers or the public being injured. As the owner and occupier of the property, a farmer can be held responsible for such things as the injury or death of a salesman, buyer, canvasser and even a trespasser if the accident occurred because he did not maintain his property with due regard to the safety of others. Farm animals, especially dogs and straying livestock, often cause injury or property damage, and people can be injured by farm equipment if it is used negligently. Other examples of risk situations include the spread of a fire that is lit to burn grass or brush and the drift on to a neighbor's property of a chemical weed spray. Since the latter risk is not included in most farm liability insurance policies, you should make sure that any custom sprayer that you hire carries adequate [illegible].

In addition, a farmer can be liable for the sickness, injury or death of an employee which results from his work. Farmers who hire transient workers are especially vulnerable to such claims. And farmers who sublet [illegible] work on the farm may be held liable for injuries [illegible] has no insurance.

The most common liability insurance coverage used by farmers is that obtained through a comprehensive liability insurance policy or through a rider on their farm fire insurance policy.

Although comprehensive liability insurance policies can differ in minor ways, the coverage is similar. Usually the insurance company accepts responsibility for investigating the claim and provides coverage up to a specified limit for injuries to people or damage to the property of others. If the insured is liable, the company pays the court costs, legal fees and any judgement up to the limit of the policy.

Most liability insurance policies also have a personal liability section, an employer's liability section and a product liability section. Some offer comprehensive liability insurance for a claim that may arise from the occasional use of the tractor off the farm.

Information on these sections of liability insurance policies and an outline of worker's compensation are contained in a publication entitled "Liability Insurance for Farmers". It can be obtained from your District Agriculturist.

Following the presentations by the girls, Bill Brass commented on the speeches. He commended the girls on the quality of [illegible] presentations and praised them for the [illegible] research they had done in their topics. He stated that all participants were winners in that they had gained [illegible] and experience from their involvement.

Anne Motkoski, representing the Bruce Women's Institute, presented Trudy Erickson with a trophy and also congratulated Joyce Lutz for placing second.

Despite the bitter cold, families and friends of the girls were on hand to give them moral support and applaud their efforts. At the close of the evening the [illegible] served coffee, sandwiches and goodies.

In the second period, Holden scored 2, and 1 more score in the third period. But the game ended with Tofield scoring 3 more goals making a 7 to 3 game.

The Holden and District Chamber of Commerce held their regular meeting on Feb 6th at the Holden Community Hall. Twenty-two people were present. President, Kevin Stambaugh, chaired the meeting. Clay Schanning, secretary-treasurer, read the minutes of the last meeting and gave the treasurers' report. The by-laws of the Chamber were reviewed, discussed and approved. The 1979 proposed budget was passed. Before the meeting, Chamber members enjoyed supper prepared by ladies of the Royal Purple. The guest speaker of the evening was Cpl. E. F. Lammerts, NCO in charge R.C.M.P., Tofield, who has been at Tofield for 2½ years. Cpl. Lammerts spoke on policing and stated that his area from Tofield was west to the Fort Scot monument, two miles east of Holden, 10 miles south of Holden and 2 miles north of Highway 16. This consists of 2000 square miles and has a population of 12,000 people. This is manned by 4 policemen and one stenographer. At present, he stated he would not be getting any more man power. There are 1,700 R.C.M.P. in the Province of Alberta. He pointed out the importance of branding cattle over the past five years statistics show that 88% of the cattle stolen, missing, or assumed missing, were not branded. He mentioned that there will be a meeting on gun control on Feb. 15 at 8 p.m. at the Tofield Community Centre.

VELOUR

Soft, touchable, luxurious, comfortable are words to describe this popular fabric. Doreen Al Adra, Alberta Agriculture's Clothing and Textile Specialist gives this information on velour.

WHAT IS VELOUR?

Velour is a French term meaning velvet. The term is loosely applied to a fabric with a short, thick, soft cut pile. The fabric may be woven or knit out of natural or synthetic fibers.

WHAT IS AVAILABLE?

Velour is sold by the metre for home sewers and in ready-to-wear clothing for all ages. Fashion dictates the type of velour available and at present, fabric sold by the metre is generally a pile knit-stretch velour. The fiber content is usually 70-80 percent cotton, 20-25 percent polyester. Some velour fabrics contain triacetate (80-85 percent) and nylon (15-30 percent). These are generally lighter in weight than the cotton [illegible].

Ready to wear clothing offers more variety in the velour fabric available. Cotton-polyester blends range in fiber content from 50-80 percent cotton, 20-50 percent polyester. Other fiber combinations are acrylic blended with nylon, and triacetate blended with nylon. The fiber content of the velour fabric will be an indication as to the type of care the fabric should be given.

HOW TO DETERMINE QUALITY

Either in ready-to-wear or by-the-metre, velour comes in different qualities. Consider the following

—feel the weight and body of the fabric—the heavier the fabric, the thicker and more dense the pile—the better is the quality of the velour —examine knits carefully for runs.

—check to see that all pile yarns have been cut—there should be no loops on the surface

—check for good color penetration; especially with [illegible]

—colors may run or bleed. It is impossible to check for this at the time of purchase—therefore be wary of deep, dark shades in their first washing. Wash velour separately for the first two or three washings to prevent any color transfer to other fabrics.

SEWING TIPS

- Preshrink fabric before cutting by washing separately. Especially if you intend to use a trim of different color — be sure the velour will not lose color in future washings.

- Velour has a nap — pay attention when laying out pattern [illegible].

- Use sharp shears and pins in cutting.

- Use a sharp machine needle — a fine needle or ballpoint needle may be required for some fabrics.

- Use a slightly longer machine stitch, stretching the fabric as you sew — or sew seams with a fine machine zigzag.

- For fabrics that ravel - finish seams with a machine zigzag or hand overcast stitch. For lightweight fabrics, an alternate seam finish is to stitch the seam allowances together close to the seam line and trim off excess fabric.

- Hems can be done by hand using a tailor's hem or top-stitched by machine. A double row of machine topstitching adds detail and provide durability.

Velour is surprisingly easy to sew and garments can be made at a fraction the cost of ready-to-wear.

CARING FOR VELOUR

- The fiber content of the fabric suggests the temperature to use in washing and drying.

- In laundering, turn garments inside out.

- Tumble drying will restore softness and body to the fabric. Remove from dryer immediately to prevent wrinkling.

PLEASE NOTE: There will be a preliminary meeting for a tailoring course in Viking on March 5th at 1:30 p.m. The meeting will be to plan a class to be held in Viking. If you are interested in the course please contact our office or Wilda [illegible].

by Colleen Walker
Program Supervisor

In a recreation position often times we are called into act as a commissioner of referee for a league, tournament, etc. Along with these responsibilities come the authority to make [illegible]. [illegible]ometimes these [illegible] and our actions are [illegible]terpreted.

When I took my position, I knew there would be times when I would have to make that decision that would cause some hurt feelings. I knew this and expected these actions. What I didn't expect are some of the replies to the decisions I made such as, "Well, you know what you can do with that idea? OR, Just because you have a college diploma you think you know everything. OR, Why did the County ever hire someone like you?". Written out like this, it doesn't seem so important, but you know, I don't think anyone likes to be talked to on this manner.

Often these arguments over play[illegible] standings, rulings and so on, I think people begin to lose their perspective over our recreation objectives. These programs are organized for people's participation and provide an opportunity for recreation. Why lose your cool over a game intended primarily for enjoyment?

So, people, this tid-bit is not written because I can't take the heat but I am concerned some of the fuel some people use is a little "primitive". I close with this quote from J. F. Kennedy, "My experience with government is when things are non-controversial, beautifully co-ordinated and all the rest, it must be that there must be not much going on."

9th ANNUAL BADMINTON TOURNAMNET

The 9th annual county-wide badminton tournament will be held Sunday, at Tofield School. This year's entry fee is $3.00 per person and a $2.00 fee for additional events. Each event will include a trophy and two consolation prizes.

This tournament is limited to only persons actively involved in one club within the County.

SENIOR CITIZENS

Because of the bad weather experienced last Wednesday, the "Let's Do It Again—Dance All Night" was re-scheduled for February 14th.

NORTH EATSERN ALBERTA
[illegible]

This year the County of Beaver will be well represented when we leave for the games in Vermilion on Feb 23, 24 and 25. Teams going this year will be:

Men's basketball, Kinsella team; Men's volleyball, Ryley team, Badminton, members of the Viking and Holden clubs; Ladies' basketball, Viking and Ryley teams are currently playing off to determine County representative, Men's broomball, Viking team.

We are sending 55 athletes this year, a rise from our 1978 figures of 35 athletes, to Fort McMurray.

BRUCE BADMINTON AND RYLEY FAMILY BADMINTON

Because of the very low attendance at badminton in Bruce, we have had to find it necessary to cancel this activity. We will be trying this again next fall and we hope interest will be re-vitalized during the spring and summer.

As you recall, this winter we decided to plan a second night for badminton in Ryley because of the very crowded conditions Thursday evenings. This has not worked so well. Attendance has been low on Tuesday evenings so after trying for three weeks, Ryley family badminton Tuesday evenings will be cancelled.

Badminton will still be played in Ryley Thursday evenings, 8 - 10 p.m. until spring.

SKI TRIP TO JASPER

I got a very good response from my previous article in the paper, so definite plans have been made for the trip.

DATE. March 16, 17 and 18. We will be leaving late Friday afternoon (5:30 p.m. approximately). Pickups will be made at Viking, Holden, Ryley and Tofield. Sunday afternoon we will be leaving the slopes around 3 p.m., arriving home early Sunday evening.

WHERE. We will be skiing at Jasper's Marmot Basin which specializes in a variety of slopes from gentle hills for the novice to packed slopes for the intermediate skier.

HOW: We will be travelling a Diversified chartered bus which has all the conveniences: stereo, P.A. system, bathroom, and lots of [illegible].

AND NOW THE COST

I have got together a group package which includes the following

These rates are based on 30 people registering. Please contact Colleen at 663-3730 to register.

Marilyn Withage, who taught English the past two years at Tumbab High School in Yomba, Papua New Guinea, sent us several compositions by her grade eight students. Given the topic "If I could choose any life I wanted", one student named Remie wrote: I would like to become Prime Minister in the future, so that I could rule Papua New Guinea. I would like this country to live in peace — I don't want any trouble between the people of Papua New Guinea. And also I would try to find some way to bring more money into the country. I would go from place to place seeing that all the things were going well.

Holden skate-a-thon shows gain of $3,000

On Sunday, Holden held its first skate-a-thon, clearing over $3,300.00.

The skaters were allowed a break every 30 minutes, if they desired, with free hot chocolate and donuts at each break.

Pledges have already started to come in, and will be taken on Thursday night at the Beaver's hockey game; Saturday morning from 10 to 12 at the Complex, and any time at Holden Trading. Skaters are reminded to get in their pledges as soon as possible.

After all pledges have been turned into the Society, trophies will be presented to the eight people who have collected the most money in the following categories: 10 and under—boy and girl, 11 to 14—boy and girl, 14 and over—boy and girl, Oldest, and Youngest. Winners will be published at a later date.

In addition, each skater will receive 10 percent of the money that he or she collected.

Proceeds of this skate-a-thon will go towards the purchase of a public address system for the Complex.

Confronting your faith

Our governments are greatly concerned with the growth of false and deceptive advertising in business. To try to prevent this growth legislation has been introduced and passed, making it an offence to use deceptive means to promote the sales of any product. But what of spiritual deception? This is more destructive than being taken in by a slick sales gimmick, and often the outcome is irreversible. This is an area in which the government has not too much power to control, if at all. Any God has warned us that spiritual deception will continue to increase alarmingly as the years go on. On the other hand, the Bible warns us "not to be deceived." Therefore the responsibility rests upon each one of us to remain free from such deception.

We have been instructed by God as to the source of all deception. It is Satan. He began his programme back in the Garden of Eden and he has no intention to cease plying his trade until his final overthrow and imprisonment by God. And yet for all the publicity given to this spiritual deception, the practice goes on and on. Not all those who are taken in by the slick propaganda of cultists end up as did the hundreds in Guyana, physically dead. But spiritually they have placed themselves in the same potential danger. This Jonestown incident proved once more the truthfulness of Scripture that those once entangled cannot easily escape unscratched from the entanglement.

The publicity given to this world submission to a man was extensive. One publication claimed that more news coverage was given to this in the U.S.A. than was given to the coverage of the deaths of two popes last year. This being so, surely God must be trying to get a fresh warning through to people. Is He not trying to impress upon us all, the result of allowing ourselves to be entangled in spiritual deception?

The Bible requires that we "test the spirits to see whether they are from God." But we are too lazy to go to all that trouble and bother for ourselves. In an area of infinite importance and greatest threat we leave it to others to do our testing for us, and we blindly abide by what they say. The more spectacular their claims are the less cautious we become. The temptation of Jesus Christ is a clear example of the pattern Satanic deception takes. It increases from one degree of false representation to another. Jesus was not taken in by these false claims and promises of His tempter. No need we be, either. The very same Power which kept the Son of God is freely available to all. Jesus, before His return to the Father, promised to send the Holy Spirit, and He would "guide us into all truth." He is capable of keeping us from being deceived and being entangled by a slick salesman superior to us all. That Holy Spirit is given to "those who obey Him." Because the equipment to counterattack the deceiver is available to us, the responsibility rests on each one "not to be deceived", not to allow ourselves to be taken in no matter how spectacular and miraculous the "evidence" may seem to be. We must not fool ourselves by saying such deception as Jonestown, and others of lesser degree, could never happen to us, that we are too wise to be entangled. The possibility is ever present, but the probability can be greatly diminished simply by following the instructions closely — they are to be found in God's Word of warning, the Bible.

Randall (left) and Lieutenant-Colonel J. C. Beacham (right), while Major H. E. Burch looks on. Sergeant Baumgartner is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Baumgartner of Tofield. He has been a member of the Armed Forces for thirteen years.

Tofield is now 1st

Tofield has taken over top spot in the Beaverhill Hockey League will about a week to go in the regular schedule.

The surging Tofield squad has taken a slim one-point lead over Mundare in the race for first place. However, Tofield has only one game left to play while Mundare has four games remaining.

Both Tofield and Mundare have clinched playoff berths, as have teams from Andrew and Ryley.

Out of the picture are the entries from Lamont, Waskatenau, Holden and Smoky Lake.

The regular schedule was due to end on Saturday. But, at least one postponed game has been rescheduled for Sunday, and other postponed games are expected to be played next week.

While nothing definite has been announced, indications are that playoffs will not get underway until about one week from Saturday.

Tonight's (Thursday) games will see Ryley play in Mundare, Holden is in Lamont, and Waskatenau plays in Andrew.

On Saturday night, Holden plays in Smoky Lake while Andrew travels over to Mundare and Tofield will host Waskatenau on Sunday.

All of the games scheduled for last Thursday night were postponed because of the storm. That included Lamont and Ryley in Tofield, Mundare at Holden, and Smoky Lake at [illegible].

Tofield won two out of three games to climb into first place. They walloped Smoky Lake 8-2, were stopped 3-1 by Mundare, and then doubled Ryley 6-3.

In their only other outing, Mundare fell into second place when they absorbed an 11-5 licking from Lamont.

Andrew picked up a 5-2 win over Lamont and two games scheduled at Smoky Lake either weren't played or the results weren't reported.

Ryley blasted Waskatenau 6-1 and trapped Holden 5-1. In the only other game played, Waskatenau blasted Holden 10-4.

Holden dominates in school curling

Holden teams dominated the County of Beaver junior and senior high school curling playoffs which were held in Ryley on Saturday.

Holden teams won four of the five team championships with Ryley being the only school to break the monopoly, winning one title.

Ryley won the senior high girls' championship and earned the right to represent the county in Zone playoffs which will be held this coming weekend in Daysland.

The high school boys' and mixed teams from Holden will also advance to Zone playoffs this coming weekend with the boys going to Forestburg while the mixed team will play in Viking.

Members of the boys' team are Roger Shyba, Darrel Malick, Perry Story and Ed Shyba [illegible] the mixed team consists of Wayne Ogrodnick, Linda Mackay, Marcel Zewtuk and Leanne Barks.

Sears wins farmers' 'spiel

Tofield's annual Farmers Curling Bonspiel wound up on Sunday with Dave Sears of Tofield winning top honours.

Winning first place in the First Event netted the Tofield quartet the Bank of Montreal Trophy. Members of the winning rink were Dave Sears, Dave Schultz, Doug Walker and Randy Erickson.

Second place was taken by Armand Goubault of Tofield while third place went to John Boychuk of Round Hill and fourth place was grabbed by Dale Wineness of Ryley.

Ted Strilchuk of Ryley took the 2nd Event and the Tofield Building Supplies Trophy. Other members of this rink were Bill Holowaychuk, Lorne Gudmundson and Barry Strilchuk.

Taking the Dr. W.H. Freebury trophy for winning the 3rd Event was Darlene Gallinger of Tofield whose teammates were Linda Sears, Al Pollock and Laura Eglauer.

Placing second in the 3rd event was Kevin Bugge of Ryley while third place was taken by Glenn Jones of Tofield and fourth spot was won by Vern Walker of Tofield.

Second place in the 3rd Event was won by Ron Geoglein of Tofield with 3rd spot going to Lawrence Rude of Tofield while Marvin Adamson of Camrose finished in fourth place.

The Unifarm Trophy for first place in the 4th Event was won by Charlie McLeod of Tofield whose team consisted of Mavid McLeod, Alberta Watt and Roy Whillans.

Second place went to Bob Wyllie of Tofield with third place being taken by Mel Loch with fourth place going to Charlie Sears of Tofield.

A highlight of the week-long bonspiel came when the rink skipped by Charlie Sears scored an eight-ender in a game with Louis Shewchuk. Other members of the eight-end rink were Henry Shroeder, Gary Sears and Robyn Sears.

Operation Prov-ident available from RCMP

"Operation Prov-ident" is now available in the Tofield area.

This is an extension of the neighbourhood watch program, and is available for businesses, schools and churches, but not to individuals.

Numbers are assigned to different groups using the program, and then are engraved, stamped or welded on to equipment, tools, supplies or furnishings that might be subject to theft.

These numbers are then recorded at the office of the Tofield RCMP Detachment and the Crime Index Centre in [illegible].

Any groups wishing to make use of the program are urged to get in touch with the Tofield RCMP.

RCMP investigated three separate motor vehicle accidents in the area during the past week.

Vehicles operated by William Stirrett of Tofield RR2 and Gerald Weder of Tofield were in collision about one mile west of Tofield on Friday. There were no injuries.

No injuries and only minor property damages were reported in the other two mishaps which occurred on Saturday and Sunday in the Tofield and Ryley areas.

A large amount of lumber was found alongside the road, just outside of Tofield. The owner of the lumber may claim his property by contacting the Tofield Detachment of the RCMP.

Charges are pending following an investigation of shop-lifting at the Co-op Store in Tofield. Charges are pending in another incident after Marvin Wahlstrom of Tofield reported that someone had broken off the aerial from his motor vehicle.

Schools open early on Mon.

School will open early on Monday morning.

All schools in the County of Beaver will begin one-half hour earlier than usual this coming Monday.

The reason for the early start is to avoid possible eye injuries by students looking at the eclipse of the sun. The earlier start will see the students get to school before there is any danger from directly looking at the eclipse.

Tofield firm gets contract

A Tofield firm has been awarded a construction contract by the provincial government.

Watson Tofield (1973) Ltd. has been awarded a contract for a construction project at Wandering River.

The Tofield firm's bid of $226,446 was the lowest of eleven bids submitted for the project. Their bid was about six thousand dollars lower than its nearest competitor.

Announcement of the decision to award the contract was made by the Hon. Tom Chambers, Minister of Housing and Public Works.

Although Premier Lougheed announced a provincial election just over a week ago, campaigning is off to a low key start.

Butch Thomlinson, PC candidate, will be appearing in the Tofield Legion on Friday night in a "meet the candidate night", with the session getting underway at 8:30 p.m.

Mr. Thomlinson has obtained the service of a twenty-eight foot motorhome which workers have tabbed the "Butchmobile". It will be used for campaigning in the more isolated areas in the Clover Bar riding.

Sitting member Dr. Walter Buck, Social Credit, has been hit by the editorial policy of The Mercury.

Normally, The Mercury runs a regular column for sitting federal and provincial members.

However, the paper's policy on this matter stipulates that such columns will be discontinued once an election is called. As a result, Dr. Buck's column will not be appearing again unless he [illegible].

The NDP candidate in this riding is Dr. Graham Griffiths.

Peter Ward's Ottawa Viewpoint...

Canadian Comment

OTTAWA (SF)-The ranks of the New Democratic Party are filled with optimism as election 1979 approaches, and there is good reason for the high hopes.

A check of the recent Gallup Poll results may not indicate the full extent of support for the NDP which is now surfacing, because the party is still only registering 18 percent, but in the office of leader Ed Broadbent, there is talk about the party scoring equal to or better than the results of the 1972 election, which saw the NDP win 31 seats.

You'll get all kinds of answers from the NDP when you ask why their hopes are so high. You'll hear talk about how the country is turned off with the Liberals because of Prime Minister Trudeau, yet not convinced by the Tories because of Joe Clark.

There's some truth to that, but the chief reason for the likelihood of success at the polls in the coming election for the NDP lies in the changed attitudes and strengths of organized labor.

In past elections the Canadian Labor Congress has always supported the NDP on paper, but all you have to do is look at past election results to see that the verbal support from labor brass wasn't translated into massive voting power from union members.

The picture will be different under the new CLC president, Dennis McDermott. He is a tough and experienced organizer who knows how to swing support. He has also been much more outspoken in his pleas for labor to support the NDP than his predecessor Joe Morris.

McDermott has been delighting the NDP with his words and actions. He is calling for organized labor to support the party with money, work and organizing expertise to elect a substantial number of members, so that the New Democrats can be the balance of power in a minority government situation when the election results are tabulated.

No question that having an identified New Democrat like Ed Schreyer in Rideau Hall as governor-general will help the Broadbent cause, too.

It's very possible that the goals set out by McDermott will be met — that the NDP will hold the balance of power in a minority government situation. But that could pose severe economic problems for Canada, unless the NDP acts with a great deal more responsibility than the party did during the 1972-74 minority period.

Back to hustings

While no-one was surprised by the election call of Premier Lougheed last Wednesday morning, it set in motion a whole chain of events which couldn't even get a rolling start until the actual announcement was made. It's like a boxing match, where opponents can shadow box in their corners, punch at the ropes, and so on, but can't start fighting until the bell is sounded.

It's pretty hard to guess at this time how the final results will look when the ballots are counted, because so many things can change, even in the last few days. Even hours, sometimes, count for a great deal.

Comments by Mr. Lougheed that he needs all the support he can get, even though he expects more opposition, are probably made to spur his own [illegible] on, and for the benefit of the press. Unless there is more widespread revulsion than we anticipate over his sudden discovery there were riches to be spread among the voters, he will be returned with a solid majority. This is not to say we feel he'll have as large a majority as this time, because there are many ridings which are well night impossible to guess, particularly so early in the campaign. There are some areas where the swing of only a relatively few votes might change representation in the Legislature.

Publicly, of course, Mr. Lougheed must ask for all the support he can get, but privately, we would suspect, and entirely apart from the image it would create at Ottawa, he might welcome a few more opposition seats. Back in the days of Premier Manning, whose grip on the province seemed as secure as Mr. Lougheed's, he seemed always to get the best from his members when he could point to a stronger opposition, and warn that the public was looking over his shoulder.

Personally, we had looked for Mr. Lougheed to call a very brief session, pass a budget to get departmental operations under way, and then call the election. As it stands, unless department's are expected to operate until Fall on monies voted by order in council, there would have to be a session only a few weeks after the election. But on the other hand, perhaps that might be best . . . it would at least have the effect of installing his new cabinet officers firmly in place.

One aspect of criticism heard many times, and one which we feel doesn't stand up, is the number of members, particularly cabinet ministers, who are not seeking re-election. The inference, of course, is that they're completely fed up with being dominated by an autocratic leader.

But our files the other day turned up the list of cabinet members who took office eight years ago, and we were interested to learn that all but five or six of these originals still hold office. It seems not unreasonable that one out of three of these people, most of whom have faced heavy responsibility for as much as eight years, should decide they've given enough time to the public, that they've suffered enough on behalf of the public, or that the game isn't worth the candle. The backbenchers dropping out may in some cases feel the same way, too.

Just for comparison, how many town or county councillors carry on for eight years? And how many wouldn't quail at the thought of twelve years? Experience says the turnover here is much faster, and usually, the load of office rides more lightly.

Business Enslaved

R.R. 5,
Saskatoon, Sask.

Dear Sir:

Recently an item appeared in newspapers titled "Many Canadians believe politicians harming unity", stating how politicians are turning the rest of Canada against Quebec or vice versa. I would like to add that politicians are also turning people within communities against one another, which could result in more serious consequences than turning us against Quebec or vice versa.

Consider for a moment that more often than not, businessmen, even small businessmen, must by law do more free work for big government than either the overpaid civil servants or the overpaid politicians do. Not only must businessmen and their employees provide free, slave-like labour for big governments, they must by law pay excessive taxes too- a double penalty for the privilege of working to make their living and a living for those who live on their backs.

Why don't the extremely intelligent (we are told) civil servants who are such a burden to the taxpayer demonstrate their initiative and intelligence by leaving the civil service sanctuary and going into business for themselves, rather than spending their time ruling the businessmen and his employees who make their living for them? This would save the same taxpayers billions of tax dollars and thousands of free man-hours of slave labour now being provided for big governments. Furthermore, it would also provide the ex-civil servants with a free (ie: at their own expense) education into the horrendous bureaucracy they have created and an excellent opportunity to demonstrate what many of them have been preaching by contributing much free labour, and often unmerciful taxes too, for big governments, who have been known to merely squander it.

As well, they would soon learn that businessmen and their employees are treated much worse than murderers or rapists by the courts as well as civil servants if they refuse to contribute free slave-labour and taxes too for big governments. Rapists and murderers are allowed legal aid lawyers and jury trials while the tax-payer is denied a trial by jury and must supply his own lawyers as well; another double penalty for working for a living.

Ex-civil servants would soon understand the indignity of being treated worse than murderers by the courts as well as being ruled by civil servants who, like the courts, were hired to be the servants and not the hired-hand masters as is now the case. Is it any wonder we have so many people on welfare and so many unemployed when one considers the extreme penalty politicians inflict on those who do work for a living?

Creating the dictatorial bureaucrats to rule and punish the businessmen and their employees could turn into a situation so serious that politicians, realizing the potential for violence, are trying to head it off by denying or curtailing the use of arms.

This situation is now so serious that almost daily we read of businessmen and their employees being fined or jailed or both for not providing the civil servant bureaucrats their greedy wants. What other devious plan could possibly divide a community or country more? The will of elected politicians is working to the detriment of those who are paying for it.

Holden and district

By Anna Shavchruk

The Holden Complex is very busy this weekend. The annual ladies' bonspiel was held. In hockey, Holden and Ryley Flyers played on Saturday. Score was 5-1 for Ryley. On Sunday, Holden Old Timers played against Camrose AGT. Score was 9-6 for Camrose.

"Holden 4-H Beef Club has Public Speaking". On Feb. 13th the Holden 4-H Beef Club held its public speaking competition along with a short business meeting. In the senior division, Brian Hejnar placed 1st, and Kevin Duvart was second, while Dale Lutz was first in the junior division with Michael Lutz second. Eight members participated in the public speaking. Judges were Mrs. Mary Laskosky, Robert Lysio and Milton MacGregor. Mrs Paulette Erickson of Bruce acted as time-keeper and teller. During the meeting, members decided to donate $50.00 to the McKibbin family following the loss of their barn and livestock in a recent fires. It was decided to order 4-H t-shirts for all club members. The Holden Club is planning its annual pancake supper for March 23rd, from 5 to 7 p.m. at the Holden Complex. The next 4-H meeting will be held on March 20th. The Ryley Beef Club has been invited to attend this meeting to discuss a possible joint Ryley-Holden club calf sale and achievement day. Lunch was served to members and guests.

Take a step in the right direction. Take a few.

Square dance news

Jan. 12th twenty square dancers from the Swinging Beaver Club travelled to Camrose to entertain guests at the Bethany Nursing Home. Allan Iwierschke handled the calling.

The club received a thank you note from the nursing home, saying how much everyone had enjoyed the evening.

Feb. 12th had our Valentine dance and party at Bruce Community Centre. Clem Nadon from Edmonton called the dance and kept everyone moving. In spite of the cold of the stormy weather, we had five squares dancing most of the time. We had visitors from Sedgewick and Innisfree.

During intermission, the ladies of the club modeled the latest styles in square dance pantus for 1979.

I'm sure the judges, Clem Nadon, Jack Brook and Stu McMullen had a very difficult time choosing the most fetching styles for 1979. Sam Feild twirled each lady in turn for the benefit of the judges and spectators. First prize went to Ruby McMullen, second to Marie Westmancoat, third to Donna Brook. A lovely cake, made and decorated for Valentine's, by Donna Brook, was drawn for a door prize and was won by Boyd Ash of Viking.

WATCH THAT SET!

At the "Living with Teenagers" program television was one of the subjects discussed. I know it is a topic of interest to a number of parents.

Television can be a good learning tool if parents exercise good judgement in its use. Parents whose children watch television have a responsibility to supervise their viewing, to limit random viewing, and to help children choose shows in advance so they can learn to discriminate in selecting programs. A few basic rules, established and respected in a consistent manner can make television a source of enjoyment and learning for the entire family.

In itself, television is not necessarily a cause for conflict. Its use or abuse is the determining factor. Adults who think of television as a babysitter or an acceptable alternative to active play or who assume that choosing appropriate T.V. programs is merely a matter of changing channels are misusing a powerfully influential tool.

There are many youngsters today who spend the majority of their free time passivily watching television. They are exposed to a wide range of moral, values and behaviors with little if any adult guidance in their acceptance or rejection of what they are. I enjoyed a commercial in Oregon which said: "Hey Dad and mom come see what your child is watching on T.V." Parents need to review T.V. programs and regulate viewing accordingly. Sometimes it is fun to watch a program together and then discuss it.

Television can provide valuable information and new ideas [illegible]. It can stimulate their imagination and give them glimpses of a world that we were never exposed to as a child. It can take you to places and events you will never otherwise have a chance to experience. It can make you laugh, it can make you cry.

Every television set I've seen has an on-off switch. Don't be afraid to say no and use the off if a child requests to watch a program of which you disapprove.

Each families viewing habits are different. If parents recognize the benefits of television as well as the limitations and they plan viewing time wisely and use it to exchange ideas and information, television can provide an opportunity for the entire family to participate in mutual growth.

Volunteers sought for overseas exchange

Participants are now being selected for upcoming exchange programs with developing countries in Asia, Africa and Latin America, Canada World Youth (CWY) has announced.

CWY is an international youth exchange program funded in party by the Canadian International Development Agency and in its eighth consecutive year Its aim is to promote an understanding and appreciation of development and intercultural communication, and to stimulate a deeper awareness of the role and place of young people in the world today

The organization is seeking any healthy, young Canadians between the ages of 17 and 20 who are working, looking for a job or studying if they are ready to learn about development through volunteer work projects within communities in Canada as well as overseas

After a month-long orientation camp, CWY groups, made up usually of 14 Canadian and exchange country participants, along with a Canadian and exchange country group leader, integrate themselves into a community in Canada through volunteer work in one of the following area: agriculture, co-ops, environment, social services, small businesses, recreation or community groups

The CWY calendar says the program "makes it possible for participants to observe at first hand the gross inequities in opportunity among the peoples of the world, as well as the interrelationship between rich and poor countries and people. Participants will be faced with the causes of this injustice and they will explore the methods and tools at mankind's disposal to repair the situation "

CWY hopes that on their return to Canada, participants will continue to be involved in development issues, a prime measure of the experience being the extent to which they realize their potential contribution to the evolution of their own society.

The CWY exchange program lasts a little over seven months; the first half in Canada, the second half overseas. There are two starting dates: program A starts in July, with the application deadline March 15; program B starts in September, with the deadline April 1

Participants work as volunteers and receive no payment. Costs for food, [illegible] transportation and emergency medical attention are covered by CWY. Pocket money is also provided.

Applications are available at Canada Manpower Centres, schools and colleges, or the CWY Prairies Regional Office at 10723 - 77th Ave., Edmonton, Alberta, T6E 5J8. Phone (403) [illegible].

Giant ski meet goes this Sunday

Sunday is the day on which Camrose could hold its largest-ever cross-country ski meet.

Cross-country ski enthusiasts from all over Central Alberta, as well as a number from farther distances, are expected in the Rose City on Sunday to take part in the 'Camrose Cross-Country Ski [illegible]'.

Early indications are that well over three hundred skiers could be on hand for the occasion.

This year's giant rally is being co-sponsored by The Camrose Canadian and the [illegible].

The event will mark The Canadian's first venture into sponsorship of a major sports attraction, although the paper [illegible] sports programs down through the years.

Although a number of competitive skiers are expected to take part in Sunday's outing, the basic idea behind the meet is to attract the average or beginner skier, and if possible, [illegible].

Sunday's race will get underway with a 'mass start' at 1:30 p.m. and proceed across scenic Battle River country, ending nearly eight miles away at the Battle River Bridge from where skiers will be provided with transportation back to the city.

Registration Fees for the event have deliberately been kept low in order to attract skiers of all kinds and ages.

Entries will be accepted on Sunday at the Ski Lodge from nine o'clock in the morning until 12:30pm. In addition, advance registrations will be accepted by Larry Johnson at 672-5643.

Entire families may register for a ten dollar fee while adult (individual) fees have been set at four dollars, and children's fees (under 14 years) will be set at only two dollars. Every skier who makes it to the finish line will receive a participant's ribbon, and a hot refreshing drink will also be waiting.

Printed t-shirts will be presented to the top four finishers in each of the ten different categories of competition.

Drop-out stations are being set up along the race course for those skiers who are unable to complete the course.

In addition, members of the Camrose Ski Club will be conducting regular patrols along the full length of the course to render any assistance that might be needed by any of the participants.

Sunday's meet has been sanctioned by the Canadian Ski Association. There is a category for every skier in Sunday's meet. The ten different classes for the 'gallop' are as follows:

Men (holding racing cards).
Women (holding racing cards).
Juvenile women (13-16 years).
Juvenile men (13-16 years).
Intermediate men (over 16 years).
Intermediate women (over 16 years).
Beginner women (all ages).
Beginner men (all ages).
Senior men (over 50 years).
Children (under 12 years).

Events such as cross-country meets with classes for everyone have proven very popular in many Alberta communities in recent years, and local officials are hoping that Camrose and area residents will respond to Sunday's outing.

Success on Sunday would likely mean that the 'gallop' would be repeated in future years.

Tofield Recreation news

A meeting of the Tofield Recreational Board was held recently with Ed. Regher, Yvonne McAllister, Ken Stauffer, Alberta Watt and Edna [illegible].

George Baker, regional recreation director, explained different grants that were available and new literature that could be obtained on recreation. He also explained that $4,200 was received from [illegible] county and the Major Cultural Branch had another $8,000 [illegible].

Harry Dale also questioned the board about the position of [illegible] to area recreation. He was assured that all communities are represented and that their cares are the cares of the board.

A form was received dealing with the leadership course for playgrounds. It was decided that the week of July 4th would be the best time for this course to be offered, and Mr Baker said that he would phone Jim Singbeil and inform him of this decision, and it was agreed that two applicants be sent. The selection of applicants was tabled until the March meeting.

Ed Regher and Mr. Glen Jones agreed to attend the provincial workshop for Recreational Board members [illegible].

Mrs. Watt reported on the Winter Crafts and Gym Program at Lindbrook and stated that it was successful.

And now . . . Metric Tires!

Motorists in Canada can expect to start seeing tires on the market with metric designation beginning this year.

This next step in the metric conversion process of [illegible] products follows on the heels of the recently introducted conversion of gasoline measurement from gallons to litres.

The new metric tire designations will be longer and appear more complex, but the following example should help consumers in the process of interpreting the new symbols.

An existing ER78-14 tire for example will become a P195-75R14 which indicates the following:

"P" - indicates passenger car designation

"195" - indicates the width of the tire body in millimeters.

"75" - represents the profile or shape of the tire. (Most tires will be designated between 75 and 80.

"R" - indicates a radial ply tire ("B" would indicate a belted bias ply tire)

"14" - this number represents the rim diameter, in INCHES! Yes, in INCHES!

This new system is a combination of the metric and the Imperial systems. When the USA goes totally metric, there is a possibility that further changes to the metric tire designation system will be made.

As if this isn't enough, a further significant change will be in the measurement of the tire pressure. If the normal inflation pressure of your [illegible] is 30 lbs per square inch, the new pressure required will be approximately 210 KILOPASCALS.

However, if you think metric designation on a passenger car tire is lengthy and confusing, can you imagine what a similar code on tractor tires would look like?

FEEDING THE BEEF COW AFTER CALVING

It is vitally important that beef producers meet the greatly increased feed requirements of cows that have just calved, says R. E. Berg, animal nutritionist with Alberta Agriculture.

"Failure to do so reduces the growth rate of the calf and results in problems with the rebreeding of the cow," Ms. Berg said. "It would lead to this year's breeding season being extended, and there would be a consequent extension of next year's calving season.

"A cow's feed requirements increase markedly after calving because the animal needs to produce milk for her calf. Special attention to feed also hastens the cow's recovery from calving and allows the cows to start cycling sooner and with better conception rates."

Each additional 1 lb./day of milk produced by the cow ensures an average of 10 lbs. higher weaning weight on her calf, said Ms. Berg.

She suggested the following ration samples, based on average feed analysis and average requirements, for meeting a cows' feed requirements after calving.

Adjustments for different farm situations should be based on feed quality, cow weights, levels or production, and the general condition of the cows.

	1000 lb. Cow Low Prod. 10 lb./day	1200 lb. Cow Moderate Prod. 25 lb./day
RATION A:
Alfalfa Hay (lb./head/day)	22	33
RATION B.
Grass Hay (lb./head/day)	20	24
Oats Grain (lb./head/day)	3	8.5
RATION C:
Oat Straw (lb./head/day)	15	12
Alfalfa Hay (lb./head/day)	10	23
RATION D:
Cereal Silage (65% moisture, lbs./head/day)	57	70
Oats Grain (lb./head/day)		4.5

The producer is advised to complement the above rations with cobalt-iodized salt, a 1:1 mineral supplement and 60,000 I.U./head/day vitamin A.

Pupil here with Indian Affairs

C W (Bill) Milner, who has been a department of Indian Affairs and Northern Development employee for 12 years, was appointed manager of the London, Ontario, district of Indian Affairs. The announcement was made January 8.

Mr Milner spent several years in Camrose, where he attended school, and from here he enlisted, and served as a lieutenant in the Korean special force in 1953-3. On his return from Korea, he married the former Genevieve Stangowitz, and with her raised four children, all of whom are still at home.

He is the son of the late Mr and Mrs Charlie Milner, who moved to Camrose with the opening here of Rosehaven.

Mr Milner will be working closely with the district's eight band councils in the areas of Indian education, economic development, local government, planning, and financial development. There are about 7,300 Indians in the district.

He met with the area's chiefs at a district council meeting in December, and will be attending another council meeting on Jan 17.

He said he does not plan to make any changes in the district in the near future, but will be spending the first few weeks studying the area and meeting with the chiefs and councils.

Mr Milner joined the department in 1967 in Ottawa as a development officer with the northern affairs program. He travelled throughout Canada's north helping the Inuit develop local financial and business enterprises.

In 1970 he transferred to Amherst, Nova Scotia, as superintendent of economic development of the Atlantic region. While there he worked with the Indians on about 250 projects, from one-person businesses to a million-dollar oyster farm.

He moved to Ottawa in 1972 to become the head of economic development's agriculture, forestry and fisheries section, and then as manager of management reports and controls, his last position before becoming district manager.

Prior to joining the department he worked for various private national and international companies and government agencies.

HIKING

Crisp winter air. Bright sun. Forests and frozen lakes. Take some advice from the Red Cross and take a survival kit, warm clothing and a compass on your round trip hike.

Prolonged exposure to cold can mean the lowering of the internal body temperature. And that can mean a one way hike. It's your winter, use it wisely.

Cornie and Palma Penner joined other family members for dinner on Sunday at the home of Clarence and Alice Mahlum in Ryley. The occasion was the birthdays of Bob Penner, Thor Mahlum and their aunt, Olga.

Focus emphasis on MS research

The work facing Dr K.G. Warren does not promise to be easy. But it is important and could result in major contributions to medical knowledge.

The assistant professor of medicine came to the University of Alberta in July, his appointment integral to the increased emphasis which the University is giving to research related to multiple sclerosis. It will be up to Dr Warren to carry out, encourage, direct, and coordinate research into this disease common in Canada. About 1900 Albertans suffer from it.

Multiple sclerosis is a demyelinating disease of the brain and spinal cord or both; its cause is, as yet, unknown. However, observations of the disease and its pattern of occurrence have led medical researchers to speculate that its occurrence must depend upon a combination of factors - - a factor or factors in the individual makeup of a person combined with an environmental factor or factors. Weight is added to this belief by the fact that the disease is rare in tropical climates and there has never been a documented case of a full-blooded American Indian developing multiple sclerosis.

Dr Warren left the Wistar Institute of Anatomy and Biology at the University of Pennsylvania to come to Alberta. Previously he had studied medicine and neurology in London, Ontario. Multiple sclerosis has been his primary research interest for some time and, at the University of Alberta, he will continue his research in addition to co-ordinating multiple sclerosis research through the newly-established multiple sclerosis clinic.

Dr. Warren describes the University of Alberta as relatively well equipped with scientists who could make contributions in this area of medical research. The research itself is to have considerable breadth and depth; both the cause and the effects of the disease will be investigated. In the main, the research will be organized into four main fronts.

On one front, a "desperately needed" diagnostic test will be sought so that the disease might be detected in its earliest stages. In this regard, promise is shown in the work of Dr T A McPherson, assistant dean of medicine and director of the faculty's division of medical oncology, who has developed a radio-immuno assay to determine the level of myelin basic protein within an individual's cerbral spinal fluid – he hopes to show that the level is different in persons with multiple sclerosis.

On a second front, immunologist Dr John Dossetor is leading investigations in the area of immuno-genetics. Sought is a gene related to susceptibility to multiple sclerosis and the specific immune complexes - - antigen antibody complexes - - which combat the disease. If the complexes can be found they may provide clues as to its cause.

On another front, an epidemiology study - - that is a study of the occurrence and distribution of the disease - - is being undertaken by Dr Sharon Warren. Her search for clues to the cause of the disease will involve detailed questionnaires to help her obtain as much information as possible about the life history of those Albertans who have multiple sclerosis.

On the fourth front, researchers will attempt to find a virus involved in the occurrence of multiple sclerosis. Dr K G Warren says that medical scientists have good reason to believe that a virus is involved - - multiple sclerosis could be caused by a virus not yet identified or it could be an unusual disease caused by a known virus. It is on this front that Dr Warren himself will be working. Others working in this general area include Dr D.L. Tyrell and Dr R.G Marusyk.

In addition, the clinical effects of the disease are to be studied. This is important, says Dr. Warren, because, even if its cause eludes discovery, investigations of the clinical effects of the disease will allow the best patient care possible. In this regard, Dr R P Beck is pursuing research which may lead to improved treatment of urinary tract problems common to multiple sclerosis patients. Dr D.R. McLean is studying visual-evoked and auditory-evoked [redacted] and Dr T.A.S. Boyd is studying the eye movements and reading ability of multiple sclerosis patients.

Flagging motorists can be dangerous

The Accident Investigation Team of Alberta Transportation has noted that of pedestrians killed on Alberta highways during the past three years, six lost their lives while trying to flag down passing vehicles for assistance. In the same period there were nine other persons killed by other vehicles while in the vicinity of their own vehicles.

Moments before these fatal crashes the victims had experienced a vehicle breakdown, ran off the roadway, or became stuck in snow filled ditches. All occurred during the hours of darkness.

A spokesman for the Accident Investigation Team further noted that most of these fatality victims had all placed themselves directly in the path of the vehicle [redacted] were trying to [redacted] for assistance.

The spokesman recommends that drivers who desire assistance at night would be much better to activate the four way flashers or inside dome lights of their disabled vehicles. Most passing drivers will stop on such signal to render assistance.

Kingman news

by Sharon Sandy

Tommy and Lois Maunder have returned from a trip to British Columbia where they visited with friends in the Slocan area.

Fred Evenson, Harvey Hovelson and Rosie Kosack have all returned home after being patients in the St. Mary's Hospital in the last couple of weeks.

Mrs. Alvina Gibson was a hostess for an Artex party held in her home on February 2nd, with several ladies attending.

February 5th evening visitors at the Dick Sandy home were Debbie, Murray and Debbie Johnson, Neida and Larry Kosack and Ann Hnacock.

The Kingman - Round Hill Kindergarten children, their teachers, and several mothers enjoyed a Valentines party on Feb. 13th.

Edith, Raymond, Debbie, Murray and Debbie Johnson were to Edmonton on Feb. 11th where they visited with Fern and Jim Russell.

Dennis, Karen and Jessica McLaughlin returned home on Feb. 13th from a two-week holiday in Barbados. Karen reported they had a very good time. The cost of food is very high, and judging by their tans, the weather must have been beautiful.

Mrs. Alvina Gibson and Mrs. Barbara Peterson attended a jewellery party held at the home of Rita Anderson, on Friday afternoon.

The very cold weather these past few weeks has saw the cancellation of Kingman's Friday evening skating parties, but hopefully, there will be several skating parties this season when we have warmer temperatures. The silver Club was also forced to cancel their Valentines day meeting due to the weather.

Joyce, Walter and Robin Hay of Enderby, B.C visited with Joyce's parents, Bob and Josie Bowick, from the 8th to the 10th of this month. Also visiting at the Bowick's on the 9th were Mr and Mrs Marven Bowick and family of Sherwood Park, Mr and Mrs Grant Bowick and Dwaine, Mae and Joulain Simonson.

On Feb. 17th, the Gibson family celebrated Garry's birthday with a supper at the Alice Hotel. Those attending were Clifford and Ruth, Garry and Jimmy Gibson, Amy Harris, Lori Kraus, Mr and Mrs Gordie Kerr and Family, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Dungavell and family, and Arthur Hudson.

John, Nellie and Larry Kosack and Helen and Bobby Kosack were visitors at Soady's on Feb. 17th, for [illegible]

Steve, Barbara, Jack and Morley Kosack of Ryley were Sunday afternoon visitors with the Joe Kosack family.

Peachy Stauffer celebrated her birthday on Feb 17th. She and Garry visited with Eras Stauffer, and Garry's brother, Edward and Arleen Stauffer, on Saturday evening. On Sunday, they were to Peachy's mother's, Ann Austen of Edmonton, where they also saw Peachy's sister, Margaret Sinari, her husband and family. It was interesting to note that Peachy, her sister and their brother, all have their birthdays on Feb. 17th.

Helping Evelyn Gunderson to celebrate her birthday on Feb. 17th were Tillie Winder, Gertrude Asp, Mabel Simonson, and Liz Freese.

Wilfrid, Kathleen, Kathy and Karen Johnson and Bill and Ingrid Simonson were to Mr. and Mrs. Donald Johnson's of Fort Saskatchewan on Sunday, to help Donald celebrate his birthday.

Around the town

Dr. Shirley Stinson spent a few days in town visiting her mother, Mary Stinson, who is in hospital.

News has been received of the death of Mrs. Ella Waack of Clarenholm. Mrs. Waack was a sister of Fred, Ed and Bill Tiedemann, of the Tofield area.

Mr. and Mrs Ed Boettger have returned home from a month's holiday spent in Oregon, California and [illegible]

Sun blinks Monday

Next Monday, Feb. 26, people in the Camrose district will be treated to a celestial spectacular, when a near-total eclipse of the sun occurs.

This phenomenon happens when the moon passes directly between the sun and the earth, a spectacle that won't be visible in North American again until sometime in the next century.

Although we don't lie directly in the path of totality (the moon blocks out the entire disc of the sun), nearly 98 per cent of the sun will be obscured in this area by the earth's satellite.

RAYS FROM THE SUN
Aluminum foil reflecting rays into box (pointing to center of sun)
Round hole in bottom for slipping "Sunscope" over the head
White paper taped to inside end

Parts of southern Manitoba will experience a total eclipse, while across Alberta, it varies from 90 per cent in Peace River to 95 per cent in Lethbridge.

On Monday morning of the eclipse in this area, the sun rises at 7:32 a.m. and a thin slice of the star will disappear behind our dark moon at 8:39 a.m.

By 9 a.m., the eclipse should become noticeable when more than 50 per cent of the sun's surface is blocked out.

Daylight then begins to fade, until the midway point is reached at approximately 9:30 a.m., leaving 95 per cent of the sun's surface eclipsed.

Darkness at this stage might be further enhanced by cloud cover and the only natural light may be much like that given off on the night of a full moon. A slight drop in temperature is possible, as well.

From this point on, the moon gradually passes over the sun and by 10:45 a.m., normal daylight will have been restored.

Although the opportunity to witness such an event is rare, everyone should be aware of the dangers involved.

Watching the eclipse without adequate safeguards for the eyes can result in burning of the retina and permanent loss of vision in varying degrees.

Sunglasses, binoculars, tinted and smoked glasses, exposed camera film and neutral density filters are not sufficient to view the eclipse, because they cannot adequately prevent the sun from burning its image into the centre of the eye forever.

Number 14 welder's glasses have been found safe to place over the eyes or camera lens, but television is still recommended as the safest and easiest way to follow the eclipse.

However, the Manitoba Optometric Association has come up with a more personal method to view the spectacle indirectly, by an inexpensive telescope that anyone can build.

This device enables you to point a "pin-hole lens" at the sun while you watch a clearly projected image on a piece of paper taped on the other end of the box.

Instructions on how to build and use a sunscope are provided below:

Building and Using a Sunscope

1. Fasten a piece of white paper over the inside of one of the small ends of an oblong cardboard box about 1' x 1' x 3'.

2. Cut a 1" hole in the opposite small end. Cover the hole with aluminum foil.

3. Make a pinhole in the foil.

4. Cut a hole slightly larger than your head in the bottom of the box.

5. Seal all light leaks with black tape or paper.

To use the sunscope, STAND WITH YOUR BACK TO THE SUN, the box over your head, and look at the image projected through the pinhole onto the white paper. You can have a trial run before the eclipse by using the sunscope to watch clouds passing by in front of the sun.

NOTE: Do not look at the sun directly or through the pinhole — look at the image projected on the white paper.

Pastor J. McKinstry

There is an interesting verse of Scripture found in the Third letter of John. It should cause each one of us to be disturbed if the thought was to be applied personally to our lives. John's word is actually a reversal of the thinking pattern of the average church-going person. Writing to "the beloved Gaius" he says, "I had amassed. This is how we pray that you may enjoy good health and that all may go well with you, even as your soul is [illegible]."

John does not desire his friend to measure his spirituality in proportion to the wealth and property he tend to gauge ourselves and take our spiritual temperature. See how healthy I am; see how much I have gained in the material realm. Why, I really am spiritual because I am so healthy and [illegible].

In all sincerity, if the words of John were to be applied to our individual situation, just how large, or small, would our bank balance be? How generous would the bank manager have to be because of the constant running to him for loans to boost our sagging financial situation. How often would we require the services of the medical profession to keep our bodies in a functioning state?

John was gauging his friend's spirituality by certain visible conditions. He was aware of the relationship which this man maintained between himself and God. It was something John could see. But what was as important, others saw and they carried the same testimony about this man of God. His faith reached up to God, and his hands were stretched out in help to his neighbour at the same time. It was the balanced life of faith and works which made what he believed something worthwhile to be talked about by the onlookers. This is a sensitive balance which many are not able to achieve and maintain in the christian life. The spiritual is stressed at the expense of the physical, or an extended effort is made to alleviate the physical suffering while the soul is left to suffer and remain in the state of death in which the person was born. Gaius had been able to arrive at the happy medium, to strike the true balance of the two, thereby arousing praise, and joy in the heart of his ageing friend, [illegible].

Such a balance was only possible as the result of a close relationship with His God. He loved God first, and he loved others. These were his first concerns, and apparently all he did was without putting himself into the picture. That was why John wished him personal benefits, and in direct proportion to his submission and surrender to God.

May you be as healthy and prosperous in every way as you are now prospering in your soul.

Home care discussed

A general meeting for nursing home care was held in the Tofield Council Chambers on Monday night.

It was decided that contact should be made with church groups to see what types of volunteer services were presently being offered in the community, and to relay this information to the Vegreville Health Unit Co-ordinator, Mrs. Gloria Lerrard.

Mrs. Leila Arbon agreed to be a contact person for recruiting volunteers to help with different phases of the program. Anyone interested should contact her at 662-3313.

The central committee representative's position is still vacant and anyone interested should call Gladys Whyte at 662-3269.

The next meeting of the group will be held on March 27th.

Participate in Canada's Employment Tax Credit Program.

The Employment Tax Credit Program was introduced by the Government of Canada to stimulate employment in the private sector.

In essence, we're encouraging you to expand your work force by providing a tax break for your business.

The potential annual tax credit for each new employee is over $3,000. And there is no limit to the number of new employees you can hire.

Now, by using the experience we've gained so far, we've changed the program to make it even more attractive.

Up to 35½% more tax credit.

The maximum term for the tax credit has been increased from nine to 12 months for each new employee. That means up to 33⅓% more tax credit.

Greater eligibility.

We have expanded the number and types of businesses eligible to benefit. Now almost every business that's been operating in Canada for a year or more can join in.

Wider choice of new employees.

Now, almost anyone who's unemployed and registered at a Canada Employment Centre for a minimum of two weeks is eligible.

A minimum of red tape.

We've simplified the procedure, so you can do the whole thing, from beginning to end, with just two single-page forms.

For full details on the program, contact any Canada Employment Centre/Canada Manpower Centre.

Recreation Report

Most of you are aware that I will be leaving my position of program supervisor at the end of February. As of to-date, the regional management board are unsure whether they will be hiring a future program supervisor due to budget restrictions. Therefore, I am starting no new projects, just trying to finish up on the old.

Senior Citizen's

Well, last night, despite the cold weather, we danced all night. Since there seemed to be no break in the weather and time was running out for me, we decided to go ahead with the activities. We had kind of a bad time getting started with the band getting stuck in route to the dance, but when they arrived we got down to some serious dancing.

There were approximately one hundred senior's out for the dance representing the County from one corner to the other corner. Lunch was put on by the Viking Senior Citizen's and dance music provided by the Jim Davis Bank of Vegreville.

The evening was made very special for me by the seniors of the County. My Grandpa and Grandma Burnham bought me a huge birthday cake which was divided one hundred ways. I was also presented with some momentums to remember the town of Viking by. Thankyou Seniors for making the evening so special for me. I'll remember your kindness for years to come.

IN MEMORIAM

GARDEAU: In loving memory of our dear husband and Father Peter, who passed away Feb. 24, 1978.
Three years has passed since that sad day
The one we loved had passed away
You suffered much in silence
Your spirit did not part
You faced your pain with courage
Until the very end
We hold our tears when we speak
Of your name
But the ashes in our hearts
Remain the same
Always remembered and sadly missed by his wife Mary and daughter Louise 24c-4610

HICKS: In loving memory of my wife Gladys, who passed away Feb. 20, 1977.
No one knows how much I miss her,
How shall her memory fade,
Loving thoughts shall ever wander
To the spot where she is laid.
Lovingly remembered — Ed 24p-2114
